MINER TELLS OF HALLUCINATIONS

'I Saw People and Doors That Weren't There'

Miners Henry Throne and David Fellin suffered pain, hunger, thirst and hallucinations while trapped for two weeks more than 300 feet underground in a Pennsylvania mine. Throne tells of the ordeal in this exclusive Associated Press article.

As told to The Associated Press

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—There were times when we saw people that weren't there and lights that weren't there and doors that weren't there.

Imagine seeing a door like a regular house door down in the bottom of a mine!

There was a time we heard rain and it really was raining coming down the drainage pipes and we thought the water would back up and flood the mine and drown us.

And while it was raining, I got mad—I must've been off my rocker a little—and I yelled at Davey: "Davey, I'm going home. I'm going alone if you don't want to come."

But, of course, I wasn't going anywhere. Not then. We were still more than 300 feet down. We still had a week to go before we could stand and walk again, not just sit and crawl, before we could breathe clear air again and see real light again.

But maybe I had better start at the beginning. That's the only way I can get it clear in my own mind. So much got so mixed up later we couldn't tell day from the night or Monday from Sunday.

That first day, that Tuesday, Aug. 13, I went to work about 7:15 in the morning. It was a nice sunny day. I had no special thoughts, no hunches about something bad. It was just an ordinary working day.

We—that's David Fellin, Louis Bova and me—we got down in the hole about 7:30 and by 8 we had filled the first buggy (a small wagon carrying coal to the surface). We were on the bottom of the mine, in a tunnel, where the sump water collects. Davey and me were on the right side of the shaft and Louis was on the left, separated by the buggy tracks.

Louis rapped three times for the buggy to go up and it went up and dumped the coal. Coming down, it got only half way down. That's when the big rumble started. And all hell broke loose. The timbers on the wall next to us caved in and the timbers on the ceiling above us came down. We just managed to step aside in time as the big chunks of wood and coal and stone fell wildly around us.

We could see Louis on the other side until the power line to our work lights broke. For the next couple of hours we could see a little around us with the lights on our helmets. But then they burned out. Our matches wouldn't burn down there. And that was the end of light for the next 5½ days.

In the first hour and a half, we just sat there against the wall while the debris piled higher before us in the tunnel. The rumbling from the cave-in lasted that long. There were others later.

I hollered for Louis but there was no answer. After a while we started crawling over the debris. All our tools—the picks, the bars, the shovels and our lunch pails—were lost under the pile except for a mason hammer and a hatchet. The mason hammer broke soon afterward. All we had was a hatchet to cut our way over the junk.

Oh, yes, we also had a plastic jug which we filled with the sulphur water that dripped into the tunnel.

We started crawling around in the dark looking for a way out. We went this way and we went that way and sometimes we thought we were back where we started and most times we just didn't know.

We were lost. But we kept crawling around like that for almost six days looking for a way out.

Always, sleeping, crawling or sitting, it was on sharp chunks of rock and coal. We got cut up a lot on our hands and knees and elbows.

To keep warm, I'd sit with my legs spread and Davey would sit between my legs with his back to me and I'd breathe on his back and neck. All the time we're rocking back and forth, also to keep warm. Then Davey would switch and do the same

MINE BLAST

9 Alive, 3 Rescued

(Times News Services)

MOAB, Utah — Three trapped miners, haggard and near collapse, were pulled out of a 2,700-foot mine shaft near here today.

Rescue was on the way for at least six more miners known to be alive somewhere below the 2,700-foot level of the potash mine. Fate of 16 other men trapped by an explosion Tuesday was not known.

Names and condition of the other two were not determined immediately. Seven of the 25 men in the mine were Canadians.

Hanna was brought up first by rescue workers who gave him oxygen from a portable container while he was lifted to the earth's surface in a bucket used for ore.

Both men were able to stand on their feet when they reached the top shortly before noon. They had been imprisoned since the explosion nearly 19 hours before, at 4:40 p.m. Tuesday.

A rescue worker this morning made voice contact with the nine men known to be alive.

The worker, one of a dozen rescuers who braved deadly gases and 130-degree heat in search of the trapped men, said he made the voice contact while exploring debris deep in the mine.

He said the men were behind boulders. He asked how many were alive, and the answer was "nine."

CONSTRUCTION MEN

All of the trapped men were construction workers. They were in the mine Tuesday afternoon when an explosion rocked the multi-million dollar potash facility situated in a ruggedly beautiful valley in the remote southeast corner of the state known as the Utah Badlands.

Rescue teams encountered carbon monoxide fumes as they went into the charred shaft, but they said air pockets may have been formed in the mine, permitting survivors of the explosion to breathe.

The vertical mine shaft plunges 2,713 feet into the earth, and two drifts or tunnels branch out from the bot-

NO ANSWER FROM THIRD MAN

SHEPPTON, Pa. (UPI)—Rescuers drilled through 305 feet of earth, rock and coal today to the chamber where they believe Louis Bova has been trapped since Aug 13. They shouted to him, but there was no response.

"Hello, Lou," shouted a rescue worker through an amplifier directed into the hole. "If you can hear me, rap on something."

There was no answer.

The call was repeated, but again there was no response.

Rescuers also lowered a microphone and still camera to detect possible signs of life. They also planned to lower a small television camera.

FELLIN:

I Should Have Been Out Earlier

HAZELTON, Pa. (UPI)—"I should have been out by the fifth day."

David Fellin told a news conference that is the way he felt about his 15 day entombment more than 300 feet underground at nearby Sheppton, Pa.

"I should have been rescued by manual labor," he said.

Although Fellin said he was not criticizing the rescue operations, he indicated that he would have been brought to the surface 10 days earlier had workers dug through the blocked passageway of the mine instead of drilling an escape shaft from the surface.

Fellin also said he believes Louis Bova, 42, the man left behind in the mine cave-in, was alive.

Fellin said his fifth day underground was "the worst."

New Heart Valve Grafted Into Woman

LEEDS, England (Reuters)—Surgeons here have successfully transplanted a dead man's heart valve to the heart of a woman under-going an operation, it was announced today.

The woman's heart was stopped for three hours during the 12-hour operation, performed a week ago.

After the operation, watched by surgeons from the United States, Italy and Turkey, the woman, 38-year-old Mrs. Violet Scott, was reported to be "doing fine."

The operation was carried out at Leeds Infirmary, international - recognized centre for heart surgery, by a team of 20 surgeons, heart specialists, doctors and nurses.

Mrs. Scott's heart now is beating normally again and she is expected to be discharged from the hospital shortly.

The valve was removed from the dead man with the permission of his relatives and was kept in deep freeze.

'Freedom for Everyone' Demanded by Marchers

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than 200,000 Negroes and whites marched to the shrine of Abraham Lincoln today in a dramatic pledge to struggle for jobs and freedom for all Americans.

Packed elbow to elbow around the memorial, they heard their leaders call for the U.S. Congress to pass laws to end all manner of racial discrimination and enable the unemployed to find dignified work with decent wages.

It was a mixed crowd—black and white, young and old, Christians and Jews. Negroes predominated.

With the marchers was a nine-man delegation from Canada carrying big signs reading Canada Marches. Leaders of the group were Don Roebuck of Toronto and Peter Light of Vancouver. Both are white.

Josephine Baker, the famous old Negro entertainer who has lived in Paris for many years, looked down from the speaker's platform at the memorial and called it "salt and pepper—just what it should be, a united people."

"Fight for your rights, the rights of man," she urged. "continue on, you can't go wrong."

Dr. Ralph Bunche, U.S. undersecretary for political affairs in the United Nations secretariat, said the presence of demonstrators from both races was dramatic evidence that the problem of civil rights is a major one.

"Anyone who can't understand the significance of your presence here today is blind and deaf," Bunche, a Negro told the crowd.

Jovial Crowd, Religious Overtones

It was a jovial crowd—a crowd that cheered its leaders, clapped for its entertainers and laughed at the jokes.

Yet there were religious tones, not only from the presence of many clergymen of varying faiths but in the songs and reactions of the people themselves. There were times when it seemed half prayer meeting and half revival meeting.

And it was an orderly crowd. In the early afternoon, police reported there had been only two arrests—neither one of demonstrators. They identified those arrested as a deputy leader of the American Nazi Party, who disregarded warnings against trying to make speeches, and a 20-year-old youth who they said grabbed a banner from a marcher and broke it.

The small army of police and troops on duty in the area had little to do except run down false rumors. One of these was that a bomb had been planted in the Washington Monument. Park police cleared everybody out, checked the place and found nothing.

The day was fair and sunny. The temperature was 78 degrees at 1 p.m.

But scores in the crowd were overcome by emotions and heat. Most were treated at first-aid stations. Of the first 11 taken to District of Columbia General Hospital, only one was admitted. The others were treated and released.

Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth, Birmingham, Ala. Negro civil rights leader, brought a roar with a brief speech declaring "everybody in America has got to be free."

"We're going to moan together, groan together," he said, in the fight for "freedom, freedom, freedom!" Then the crowd roared its approval again.

Long before the ceremonies at the memorial, the police estimate of the crowd had climbed to 110,000. And for long after that, buses and cars kept dropping off new arrivals at the Washington Monument grounds, from where they marched to the Lincoln Memorial.

Advance crowd estimates had reached to 250,000.

The march of less than a mile from the monument to the Lincoln Memorial, actually got under way nearly a half hour before the 11:30 a.m. scheduled time.

Slowly, the crowd with a

NEWSMAN HELD IN FRACAS AT DOCKYARD

HALIFAX (UPI) — Ronald Brunskill, 32, a Halifax newspaper reporter, appeared in city police court today charged with assault causing bodily harm to a commissionaire on duty at the naval dockyard.

Brunskill, a shipping reporter for the Chronicle-Herald and the Mail Star, pleaded innocent and was released on $1,000 bail until Sept. 13 for trial.

The incident was alleged to have occurred when Brunskill attempted to enter the dockyard on an assignment for his newspaper.

The newspaper said that naval officials had authorized the reporter's admission before he went on the assignment.

Pension Plan Goes Ahead

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today the government intends to go ahead as planned with work on the Canada Pensions Plan despite the calling of two and possibly three provincial elections this fall.

He told reporters after a two-hour cabinet meeting that preparations are nearing completion for a federal-provincial conference opening Sept. 9 at which details of the pension proposal will be given to the provinces.

The desire of Ontario and Quebec to introduce their own portable pensions schemes creates "quite a problem," which he hopes can be avoided, the prime minister said.

"It would be quite a problem if the two largest provinces found it impossible to cooperate with the federal scheme, and I hope that will not happen."

LONDON (CP)—The mass civil rights march on Washington today commanded world-wide support as sympathy demonstrations were planned in other cities including Munich, Tel Aviv and Cairo.

STEVENSON BLASTS SYRIA IN UN

'Reprehensible' Murder

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson today called for the "strongest condemnation" by the United Nations Security Council of the "reprehensible" murder of two Israeli farmers by raiders from Syria.

Stevenson used strong words in his speech to the council meeting held at the urgent request of Israel and Syria to consider the latest flare-up of violence along their portentially explosive border.

The American ambassador told the council that it had been called upon to consider Israel's complaint of the "wanton murder" of two of its citizens.

"The picture of two innocent farmers murdered in cold blood by a raiding party which struck them down in the fields distresses us all," he said.

Stevenson noted that the Aug. 19 incident north of the Sea of Galilee followed closely the kidnapping by Syrians of three Israelis, including two young girls, in the same region.

"The United States deplores these incidents," Stevenson said.

He said that while the report on the latest incident by the UN truce supervision organization called the evidence circumstantial, "its implications are clear enough."

The evidence, he said, added up to "a clear picture which permits objective observers to draw the same conclusions about the origin of the attack."

He said the UN truce investigation had failed to corroborate Syria's counter-complaint concerning a clash on Aug. 20.

Two Victorians Advance In Golf

Ricky Kent went down to an upset defeat at Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club this morning as two of four Victoria players in the running were ousted in the first round of the Canadian junior golf championship.

Kent lost, 3 and 1, to Martin Mason, Milton, Ont., and Don Wilson lost to Pierre Rossignol, Bathurst, N.B., 3 and 2.

Advancing to this afternoon's second round were Gary Smith, a 3 and 1 winner over Brian Bamford, Saskatoon, and Noel Pumfrey, who beat Don Henderson, Montreal, on the 19th.

Pearson Raps Soviet Envoy Over Criticism of N-Arms

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Soviet Ambassador to Canada Ivan F. Shpedko today got a public reprimand from Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Pearson hotly described as "of dubious propriety indeed" Mr. Shpedko's recently voiced criticism of Canada's signing of an agreement for the supply of U.S. nuclear weapons to Canadian forces.

It was strictly a matter of domestic Canadian policy in which the ambassador had no right interfering, the prime minister made clear.

Ambassador Shpedko made his critical comments last weekend on a west coast visit. He took the position that the agreement made with the U.S. by Canada made Canada a new target in the event of war between the Soviets and the U.S.

PEARSON
. . . pulls no punches

The prime minister, a one-time diplomat and former external affairs minister, was asked as he entered a cabinet meeting if he had any comment on the propriety of the remarks of Mr. Shpedko. He replied quickly and warmly: "Yes, it is of very dubious propriety indeed to make any comment on a matter of domestic policy. If the Canadian ambassador said anything like that in Moscow undoubtedly he would hear about it."

Would Mr. Pearson seek the ambassador's recall?

No, he answered, he wouldn't think any action so drastic as that would be required.

Having incurred the wrath of the Canadian prime minister, however, it is not expected that the ambassador's stay in Canada will be long.

Mr. Shpedko was appointed to the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa last spring and took over the post in April.

I say, now, really, chaps department: Monday night the big but ancient yacht Aquilo was inbound off the Oak Bay waterfront when the telephone rang at the B.C. Pilotage office.

When dispatch clerk Cliff Dawe answered, an irate voice said: "I say, now, whatever is that Yankee yacht doing in our waters without flying a courtesy flag?"

Cliff allowed as how he didn't know, and there wasn't much he could do about it. But he said the yacht would berth in the Inner Harbor, and why didn't the caller go down and give the owner a piece of his mind?

The thing I like about the city's civic precinct committee decision to install a central heating plant for the seven-building complex is a fringe benefit—beauty.

Only one chimney, and that will not be visible, will be needed for the whole of the Victoria Centennial Square project.

That should give architects more scope in producing pleasing designs.

Direct benefits of course include a slight edge in economy and efficiency over individual furnaces in each building—not to mention the saving in masonry costs for six multi-storied chimneys.

Divers Earn World Meet Opportunity

Two Victorians and a Port Alberni man have qualified to compete in world spear fishing competition in Brazil Dec. 10.

Their biggest stumbling block is the lack of $4,000 to take themselves and a coach the 7,500 air miles to the South American country.

Ray Linden, 31, of 1256 Yates, said the team wants to retain its amateur standing but public offers of help will be accepted by Dave McGregor, president of the Vancouver Island Council of Divers, telephone GR 9-3918.

The council is arranging the trip "with the help and generosity of Pacific Underwater Council," the equivalent divers' organization on the B.C. mainland.

Linden, with Allen Hook, 28, of 766 Hutchinson, and Ken Styan, 28, of Port Alberni, comprise the team. They will be joined by PUC's Gino Gemma, of Vancouver, who will be coach.

ELIMINATION

It will be the second time a Victoria team has taken part in a world spear fishing event. In 1958 Jim Land, Gary Wilson and Werner Kaizer went to Grand Bahama as one of 19 teams seeking the world title.

They were the only team to take a shark, and landed the second largest fish and placed ninth overall.

He described the Aug. 13 cave-in "like a matchbox in your hand and you have just crushed it."

His physician, Dr. Anthony Fedullo, was at his side.

Fellin and Throne each received bouquets of flowers from Gov. and Mrs. William W. Scranton. The card was signed "Mary and Bill."

Meanwhile, John Bova, brother of the imprisoned man, is openly and bitterly critical of the rescue operation, charging that his brother was neglected in the all-out effort to free Fellin and Throne.

. . . MINE BLAST

tom. One shaft is 3,300 feet long and drops at a 10 per cent grade while the other, 2,500 feet long, is level for a short distance and then goes downward at a 14 per cent grade.

Mine officials said the nine men were in one of the horizontal passageways. They said they were "undoubtedly" near the vertical shaft since their voices could be heard.

The rescue worker who made contact with the men had to wear an oxygen mask to survive the deadly gases. Other rescuers were setting up a pipeline to pump fresh air into the shaft.

The Utah highway patrol was flying a shipment of blood to I. W. Allen Hospital at Moab, where the men will be taken when they are brought out of the mine.

BLOWN TO SAFETY

Matt Rauhala, 47, a bucket dumper at the mine, escaped injury Tuesday when the explosion blew him through a plywood wind shield atop the mine shaft.

"The way the explosion knocked me back, I'm sure it must have come from the bottom of the mine," he said. "The explosion was so strong I really don't think anyone in the bottom could have survived it."

Mine officials were unsure just where the trapped men were working when the blast occurred.

State mine inspector Steve Hatsis had described the situation earlier as "very, very grim."

Hatsis reported that huge quantities of carbon dioxide were flowing from the mine. He said the carbon dioxide meant that debris probably was still smoldering in the mine, designed primarily for commercial fertilizer production.

The men had been working in three groups — one in a shop area near the base of the shaft and the others in the two horizontal passageways tunneled in opposite directions from the shaft.

Workers at the International Minerals and Chemicals Potash mine at Esterhazy, 20 miles east of Regina, said they recognized seven names of trapped men as those of eastern Canadians who had worked at Esterhazy.

. . . MARCHERS

forest of signs started along broad Constitution Avenue.

Held aloft were placards such as:

"Segregation disunites the United States."

"In freedom we were born. In freedom we must live."

The demonstration was a giant demand that racial discrimination be abolished, root and branch, throughout American life.

Just about everybody, Negro and white, was polite and evidently intent on proving false some advance predictions that there might be an explosion of disorder.

The detailed police planning—and the crowd's co-operation—were sights to behold as they worked out in practice.

Not all the marchers were sombre, by any means.

Enthusiasm of a Football Crowd

Someone started to yell an anti-segregation slogan at one point, and this was taken up for a time with the enthusiasm of a football crowd. After a while another section of marchers again generated enthusiasm by signing a song made popular by Negro sit-in demonstrators and sung to the tune of a Protestant hymn, I shall not be Moved.

This also faded after a while and the crowd sang—this time more softly—Glory, Glory Hallelujah.

At first glance it would appear that there were almost as many signs as marchers but actually it worked out to about one sign for every 15 marchers or so.

The religious tone was reflected in signs which proclaimed, "God of justice, God of power, can America deny freedom in this hour?"

Shortly after noon a group of entertainment personalities, including actor Marlon Brando and singers Harry Belafonte and Sammy Davis Jr., arrived on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial. They were welcomed by Negro leader Rev. Martin Luther King.

Jackie Robinson, first Negro to play major-league baseball, told the crowd:

"I know all of us are going to go away feeling . . . we cannot turn back."

Negro singer Lena Horne, wearing the yellow legionnaire cap of the marchers, shouted: "Freedom!" into the microphone and got a roar of "freedom!" back from the crowd.

Police reported that one bus load of demonstrators was stoned by three white youths as it proceeded along the Baltimore-Washington parkway toward the U.S. capital.

Juvenile Rock-Throwers In Custody

Police said one window of the bus was broken but that there were no injuries. They said three juveniles living in the Bladensburg, Md., area, were taken into custody.

While the demonstration area was thronged, Police inspector Alexander S. Douglass said: "It's like Sunday. . . ."

This appeared to be the case generally outside the demonstration area. About half of the downtown area's workers appeared to have stayed home today and commuter buses were strangely empty.

Most of the Congress members who went to the memorial exercises were already committed to support one or more of the pending bills known as civil rights legislation, sponsored by President Kennedy.

It appeared doubtful that any legislative votes were being changed by what march leaders called this "new concept of lobbying" or by pre-march personal calls the march leaders made on Democratic and Republic leaders of the Senate and House of Representatives. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said no commitments were asked or given in the session with him.

Roy Wilkins, Negro executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois pledged support for all of the U.S. administration's civil rights program except the Public Accommodations Bill. This has been Dirksen's position all along.

Wilkins said House Republican Leader Charles Halleck of Indiana told the march leaders he was "holding conferences (on the legislation) and the Republican attitude always has been friendly to civil rights."

House Speaker John W. McCormack (Dem. Mass.) was quoted as predicting the House would pass a strong civil rights bill.

Russ Trawlers 'Being Watched'

HALIFAX (CP)—A concentration of about 40 Russian fishing vessels was reported today about 20 miles off Moser River on Nova Scotia's eastern shore, about 80 miles east of here.

A spokesman for the navy here said it was aware of the concentration, which he described as "fairly common." He said the navy presumed the vessels were looking for fish, but was keeping an eye on them. They included a number of factory ships and trawlers.

MOSCOW (AP)—The Moscow Medical Journal says Ashkanger Bania, who remarried when he was 112 years old and later had a son, has died at 147 in his native Georgia, a region with more than 2,000 residents older than 100.

Douks Accepting Food in Prison

AGASSIZ, B.C. (CP)—Sons of Freedom Doukhobors now are accepting food at Mountain Prison with only the slightest persuasion, Penitentiaries Commissioner Allen MacLeod announced Tuesday.

He said none of the 95 or so in the institution need to be tube-fed any longer.

Tuesday, in the 38th day of their hunger strike, all that was needed was a hand to guide their own hands to their mouths.

The commissioner's statement was the first indication of a major change in the attitude of the prisoners, although one died since the strike began, another seven were taken to hospital, and four were transferred to B.C. Penitentiary.

INSIDE JOB

Buzzing Mystery 'Cleaned Up'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A worker unloading a suitcase from a plane at Las Vegas' McCarran Field noticed that something inside the bag was buzzing and clicking.

George Gregg, chief agent for Bonanza Airlines, quickly notified a sheriff's deputy while the suitcase was rushed 500 yards away from the terminal.

Deputy Lee Lambert called the fire department and the sheriff's office, which in turn called the FBI and the Nellis Air Force Base bomb squad.

Meanwhile, police reached H. J. Dekanter, owner of the bag, at his room at a Las Vegas hotel. Detectives took Dekanter, of Fort Worth, Tex., to the airport.

. . . THRONE'S STORY

for me. We'd do this for five or 10 minutes at a time. Then we'd stop but only for five minutes, say, because then we'd be cold again. Most times it felt like about 30 degrees above zero.

To keep warm, we'd sleep face to face with our arms around each other. We'd sleep maybe a half-hour and then the cold would wake us and we'd start rocking again to get some circulation. I had on jeans, boots, socks, T-shirt and sweatshirt. Every now and then I'd pull the sweatshirt over my head so my body would get the warm air of my breath.

SAW SAME THINGS

I'd sleep. I'd wake up. And I'd see all kinds of lights and the actual figures of people. They now tell me these were hallucinations but the crazy thing is that Davey would see these things the same time I did.

The lights and the figures always were in front of us but the more we crawled toward them the further away they got. For example, I saw this man, or the dark shape of a man with a light on his helmet. I yelled: "Show me some light over here! Over here!" Davey saw him too, but the shape of the man got smaller and smaller as we crawled toward him and then he was gone altogether.

The fifth day was the worst. I think that was the closest we came to death. That's when it started raining and we could hear it coming down the drainage pipes and we thought we'd be drowned. Thank God it rained only about 20 minutes.

RAN WILD

But in that time I started running around wild. That's when I saw a door, just like a regular house door.

"Davey let's go there," I yelled.

I crawled as fast as I could toward it but suddenly I found myself bumping into just another piece of timber. That's when I got the bruise under my eye.

For the first two days, we didn't touch the lousy sulphur water. But then we couldn't hold out. At first it tasted bitter but it got better or seemed better.

Hungry? That's the screwy part of it. Although I had only a glass of milk and two cups of coffee before I went into the mine Aug. 13, for some reason I didn't think much about it for the first five days. Maybe I was too concerned about getting out and just concentrating on that.

ATE BARK

But suddenly early in the sixth day, suddenly I got so hungry I ate some bark from an old timber. It tasted terrible. Other times we just sucked the water out of the bark.

We kept crawling in all directions looking for a way out in those first few days. Sometimes we'd crawl one way for two city blocks.

At about 3:15 of probably the sixth day—don't ask me if it was a.m. or p.m. — I heard Louis holler out. This was the first and only time we heard Hank, where are you? This is him. He yelled: "Davey and Louis. I got a light. I'll drop it five feet in front of you."

It sounded like it was coming from above. Now, this was real. I'll admit other things were imagined. But this was real. I actually heard Louis. But we couldn't find him or his light. And we never heard him again.

PRAYED OFTEN

We prayed two or three times an hour. "Dear Lord, help us get out, help us get out." I said it aloud over and over. For 11 days, till they got that 12-inch hole down, we couldn't stand. My feet are still numb at the toes because of the little circulation. While we were down there, I got this sharp needle pain in my feet and then I'd get it in my back and I'd forget the pain in my feet and then I'd get one in my hip and I'd forget the one in my back.

What did I think about? I thought of Gene Gibbons (Fellin's partner in the mine operation) and why didn't he get us out? I thought about my wife and our twin girls and the guys I hung around with at Ann's Cafe in Hazleton. I said many times I'd sure like a beer. Most of all, I wanted to see daylight and wanted to get home.

LITTLE ROOM

We kept shoring up the ceiling with timber and as we did the ceiling kept getting lower until on the last day we had only 18 inches between our heads and the roof of the tunnel.

And then suddenly on the sixth day came the miracle. We hadn't heard that first drill coming down. First thing we knew a microphone was dropped down a hole near us. We heard voices yelling our names from above.

They asked us what we needed and soon we got clothes and hamburgers and soup and coffee. We weren't cheering yet. We were far from certain of getting out.

We ate that first food too fast and got stomach cramps. Then I asked for and got some chewing tobacco and then we slept for a couple of hours.

LIGHTS LOWERED

Work lights were lowered on a cord. Later they sent us flashlights.

That first hole was just for food and communications.

Thank God, they reached us with the first 12-inch hole.

We could hear the drill coming all the way down. It felt like it was coming directly at my head. And suddenly there it was, busting through, just two or three feet away.

This time we cheered. This time we shook hands. Now for the first time I was beginning to feel optimistic.

They sent us heating pads (powered by an electric line from above) and one sleeping bag. One of us would work while the other slept. They sent us timbers and boards and nails and we kept shoring up our ceiling.

'COMING UP'

And now it was Monday, Aug. 26. It was 6:01 p.m., they told us the big reamer that was widening the hole to 18 inches was only six inches over us. Twenty minutes later that big gorgeous reamer broke through! I yelled up: "Send a line down. I'm coming up."

Finally, there it was—the surface, the air, the people.

As the air hit me, I felt dizzy and fell into that basket-type stretcher. I was thinking: "I'm out now, I'm out now." And I cried for the first time.

Until now, I never went to church more than a couple of times in my life.

Now I'll go regular.

I want to keep thanking God.

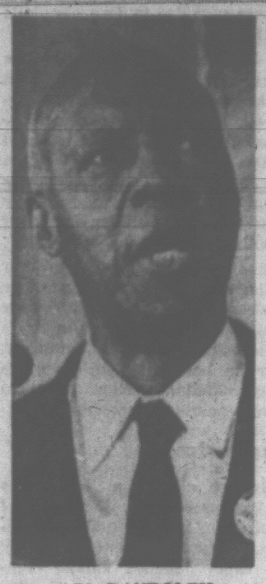
THESE MEN PERSONIFY UNREST

Rights March Leaders No Strangers to Jail



ASA RANDOLPH

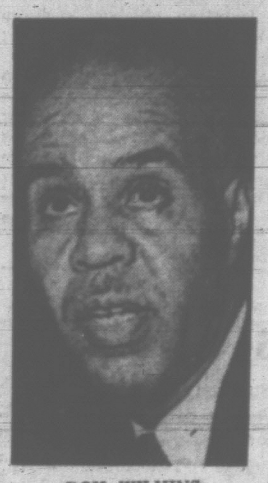
MARTIN LUTHER KING
. . . best known



ROY WILKINS
. . . . oldest group

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nine marched. One stayed in jail. The leaders of the civil rights march on Washington, walking shoulder to shoulder, personified the Negro unrest sweeping the United States.

They represented the negro calling for equality; the massive moral persuasion of church; the steadfast friendship of labor.

One step ahead of the rest, marching alone at the head of the parade, was Asa Philip Randolph, the elder statesman of the American negro movement and "father" of the march.

More than 20 years ago, the 74-year-old president of the Sleeping Car Porter's Union, called for a similar march. He cancelled it only after President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued an executive order ending segregation in the armed forces.

In many ways, today's march was a tribute to the many years Randolph has spent working for fellow negroes.

Bond Refused As Gesture

Jailed in the south Louisiana parish of Plaquemine, Farmer declined to post the bond that would have freed him for the march.

Arrested during a civil rights demononstration, the leader of the 1961 freedom rides chose the dramatic gesture of remaining in his cell.

Nor were some of the other march leaders strangers to southern jails.

Martin Luther King Jr., probably the best known of the leaders and perhaps the dominant negro personality in America today, has spent many days in jail preaching non-violent resistance to segregation.

At 34, the head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference has led the Montgomery bus boycott and spearheaded the Birmingham demonstrations, considered by many the apex of the negro movement.

Roy Wilkins, 62, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, represents an organization which was founded many years before any of the others.

Wilkins, more at ease at a conference or before a congressional committee, represented the faction which now advocates militancy but still prefers to work through the courts.

Jailed More Than 20 Times

The baby of the group is John Lewis, 25-year-old leader of the student non-violent coordinating committee who has been jailed more than 20 times. He has led sit-ins and other demonstrations in some of the toughest areas of the south.

Like Wilkins, Whitney Young, Jr., of the National Urban League, represented an organization more prone to negotiation than to demonstration. The Urban League has long considered itself the bridge between the races.

The three religious leaders were Mathew Ahmann, 31, executive director of the National Catholic Conference for Inter-Racial Justice; Rabbi Joachim Prinz, 61, president of the American Jewish Congress, and Eugene Carson Blake, executive head of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., and former president of the National Council of Churches.

Blake was arrested July 4 while participating in a demonstration at a segregated amusement park on the outskirts of Baltimore.

Labor was represented by Walter P. Reuther, 56, president of the United Automobile Workers' Union and a veteran of civil rights as well as labor battles.

BONE-DRY IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's capital was bone-dry for today's civil rights march.

The District of Columbia issued an order banning the sale or serving of alcoholic beverages by bars, restaurants or package stores from midnight Tuesday until 2 a.m. Thursday.

The Liquor Dealers' Association estimated that the shutdown would mean a loss of more than $1,000,000 in regular business.

'Negro Gains Will Never Be Reversed'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro gains of 1963 will never be reversed, President Kennedy said today as thousands massed here for an unprecedented civil rights march.

In a statement calling for ever greater efforts to achieve equal rights for all citizens, Kennedy said:

"These recent months, 100 years after the emancipation proclamation, have seen the decisive recognition by a major part of our society that all our citizens are entitled to full membership in the national community. The gains of 1963 will never be reversed."

Kennedy's statement was embodied in a Labor Day statement issued well in advance of the traditional national holiday.

Truck Plunge Kills 11

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) —Eleven persons were killed and 15 injured when a truck loaded with passengers plunged off a mountain highway 50 miles south of Katmandu, according to reports reaching here Tuesday.

Killer Shot Down

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Falco, one of two men charged with shooting two policemen to death in New Jersey—was killed by police bullets in his hotel hideout at 4 a.m. today. Falco screamed and fought with detectives who caught him asleep.

10 Goals in Freedom March

The sponsors say they have 10 demands. They are:

1. Civil rights legislation—without filibuster — guaranteeing access to public accommodations, decent housing, adequate and integrated education, the right to vote.

2. Withholding of all federal funds from projects in which there is discrimination.

3. Desegregation of all school districts this year.

4. Enforcing the provision of the 14th amendment that reduces representation in those states that disenfranchise citizens.

5. An executive order banning discrimination in all housing supported by federal funds.

6. Authority for the attorney-general to initiate a suit for a court injunction when any constitutional right is violated.

7. A massive program to train and place unemployed workers.

8. A national minumum wage of $2 an hour.

9. A broadened fair labor standards act.

10. A federal fair employment practices act.

Can't Fight City Hall? Demolish It From Inside

Victoria's 85-year-old City Hall will serve the public for the last time in its present state Oct. 3.

The following day, a Friday, the building will be closed to the public while staff members pack equipment and furnishings for the move into temporary quarters.

The civic headquarters will be back in business on Monday, Oct. 7, after a busy weekend of moving into the old Bastion Square Courthouse.

Soon after, workmen are expected to be tearing out the inside of the present City Hall for a complete interior renovation while other crews begin building the new annex as the Centennial Victoria Square project enters the construction stage.

ABOUT A YEAR TO WAIT

The Bastion Courthouse will serve as temporary civic headquarters for anywhere from eight to 12 months.

Centennial square committee Tuesday recommended council award Farmer Construction a cost-plus contract not to exceed $16,500 for physical renovation of the Courthouse. Also contracts for $5,000 repairs to the elevator in the building and installation of a package heating unit for $3,000 were recommended.

City manager Dennis Young recommended immediate award of the contracts without tender calls although he said it may bring some criticism. He said there was no time to draft specifications for a tender call and the estimates submitted by the contractors had been screened by department officials.

A special advisory committee should be set up to manage the senior citizens recreational building and the civic theatre, committee recommended.

The charter members would be: Ald. A. W. Toone, Ald. Cecil Parrot, Ald. Austin Curtis, Memorial Arena commission chairman H. D. Ramsay, Silver Threads president Owen Karn, thespian Peter Mannering and a representative from Greater Victoria School Board.

Besides setting up the management structure for the two operations, the committee also would be charged with the task of recommending whether or not all city recreational activities eventually should be placed under a single administative group.

On recommendation of a heating engineer, committee approved a plan for a central heating system to serve all the buildings in the civic precinct and also the city police station which faces the need for a new $12,000 heating plant.

Total cost, including eventual installation of a second boiler and immediate installation of all distribution lines, was estimated at $57,200 of which only $4,100 would be needed to serve the police station.

The report said efficiency and costs for central or individual heating systems were fairly close but the central system had the edge. Its location would be in the basement of the present City Hall, and it would be a type that did not require attendance of a steam engineer.

Committee recommended demoltion immediately of two more buildings, at 1061 Government and 604 Cormorant, on the south side of the civic theatre.

Project signs will be erected facing Douglas and Broad Streets soon and a third sign facing Government will come later.

Teen-Ager Stands Trial For Murder

TORONTO (CP) — Glen John Seip, 15, was committed Tuesday to stand trial before an Ontario Supreme Court jury on a charge of capital murder.

He is charged with the bludgeon slaying of bank accountant Ronald John Grigor, 31, whose battered nude body was found in his basement apartment July 18.

Seip and a companion, Lorne Snider, 18, were picked up the day after police chased a speeding car. The car, later traced to belong to Grigor, was found abandoned and the youths were apprehended nearby.

Snider is being held on $500 bail as a material witness. He testified at the preliminary hearing Tuesday he met Seip July 16 outside Toronto city hall. Seip was driving a convertible he said he "got off a queer (homosexual)."

The victim's brother, George Andrew Grigor, also a bank accountant, testified that Ronald was married four years and had no children. He said his brother's wife, Ina, 28, had gone to Winnipeg a few weeks before July 18 to attend her brother's wedding.

Crown Counsel Herbert Langdon asked whether his brother had shown any homosexual tendencies and the witness replied: "This is ridiculous, utterly ridiculous. I knew everything about my brother."

The victim's wife testified they had taken the basement apartment to save on expenses. She said that when she left July 7 for Winnipeg it was the first time she had been separated from her husband.

Africa Expert Dies

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—Dr. William E. D. Du Bois, 95, a former United States citizen and one of the world's great Africanists, died at his home here Tuesday night. Competitors or Owners?

THERE IS CONSIDERABLE irony in the fact that Ottawa's success in forcing North American auto manufacturers to use more Canadian-made components seems to have been directly responsible for yet another take-over of a large Canadian company by an American firm.

The arrangement Ottawa made last October was that Canadian subsidiaries of the big United States auto makers could earn rebates of import duty on automatic transmissions and engines made in the United States provided an equal amount of Canadian parts was exported to the United States.

The program has been very successful and one of its chief beneficiaries has been Ontario Steel Products Co. Ltd. of Toronto with four plants in Canada and one in the United States, mainly producing auto parts.

The "Big Four" auto firms have been so co-operative in the new arrangement that loud cries of dismay have been heard from American parts manufacturers regarding orders lost to Canadian firms.

Now one of the principal American parts suppliers, Rockwell Standard Corp., has decided that if it can't shut off the Canadian imports the next best thing is to buy up the main source of competition.

Shareholders of Ontario Steel Products have been made a very generous offer by Rockwell Standard for sufficient shares to give the American firm 75 per cent control of the Canadian company. Directors of Ontario Steel Products have commented that acceptance of the offer would be in the best interests of shareholders.

It might seem reasonable to argue that Ontario Steel Products shareholders should resist the temptation—even though they would gain about $4 per share in exchanging their shares for those of the American company—since there is apparently considerable growth in the parts export business yet to be realized.

However, if they do refuse to sell out, the American firm has another alternative. It can set up its own manufacturing plant in Canada, sell parts in this country and the United States and in so doing take a large bite of the profit which Ontario Steel Products has been making.

It is this prospect which has encouraged the directors of the Canadian firm to urge that the take-over offer be accepted. They really have little choice for if, in the face of the tough competition which could be expected from a new American-owned firm in the Canadian market, the profits of the Canadian firm declined, their shareholders would be after their scalps for not protecting the shareholders' interests.

It seems unfortunate that the mere threat of increased competition should be enough to cause another Canadian company to be turned over to foreign ownership but, looked at in a hard-boiled business way, what alternative is there?

As regards capital resources the Canadian firm is a pygmy in comparison with its United States counterpart and, in any long-drawn-out competitive battle for markets, the odds greatly favor the larger outfit. The Canadian shareholders, no matter how patriotic they may be, would not likely be amenable to the argument that they alone should accept heavy financial loss in order to prevent foreign control of another Canadian industry.

There seems to be little that can be done about the problem of take-overs of which Ontario Steel Products is one among many. Finance Minister Gordon's proposed tax penalties would not apply in this case since firms with 25 per cent of their stock in the hands of the public and listed on a Canadian stock exchange would be exempt.

There is no barrier imposed on the other side of the border either since President Kennedy's "interest equalization" tax on purchases of foreign securities by Americans specifically exempts purchases which lead to control of a foreign company.

Pressure on the Fish Pact

JAPANESE FISHING INTERests are exerting pressure on their government to ditch the 10-year-old agreement signed by Canada, the United States and Japan to control fishing by their nationals in the North Pacific, according to a Reuters report from Tokyo.

This provides additional ammunition for Japanese spokesmen who protested against the abstention principle when representatives from the three countries met to discuss renewal of the treaty in Washington earlier this summer. The meetings were recessed without agreement and will be resumed later.

The industry in Japan, Reuters reports, would scrap the old treaty and create a new one based on freedom of the high seas and joint conservation of resources.

This would, presumably, greatly extend Japanese fishing into waters east of the 175th meridian of longitude previously reserved for Canadians and Americans among signatories to the pact. It cannot, of course, control fishing on the high seas by other nations not bound by any such agreement. Among such uncontrolled nations is Russia, whose North Pacific fishing activity has developed substantially in recent years.

In general terms, the abstention principle of the treaty excludes one nation from fisheries where the other nations are conducting scientific research in the interests of conservation and are fishing to the limit of sane exploitation of the stocks.

This principle is vastly important to Canada and the United States because both nations have spent, and are spending, large sums on conservation work for salmon spawned in North American rivers which journey to the high seas to mature.

If there are comparable salmon spawning rivers in Japan in which similar investments have been made for conservation, nothing is heard of them on this side of the ocean.

In consequence, Canadians and Americans are reluctant to yield what they consider their roaming fish to Japanese fishermen. But they cannot protect them from Russians or any other nation operating on the high seas.

When the negotiators resume their discussions on possible renewal of the treaty later this year, obviously some changes will have to be made in it if conservation is to be as effectively pursued as possible. Russia should be invited in, on the understanding that it will co-operate. And Japan's proposal of joint conservation should be thoroughly studied.

This seems essential not only for Canadian-American protection. If valuable runs are depleted to the point of near exhaustion, they will not be available in commercial size to any of the fishing nations. Once fished out, they will be gone, and extinct sockeye—if they become extinct—cannot be caught by Japanese, or anybody else, whether they fish east of the 175th meridian or not.

Much More To Be Done

AT THE TWO-YEAR MARK, President Kennedy's great plan of aid to Latin American countries has already produced grants and loans of $2.5 billions and is well ahead of its schedule of dispensing $10 billions in ten years. There is less indication that the results are up to expectations.

The original concept of the plan was to assist Latin American nations to revitalize their economies, better the living conditions of their people, and effect improvements in industry, agriculture and other development which would become permanent self-supporting assets.

A look at the list of accomplishments to date, however, indicates a heavy emphasis on temporary aid: a major item is "15 million people fed." This, of course, a work of utmost necessity, does not follow the principle of encouraging self-reliance. The 15 millions fed yesterday must also be fed today, and again tomorrow. Eating seed corn may be a present necessity but it has no future.

Promising more progress are such items as the construction of 140,000 homes, 8,200 classrooms, 700 community water systems and 900 hospitals and health centres. The report also lists 160,000 farm loans and publication of 4 million books. This is a start, but a small one considering the need.

Obviously, the first two years of this tremendous and far-seeing plan have not been overly successful. This is reflected in criticism in both the United States and the recipient countries. There are charges of waste, misdirection and inefficiency.

Mr. Kennedy recognizes that "much more needs to be done" and there are plans to improve the organization. It is to be hoped that these are successful, for Mr. Kennedy's program of aid is a statesmanly concept designed to meet a most serious situation in this hemisphere. Its failure to solve the basic problem could have repercussions throughout the world. Canadians in particular, pondering their possible membership of the Organization of American States, have a special interest.

Bierman, Victoria Daily Times.

What It Is to Be a Negro

The history-making Negro demonstrations in Washington today had many sources and causes. But all of them inevitably go back to the facts inherent in the moving protest reprinted below. It is taken from an article in the August issue of The Atlantic, written in longhand in a Birmingham jail cell by the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., a leader in the current struggle for the rights of his race.

"I guess it is easy for those who have never felt the stinging darts of segregation to say 'wait.' But when you have seen vicious mobs lynch your mothers and fathers at will and drown your sisters and brothers at whim; when you have seen hate-filled policemen curse, kick, brutalize, and even kill your black brothers and sisters with impunity; when you see the vast majority of your twenty million Negro brothers smothering in an airtight cage of poverty in the midst of an affluent society; when you suddenly find your tongue twisted and your speech stammering as you seek to explain to your six-year-old daughter why she cannot go to the public amusement park that has just been advertised on television, and see tears welling up in little eyes when she is told that Funtown is closed to colored children, and see the depressing clouds of inferiority begin to form in her little mental sky, and see her begin to distort her little personality by unconsciously developing a bitterness toward white people; when you have to concoct an answer for a five-year-old son asking in agonizing pathos, "Daddy, why do white people treat colored people so mean?"; when you take a cross-country drive and find it necessary to sleep night after night in the uncomfortable corners of your automobile because no motel will accept you; when you are humiliated day in and day out by nagging signs reading "white" and "colored"; when your first name becomes "nigger" and your middle name becomes "boy" (however old you are) and your last name becomes "John," and when your wife and mother are never given the respected title "Mrs."; when you are harried by day and haunted by night by the fact that you are a Negro, living constantly at tiptoe stance, never quite knowing what to expect next, and plagued with inner fears and outer resentments; when you are forever fighting a degenerating sense of "nobodyness" — then you will understand why we find it difficult to wait. There comes a time when the cup of endurance runs over and men are no longer willing to be plunged into an abyss of injustice where they experience the bleakness of corroding despair."

Threatening Noises Aimed at Peking

THREATENING noises which could presage a rupture of diplomatic relations between China and the Soviet Union have come from Moscow.

Moving away from the ideological quarrel, Izvestia, run by Nikita Khrushchev's son-in-law, Alexei Adjubei, accuses the Chinese government of "violating the norms of international behavior" by importing inter-state relations into ideological differences. This, it says, is impermissible.

If mutual recrimation goes much further there will be nothing for it but a diplomatic rupture. There is nothing else the Russians can do to show their displeasure, or to give a further turn to the screw.

On Saturday, the same day as the Izvestia attack, and while Khrushchev confabulates with Marshal Tito, causing the Chinese to spit with fury ("hatching new plots" in the words of the Albanian party newspaper and "forging new links with the imperialist world"), Pravda has opened a new propaganda barrage on the ideological front—so the attack is now two-pronged.

Pravda's main line is a denunciation of China for her pretension to jump straight into communism without passing through a period of "socialism."

The main target is the commune system (which has in fact largely broken down, though still vaunted by Peking), the regimentation of millions, formed into armies of helots, to work the land.

This attack is coupled with a formal statement of the new Soviet Party line, implicit in Mr. Khrushchev's speeches and actions for some years but never before spelt out so unambiguously.

True Communists, says Pravda, have abandoned the idea that called for the achievement of Communism by putting into practice the slogan "to each according to his needs."

"To achieve Communism it is necessary to build a powerful technical base, capable of securing abundance."

In a word, no Communism unless you are strong and heavily industrialized like the Soviet Union. Translated into the sort of terms understood by simple Communists in the backward areas of the world (to say nothing of some idealists in the more sophisticated parts), this means: First get strong and rich, then think again.

This is what the Soviet Union is doing. It is not what Lenin told it to do. But it is on this somewhat dubious issue that the Communist parties of the world are invited to declare themselves.

Rumor, Confusion, Rivalry

AN air of madness pervades this lovely, French-built city of tree-lined avenues and dignified buildings.

While the war against the Communist guerrillas goes on in the countryside, the capital of South Viet-Nam is beset by political intrigue, rumors, confusion and factional rivalries.

In the view of many observers here, President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime cannot long survive against the potential onslaught of its internal opposition, let alone sustain a lengthy conflict against the Communist partisans.

Diem's government has all the superficial trappings of a modern, westernized republic, but it is really a family oligarchy directed by the president, his three brothers and his sister-in-law, Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu. And this fraternal autocracy is visibly coming apart at the seams under the strain of competing relatives, each operating at cross-purposes to enhance his own power.

These rivalries have existed ever since President Diem assumed the leadership of the country in 1954. But they have become especially acute since last May, when government troops killed nine Buddhist demonstrators in the city of Hue.

In their protest against government behavior, the Buddhists have crystallized all shapes of opposition to the Diem regime. In his efforts to deal with this growing opposition—which is beginning to include military elements—the president has not only been paralyzed by his own lack of flexibility but he has been systematically sabotaged by members of his family.

Diem has attempted to seek conciliation with the Buddhists, but his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, and his sister-in-law Madame Nhu have publicly thwarted any semblance of compromise. While the president has suggested negotiating the grievances with the Buddhists, Madame Nhu has openly accused them of using Communist tactics and suggested "beating them 10 times harder."

Threatens Coup

Brother Nhu, who serves as the president's adviser, has loudly inveighed against the weaknesses of the government and has predicted that if the Buddhist crisis persists there will be a coup d'etat against the regime.

He has hinted that he would lead a coup d'etat himself. In many other ways Nhu has worked against Diem. He has frequently countermanded the president's military decisions, and in skillful fashion has played army officers and civil servants off against each other.

Nhu's increasing activities have inspired the notion that a gradual evolution has been going on for the past year or so inside Diem's heavily guarded palace. The president has been retiring more into the background while Nhu and his wife have been assuming greater power.

Once a shy, cloistered intellectual, Nhu has lately come out into the open. He now gives interviews to the press and makes public speeches. Posters with his photograph depicting him as head of the republic's youth movement — have been printed and are soon due to decorate walls throughout the country.

Madame Nhu has grown even more savagely outspoken, and in her uninhibited fashion she has openly denigrated the importance of the president. In a recent interview she stated that Diem had no real support in the country but depended on relatives for backing. "It's our followers who save him," she said. "Women follow me and not the president, and my husband leads the youth group, which he created."

The Nhus also oppose Diem's brother Ngo Dinh Can, who in a warlord manner controls central Viet-Nam. They blame him for having helped the Buddhists originally as a possible anti-Communist force. "Now he has lost face with the family," says Madame Nhu. "He no longer has any political importance."

Clear Liability

The Nhus are clearly a liability to Diem. Yet the president is incapable of getting rid of them, for profound and complex reasons. A courageous but essentially weak man, Diem depends almost completely on Nhu for counsel. Many observers consider Nhu's intellectual pretense nothing more than sophistry.

Diem also has an enormous loyalty to his family. His oldest brother wields tremendous influence over Diem, and within this Byzantine ambiance has much to do with policy-making.

It is believed that the more Nhu and his wife assert themselves, the greater will become the likelihood of an organized coup against the regime. It is remarkable to hear plain sedition being preached by high civil servants and important army officers. Even men close to President Diem now speak calmly of a forthcoming assassination.

Asked how he could speak so coldbloodedly about the president he had served many years, one civil servant replied: "We must choose between a man and a country."

The United States is investing more than a $1,000,000 daily in Viet-Nam, and some high American officials, such as Gen. Paul D. Harkins, have asserted that the war will be won within six months.

More realistic Americans are not so certain that the war is being won in the field, and they are absolutely sure that the war is being lost in Saigon. Almost as a matter of faith they predict that the Diem regime is headed towards a violent upheaval that could, overnight, plunge the country into chaos far worse than the present confusion.

Canadian Women Behind

The three prominent Eastern women in the front page of your August 21 edition made me ponder over the depressing fact that as yet no Canadian woman has accomplished anything in the field of politics to reach the standard of Mmes. Chiang, Bandarnaike or Meier.

There should be a woman under the Canadian sun who can reach the top and not blunder like our former immigration minister and postmaster-general, Mrs. Ellen Fairclough!

Premier Bennett Scared?

What has scared Premier Bennett? He plunges this great province into a totally unnecessary and expensive election.

Why? It could be he is afraid of Mr. Fulton. The premier will make great play about his "expropriation" of B.C. Electric and will ask the electors for a vote supporting his action, offering as a bait the prospect of greatly reduced electricity bills.

But no amount of voting will legalize the B.C. Electric grab. The B.C. government does not now, and never has, owned this corporation. The attorney-general, Mr. Bonner, is probably quite right in saying the legal position must be cleared up. It would be very interesting to know exactly what Mr. Bennett said to his chief legal adviser when the verdict of the B.C. Supreme Court was announced—something unparliamentary I would be bound.

In this election are we to have the all too familiar spectacle of the opposition parties putting up dozens of weak candidates in constituencies where they have no real chance of election? Such a policy hands the election to Mr. Bennett's SC party on a silver platter.

Mr. Strachan, Mr. Perrault and Mr. Fulton should have the common sense to limit their opposition to seats in which their candidates have a fair chance of success. Nothing pleases the SC party more than the foolish action of a weak divided vote on the part of the opposition parties.

To Mr. Strachan I would suggest most earnestly that his party drop the appellation "new." Newness soon wears off and the name "Democratic Party" sounds good to me, though (or perhaps, because) I am a Liberal.

What was the reason for Mr. Bennett's visit to Britain? It can be explained in one word "money." But he didn't get it apparently. The British have been warned that no profitable corporation is entirely safe from government takeover in the province of British Columbia. Now that the American money market is closed or nearly so, the SC government may find that money is very important, nay vital, to their enormously expensive plans for the dual electrification scheme which is being pushed ahead at breakneck speed.

Did Mr. Bennett promise Lombard Street an election before a loan?

Involvement Unwise?

I think that the Anglican Church is unwise in getting too deeply involved in the civil rights movement in the United States. Such a move can only mean dissention and a split in the ranks of the church itself.

If segregation is a "sin" as claimed by some members of the Anglican Congress, then God is thus guilty of this sin by creating the different races and colors of man in the beginning.

It might be a surprise to some of the Anglicans to learn that many Negroes don't wish to be pushed into the white man's churches, but prefer their own type of worship of God and their own style of music and song instead of the dull, dry sermons and the same old long services which hardly ever change from year to year.

Surely, many of these same Anglicans must know that the Communists are very active in all of this racial strife in the U.S. Even the Chinese Communists with their hands stained with the blood of over 20 millions of Chinese people who opposed their rise to power, are calling the United States Negroes their "brothers fighting for freedom!" Who ever heard of a Communist fighting for anyone's freedom? All they ever do is to stir up trouble so as they can take over.

While we hear so much regarding "racial discrimination" in the United States, how many Negroes do we find in other countries drawing down $200,000 a year as ball players? How many Negro millionaires are there in Africa or any other country as in the U.S.? A recent survey showed that the American Negro has the highest standard of living in the colored world.

Let the Anglican Church be realistic. Here in Brantford today our local colored church held its annual tag day to provide funds in order to keep their church going. These colored people have the right to have their own church just as the white people have the right to have their own, too.

YOUR HEALTH — By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Emphysema

In a recent article, Dr. Francis M. Rackemann, an expert on allergic diseases, tells much about emphysema, a chronic disease of the lungs which is often seen by the allergist, because it so commonly is thought to be an end-result of asthma.

Alvarez

Dr. Rackemann says that he thinks emphysema begins usually with a chronic inflammation of the larynx (voice box) and trachea (air tube in the neck) which works down into the bronchi (main air tubes in the lungs). It appears more often in men than in women. Curiously, of late the disease has come into great prominence, perhaps because we physicians have learned to recognize it better, and also to see that it is not simple asthma—even when the patient wheezes. Some physicians are wondering if the recent 400 per cent increase in the incidence of emphysema may be due to the recent tremendous increase in the amount of smoking of cigarettes.

The patients cough; they are short of breath, and they may wheeze. Measurements show an impaired functioning of the lungs. This is important: they do not give a family history of asthma, and they did not suffer from allergic troubles in their youth. What of late has impressed students of emphysema is that the disease usually appears more or less suddenly in a man of 50 who previously was well. Asthma tends to come in spells, while emphysema tends to stay and to advance relentlessly. Also, the man with asthma sleeps poorly, while the man with emphysema tends to sleep well.

For these and other reasons, Dr. Rackemann and many other experts feel that emphysema and asthma are two different diseases. Also, he feels that more and more evidence is piling up to show that the smoking of cigarettes is an important cause of emphysema. This evidence can be found in almost every issue of our medical journals.

Mrs. Edwards and Dr. Rackemann made a study to see what happened eventually to 449 asthmatic children. The medical history of these youngsters was followed from around the age of 13 to that of 30. Of the group, 30 per cent appeared to be cured, while another 19 per cent had no symptoms so long as they avoided the offending cause of their asthma. Another 21 per cent had no more asthma, but they developed a seasonal hay fever.

This means that three out of four children lost their asthma around the age of 20 and were still free of it when interviewed in their 30s. The remaining one in four was still having some asthma 20 years later, but in only half of these cases was the disease severe. The important point was that asthma did not turn into emphysema.

Another follow-up study was made of 272 persons seen with asthma. Fifteen years later about a fifth were free from asthma, and another two-fifths were better, which makes a total of 65 per cent who had done well. The remaining 35 per cent were still having trouble. Another follow-up study, this time made of patients with hay fever, showed cures or clearing in an even larger percentage of cases.

We find, then, an able allergist saying what the experts on emphysema have been saying—that asthma and emphysema are different diseases. Chronic asthma does not ordinarily end up in emphysema, and emphysema does not begin early in life as an allergic disease; it appears often at the age of 50.

HOME GARDEN — By HILDA BEASTALL

Fall Fair Climaxes Summer

The Labor Day weekend has been an important time in the lives of rural dwellers of lower Vancouver Island for almost a century.

Hilda

Ninety - five years ago the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society held its first fall fair which no doubt was as much a social event as it was an exhibition.

This coming weekend the event, now known as a fall exhibition, will be repeated with many extra attractions.

At the tail end of summer and with school days just around the next corner, a day spent at Saanichton, where the fair is held, could well be the highlight of the season for many a family.

Flowers, fruit and vegetables from gardens and farms, field crops, farm animals, and household arts are only a few of the sections open for exhibitors.

The general public will have all these exhibits to enjoy, plus such things as Highland dancing and horseshoe pitching.

To gain a broad view of this end of Vancouver Island, families who have recently come here might spend a day at the fair. Each member would find some phase of Island life to hold the attention. Frequently a new hobby catches the eye, and a life interest in it is developed.

Today there is more time in the average person's life for a hobby than ever before, but not everyone knows how to use the time.

Flower shows and fairs often lead the way.

Saturday of this week, the exhibition at Saanichton is opened officially at 1:30 p.m., and on Monday, Labor Day, at 9:30 a.m.

64 Years in Prison, Parole Now Possible

CHESTER, Ill (AP)—Richard Honeck, 84, has been in prison longer than many men expect to live.

He went to prison at the age of 20 for killing his former school teacher and has been there since—64 years.

Honeck is 11 years older and has been in prison 10 years longer than the much-publicized Robert Stroud, The Bird Man of Alcatraz.

GOOD CHANCE

Warden Ross Randolph says Honeck would have a reasonably good chance for parole this November if he had a home and someone to care for him.

Honeck says he doesn't know whether his brother and four sisters are still alive; even his memory of them is vague.

He says he wrote a letter or two to one of his sisters in the early days of his imprisonment, but then stopped writing. "Most people don't want anything to do with prisoners," he says. The only letter he has received in 64 years is a four-line note from a brother expressing concern about his health—written 59 years ago.

Since he went behind bars in 1899 he has had only two visitors. The first was a friend who came to see him in 1904. The second was an Associated Press reporter who came across a brief mention of the old man in the prison newspaper recently and decided to pay him a call.

YOUTH HELD FOR ARSON

VANCOUVER (CP) — Youthful arsonists set fire to an apartment block Monday but firemen put it out before much damage was done. One youth was caught by residents, but two others escaped. In the last 10 days a number of fires have been attributed to youngsters.

COMMANDER of United Nations truce mission in Yemen, Maj.-Gen. Carl Carlsson von Horn has resigned effective Saturday, Secretary-General U Thant announced Tuesday. In his annual report last Sunday Thant said the mission has not carried out its task thus far. The official UN statement said that von Horn, 60, had quit for "urgent reasons, largely personal in nature."

'Don't Burn Yourself' Thompson Tells Real

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson said Tuesday his deputy leader, Real Caouette, may "burn" himself in trying to light a big pro-Caouette publicity fire in Quebec.

Replying to a stinging attack by Mr. Caouette, the national Social Credit chief said:

"Mr. Caouette is attempting to light a big fire. I hope he will not be too badly burned."

He was referring to statements made by Mr. Caouette in a Montreal interview about the weekend convention of the Quebec wing of the Social Credit party. Mr. Caouette said his national leader is "lukewarm" to Social Credit principles and is turning a deaf ear to Quebec's demands for equality.

"Thompson and his group tend to be all things to everybody," Mr. Caouette said. "For them principles are only secondary."

HITS TACTICS

In reply, Mr. Thompson said in an interview:

"It is evident that Mr. Caouette has planned and is succeeding in giving himself a publicity buildup for the coming Quebec provincial convention this weekend in Granby."

He described Mr. Caouette's statements as "democracy in disorder."

"I have more confidence in the intelligence and responsibility of the people of Quebec than to think that they will be influenced by these tactics," he said.

U.S., CANADA TACKLE MANY JOINT PROBLEMS

Hands Across Border Keeping Busy

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson and President Kennedy said in a communique after their May 10-11 Hyannis Port, Mass., fireside chats that they looked forward to "a period of particularly active and productive co-operation between the two countries."

They said a mouthful. The official traffic between Ottawa and Washington has been almost as heavy as Canada-U.S tourist traffic.

One wag said Canada's Confederation problems would be licked if there were as much contact between Ottawa and Quebec City as there is between Ottawa and Washington.

AGREEMENTS MADE

The official comings-and-goings have resulted in some concrete agreements and more appear in the offing.

The agreements include the nuclear custody-and-control arrangements, signed Aug. 16; a U.S. decision, after a meeting between Defence Production Minister Drury and U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara, not to reduce the flow of American defence contracts to Canada to help alleviate its balance - of - payments problems; another U.S. decision, after a flying visit to Washington by Canadian authorities, not to apply a new tax on foreign investments against new Canadian issues.

Portuguese Demonstrate Against U.S.

LISBON (UPI)—A mass demonstration in support of Premier Antonio Salazar's pledge to defend Portugal's overseas provinces brought new attacks on the United States Tuesday night.

A crowd estimated at between 250,000 and 500,000 jammed the Praca do Comercio square and surrounding streets to acclaim Salazar's stand in the face of attacks by independent African nations both within and outside the United Nations. Demonstrators carried banners reading:

"Who conducts the tribal war dance—the Russians or the Americans?" And "Russia has a K, and so has America—but we have no K in Portugal.

Salazar, in a speech Aug. 12 accused the West of doing Russia's work in Africa and said European defence was "badly shaken by the African policy of the United States." The United States and Portuagal both are members of NATO.

This week Canadian and U.S. officials began what officials said will be long and involved negotiations on measures to protect historic American fishing rights when Canada imposes a 12-mile fishing zone next May

DISCUSS COLUMBIA

Next week there will be another round of negotiations on Canadian-requested revisions to the Columbia River power development treaty.

And a week after that there will be a meeting of the Canada-U.S. cabinet committee on trade and economic affairs.

Later in the fall the Canada-U.S. cabinet defence committee will meet for the first time since July, 1960.

A meeting on Canada-U.S. air route relations is in the cards. U.S. special envoy John Kenneth Galbraith is preparing a report for Mr. Kennedy on the subject after a visit to Ottawa.

There have been talks and likely will be more on Great Lakes shipping troubles, reductions in tariffs, communications by satellites, foreign aid to the Caribbean area and North American oil and gas resources.

And there will likely be still other subjects for discussion, such as tidal power in Passamaquoddy Bay on the Maine-New Brunswick border.

U.K. Beats Polio

For Your Picnic

A garden-fresh vegetable salad will stay cold and crisp if you take it to the picnic in a big thermos jug.

Save your empty egg cartons for packing stuffed fresh plums and apricots so they won't bruise. To stuff plums and apricots, cut in half; remove pits; fill with cream cheese and nuts whipped with honey. Put halves together again before packing.

For those who like their fried chicken hot, bring along a roll of aluminum foil. Each person can wrap his favorite pieces and guard them over the coals.

Avoid confusion at picnic time by packing cooking utensils and supplies in waxed bags with tag lists. The same bags will come in handy for disposing of coffee grounds and even carrying wet swim suits home.

Everyone's happy at a make-your-own picnic. Along with cold cuts, cheese and relishes, include two or three very special sandwich fillings and an assortment of breads and spreads.

Take along a few pretty wicker paper baskets and line them with paper napkins for serving hot rolls, potatoes, corn on the cob.

BUSINESS VIEWS

New Interest By U.S. Firm In Collieries?

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. is once again reported to be negotiating with a large pulp and paper firm. The story is that the unnamed firm has been given permission by the Vancouver-based resources company to investigate the assets with a view to acquiring an interest.

Gordon Bell

The Georgia-Pacific Corp. of Portland is the current favorite among firms which might be interested.

Canadian Collieries, which entered the forestry business only seven years ago after a relatively brief but very profitable fling in Alberta oil, has been mentioned a number of times in the last few years as being anxious to team up with an experienced partner to exploit its holdings on Vancouver Island near Union Bay.

Georgia-Pacific officials denied any knowledge of a possible deal with the Vancouver company but it is known that the Georgia-Pacific president is "holidaying" in Canada.

Recovery of iron magnetite as a by-product of the Coast Copper Co. operation at Benson Lake near Quatsino is to begin next spring, according to Consolidated Mining and Smelting which controls Coast Copper.

Additional plant will be added to the existing 750-ton copper concentrator to process the mill tailings and it is expected production will be around 250 tons of magnetite daily which will be shipped to Japan via Port McNeill.

* * *

Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. has filed application with the Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board requesting a permit for the export of 3.148 trillion cubic feet of natural gas, in addition to the 6.792 cubic feet covered by existing permits, over a period of 25 years.

The application says the additional gas is required to meet the rapidly growing needs of the Canadian market.

Trans-Canada says the Alberta gas reserve at year-end was 34.3 trillion cubic feet with a surplus of 7.9 trillion cubic after reserving a 30-year supply for provincial needs and other existing export permits.

Alberta Gas Trunk Line Company has estimated that a capital investment of about $15 million will be required for construction of facilities to transport the additional gas asked for by Trans-Canada.

FORMER postmaster-general in the Diefenbaker administration, William Hamilton, 44, has moved to North Vancouver to take over as president of the Canadian Park and Tilford Distillery. The firm is a subsidiary of Canadian Schenley.

MAJOR COMPANIES TAKING PART

Offshore Oil Search in North Sea Waters

LONDON — Early next month a geologist on a barge perched on four steel legs above the waters of Weymouth Bay may spot, among the chippings pumped up from a drill working 2,500 feet below him, the oily streaks that will tell him he is "through" to Britain's first offshore oil field.

To put the matter thus is to invest it with a rosy optimism which the officials of British Petroleum, the company responsible, do not feel.

They are hopeful, naturally; but this is not the middle east, and even if the existence of oil were to be proved in the Lulworth and Bridport sands it might not be in sufficient quantities to make the game worth the candle.

Oil prospecting in this country virtually began with the passing of the Petroleum Production Act in 1934—Although from 1850 oil had been extracted from shale in Scotland. By investing oil rights in the Crown, the act enabled companies to apply for prospecting licences direct (nowadays to the ministry of fuel and power) instead of having to negotiate with each landowner.

TON A WEEK

By 1939 wells sunk in Nottinghamshire had gone into production and during the war were yielding 750,000 bbls. a year. A well in Scotland drilled by Esso was providing about a ton a week.

After the war — between 1945 and 1950—the Nottinghamshire fields began to yield less, but other wells, such as those at Kimmeridge in Dorset, have brought the total yield (last year) to 825,000 bbls. The significance of this contribution may be more properly appreciated when it is set against the country's overall consumption of around 420 million bbls. a year.

Oil has been or is being sought over surprisingly large areas of this country. On the map there is a blob embracing both banks of the River Forth, a long strip of the northeast coast of England almost from the border to the Wash, and stretching inland at the southern end almost into Wales, another crescent, with Liverpool as its centre; and an irregular area of the southeast taking in the south coast counties as far west as Dorset.

Wales has not been intensively surveyed, but geological studies tend to cut out areas of volcanic rock. The underground hump or "cap" which is associated with the presence of oil or gas is found usually in limestone or sandstone regions. The oilman, in fact, is always looking for the sedimentary action of prehistoric seas.

Apart from oil, however, there is a rapidly growing interest in natural gas. Most oil companies now have divisions dealing with this product, which for years was "flared off" at the oilfields in America and the Middle East because nobody had a use for it. Since the war it has assumed increasing importance as a source of energy.

The discovery of two large gas fields on the Dutch coast —they are the largest in Europe and among the largest in the world—has led to speculation that the field may extend under the North Sea.

POSSIBLE LINK

Whether or not there is a link between the Dutch and British fields, it seems that many companies are interested in what lies beneath the shallow, choppy waters of the North Sea.

About 20 of them, in various groupings, are engaged in seismic surveys either inside or outside territorial limits. Some are off the coast of Norway, others off the Dutch and German coasts.

The convention remains unratified until 22 countries have signed it. Any oil or gas finds in the North Sea might be challenged, although such a prospect does not seem to have cooled off the prospectors' interest. Shell, for instance, is in its second season.

MURRAY BAY, Que. (CP) — George Tatham, editor of the Listowel Ont. Banner has been re-elected president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

The association, which represents 343 Canadian weeklies, is holding its 44th annual convention in this community 75 miles northeast of Quebec City.

TOURIST FUNDS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Canada may be asked to raise its duty-free allowance for Canadian tourists buying goods in the United States at cabinet-level economic talks next month.

U.S. treasury secretary Douglas Dillon said he under-Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, (Rep., N.Y.), said he understands that state department plans to raise the duty-free allowance question at a cabinet-level U.S.-Canadian meeting here Sept. 20-21.

New Labor Code Study Under Way

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister MacEachen has ordered his departmental experts to make a general review of Canada's labor laws in a new move aimed at overhauling federal legislation dealing with industrial relations and working conditions.

Reliable sources say high priority is being given to an intensive study by labor department specialists of the social, economic and political repercussions of a federal labor code.

Such a code—promised during the election campaign by Prime Minister Pearson—would establish a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour, a maximum normal work week of 40 hours, two weeks vacation with pay after one year on a job, plus seven statutory holidays with pay.

The code would apply to industries under federal jurisdiction — involving some 500,000 workers employed chiefly on the railways, airlines, shipping lines, on the waterfront, in banks, broadcasting stations and grain elevators.

But a national labor code would also set a standard that the provinces would likely be obliged to adopt within their jurisdictions. Right now, there is a variety of provincial laws dealing with minimum wages, annual vacations, statutory holidays and hours of work.

Some of the initial studies are already flowing across Mr. MacEachen' desk, but no specific plans for legislative action have been laid before the cabinet yet.

The government has hinted in the Commons that it is eager to act on its election promise of a federal labor code.

U.S. Turkeymen Free To Gobble Market?

Removal of the restrictions on turkey imports has taken lower Vancouver Island growers by surprise.

They fear U.S. birds will eat into the B.C. market this Thanksgiving.

The removal from the import control list under the Export and Import Permits Act, effective Aug. 21, was announced Monday by the trade department.

Mrs. A. S. Phillips of Gobbler's Gulch, Goldstream, expressed surprise and concern.

"We were to be given notice before the restrictions were removed and this is the first I have heard of it," she said.

Side effects would also be felt in the wheat market since turkeys are one of the biggest wheat consumers.

"Most of the American turkeys," she said, "are grown as a subsidiary of a large industry such as wheat and they are not concerned with making a profit on the bird. Also their grading system is lower than the Canadian standard and this makes it very hard to compete with on the open market."

Another turkey grower, Curtis McCulloch, said Elgin Wolf of Vancouver, president of the B.C. Turkeys Association, had been in Ottawa only a month ago, was given no indication the restrictions would be removed.

"If the restrictions are removed at this time the local growers are going to suffer during marketing of the birds for Thanksgiving," said Mr. McCulloch.

The restrictions were imposed in mid 1957 and were to stay in effect until the Canadian industry recovered. Since then the Canadian turkey industry has substantially increased production and improved its marketing techniques, the department said.

The annual import quota for turkeys had been around 4,000,000 pounds in recent years, but last year imports dropped to about 2,500,000 pounds.

The United States state department welcomed the Canadian government's decision to eliminate import restrictions on U.S. turkeys.

An official said the U.S. has been trying for years to get this curb removed, charging that it was a breach of Canada's obligations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Develop A Powerful Memory?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique for acquiring a powerful memory which can pay you real dividends in both business and social advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, necessary self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by remembering accurately everything they see, hear, or read. Whether in business, at social functions or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can dominate each situation by your ability to remember.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in remembering anything you choose to remember, the publishers have printed full details of their self-training method in a new book, "Adventures in Memory," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Simply send your request to: Memory Studies, 835 Diversey Parkway, Dept. 499C Chicago 14, Ill. A postcard will do.

Dynamite Inquest Set

BUTTE, Mont. (AP)—An inquest will be held Friday in the death of a man following an explosion last Saturday of 3,500 pounds of dynamite.

The inquest, originally scheduled for Thursday, was postponed to await the release of Thomas Lavelle, 26, from a hospital where he had been under treatment for a concussion received in the explosion.

The man killed in the blast has been tentatively identified as Emil Guay, 34, of Butte.

Lavelle and a brother, William P. Lavelle Jr., 27, operators of the Lavelle Powder Company, tipped police about a transfer of stolen dynamite by several other men. The brothers and officers were nearby when the dynamite blew up. Cause of the explosion was unknown.

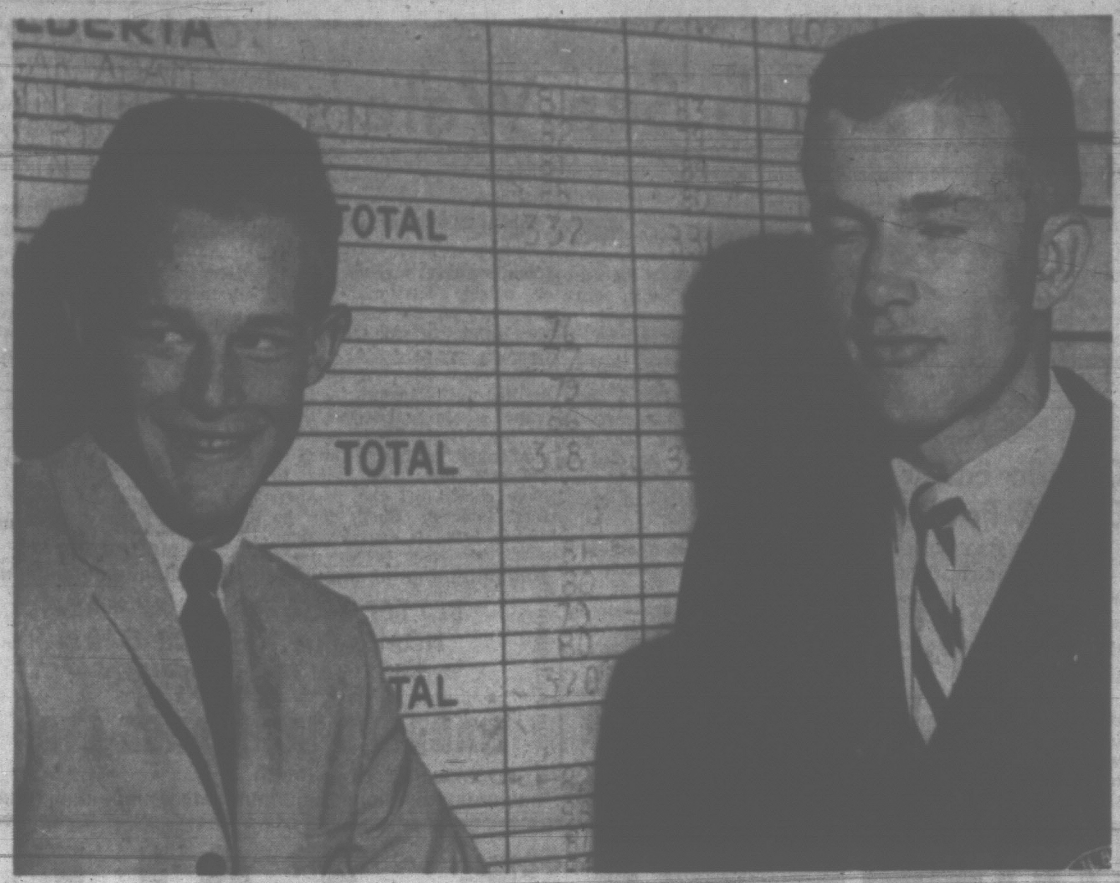
Smith, Leslie in Front; B.C. Takes Team Crown



EAST AND WEST SHARE MEDAL HONORS

By ERNIE FEDORUK

It's 3,324 miles from Victoria to Saint John, N.B., but there was no room to spare Tuesday between Gary Smith and Gordie Leslie.

The two lads from opposite ends of Canada shared qualifying medal honors, and host B.C. was a runaway winner of the interprovincial team title as the Canadian junior golf championships hit the full-ahead throttle Tuesday.

Thirty-two qualifiers stepped off this morning to commence match play. By this evening, only eight will still be in the running for the national junior title.

Two more rounds will be played Thursday—the quarter and semifinals—and the coveted crown will be awarded Friday after a 36-hole playoff.

COURSE WAS TOUGH

Toughened and finely-groomed for the first Royal Canadian Golf Association event ever held on Vancouver Island, Colwood humbled the field Tuesday. Its par (35-35—70) was never threatened by the elite of Canada's under-18 golf corps.

Co-medallists Smith and Leslie were best with five-over-par 145 totals. Smith was 74-71 while Leslie had rounds of 73 and 72. Scores of 161 or better were needed to win one of the 32 qualifying berths.

With the 17-year-old Smith leading the way, B.C. was an easy winner of the team title for a second straight year. The team event was held in conjunction with the 36-hole qualifying test.

TRAILED BY 29

B.C.'s four-man total was 602, 29 strokes better than runnerup Nova Scotia. Surprising Saskatchewan placed third with 639, followed by Manitoba, 640; New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island, 643; Quebec, 651; Ontario, 661, and Alberta, 663.

Vancouver's Wayne Vollmer, also instrumental in B.C.'s runaway team victory, placed third in the qualifying with 77-71—148. Orrin Vincent, an 18-year-old from Seattle, was fourth with 76-73—149.

SIMILAR STORIES

While the co-medallists are from opposite corners of the country, there is a marked similarity in their stories. Both are heading into their first year of university.

Smith, 17-year-old who holds membership at Colwood and Uplands, is leaving Sept. 5 for New Mexico on a golf scholarship. Leslie, 18, is enrolled at the University of New Brunswick.

Both play to two handicaps and both had "big innings" in other major tournaments this year. Smith was finalist in the Times Island Open while Leslie reached the quarter-finals of the Canadian Amateur, losing finally to Tom Draper of the U.S.

Also, both played in the same threesome Tuesday.

KEPT GUNNING

"I knew exactly where I stood," said Smith, "and I kept gunning. I went for every putt."

Smith missed a big chance to go ahead on the 17th when he missed a five-foot birdie putt. He had another chance on 18, but a poor chip left him eight feet short of the cup. Smith missed that putt for a par, but Leslie also settled for a bogey five.

JUNIOR JOTTINGS

Marty Bopped The Big Ones

The son of a former, well-known amateur hockey player successfully qualified for today's match play rounds, and the word is out—watch Marty Desmarais.

Son of Tony Desmarais, a star with Calgary's Allan Cup-winning Stampeders back in the '40s, Marty created quite a stir in the Calgary amateur tournament earlier this summer.

The junior swinger knocked off—in the same day—Keith Alexander and Doug Silverberg, acknowledged as two of the country's top-ranking golfers!

★ ★ ★

Tuesday's qualifying rounds proved doubly painful to Mike Gee of Spokane. The lean youngster, in addition to missing the qualifying cutoff, struggled around in 94-90—184, while experiencing the pain of an abcessed wisdom tooth.

★ ★ ★

Victoria's Buzz Wilson covered the last nine holes in weird fashion. The last to safely qualify (he shot 77-78—155), he rambled over the last nine without a par to his credit.

Nothin' but bogeys and birds.

The starting field was cut to 80 when three players failed to show. Eliminated at the first tee were Gene Benner of Penticton, Jack Haslett and Ron Nicholas, both of Vancouver.

★ ★ ★

Orrin Vincent, of Seattle, whose rounds of 76 and 73 put him fourth in the qualifying list, says Colwood's tall timber makes the course very deceptive. Many of the other visiting golfers agreed.

"The trees make it tough. I was underclubbing quite a bit, until my caddy started to help me," said Vincent.

★ ★ ★

The affair was chaired by Arthur Johnson of Winnipeg, RCGA vice-president, and guests included Bill Wakeham, the only Victorian to win the Canadian junior crown; A. V. Macan, the Victoria golf architect who designed Colwood 50 years ago; George Chatterton, MP, and Acting-Mayor Arthur Dowell.

★ ★ ★

Victoria hope Ricky Kent was quite impressed by the drives of many rivals. Ricky, of co se, doesn't have to take a back seat to many when it comes to getting off the tee.

"I hit some of the best drives of my life," said the 16-year-old Colwood youngster, "and I still was outgunned."

★ ★ ★

Fifteen of the 32 team players failed to qualify for today's match play rounds. One of the casualties was Regina's Dave Gourdie, who was married last week.

Canadian Seeks Second Victory In Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. (CP)—Three Canadian drivers and one Canadian-owned horse were in the field of 14 today seeking the winner's share of $56,619 in the classic Hambletonian.

The prestige event for three-year-old trotters — often called harness racing's Kentucky Derby—has been won only once by a Canadian - owned horse since 1926. Helicopter, owned by the Armstrong Brothers Stable of Brampton, Ont., won in 1953.

Choir Boy, driven by Keith Waples of Coldwater, Ont., was bidding to become the second Canadian winner.

CATCHER BREAKS UP . . . . . BROTHER ACT

Striped Socks Trip Twins

SCHUMACHER, Ont. (CP) —Was he the right batter or wasn't he? Only his manager knew for sure—until he did some checking.

Keith Murray, an outfielder, and Ken Murray, a pitcher, are identical twins on the Schumacher softball team. They both swing left with the same style.

They were playing against South Porcupine in a midget playoff game when opposing catcher Fera noticed that the Murray up at the plate had striped socks. The right Murray should be wearing plain ones, he said.

"That's the wrong guy and I know it," insisted Fera, "unless they have changed socks since the last inning."

In the fifth inning, Schumacher needed a hit and Ken, considered the better hitter of the two, replaced Keith at the plate unknown to anyone but the pair.

The ruse almost worked, but for catcher Fera's catch of the season.

Baker warned them that such actions are illegal to which either Ken or Keith replied that they had been making replacements all season.

Chubby Sandy Eats His Way To Suspension

BY The Canadian Press

Sandy Stephens, former Minnesota All-America quarterback who signed one of the fattest pro football contracts in history, has eaten himself out of a job with Montreal Alouettes.

The Eastern Football Conference club announced Tuesday that the 23-year-old Negro signal-caller had been suspended for the season because he weighed too much.

Trimble added that Stephens "will be out this season. Next season is a question mark, but he just didn't measure up to our requirements this year."

The club said Stephens would be paid for the two years left on the three-year, no-cut contract he signed last year for an estimated $115,000.

Titan officials said they had gone as high as $100,000 for the six-foot one-inch quarterback who led Minnesota Gophers to the 1961 Rose Bowl victory.

"Bluntly, we're paying him off," said Alouettes' director of development Dan Pickett. "We made it plain we intend to meet his contract obligations and he was satisfied."

No Other Club Can Bid for Him

After Alouettes lost their first two games, Trimble ordered the 225 - pound Stephens to trim down. He slimmed to 218 pounds, still eight over the level Trimble set for him.

Stephens will be placed on the Canadian Football League suspended list, which means no other club can bid for him.

Moving into the quarterback slot will be Francis (Bubba) Marriott, an early cut by New York Giants of the NFL, who handled the club in its last game, a 15-8 win over Toronto Argonauts.

Als also have Warren Rabb, recently cut by Buffalo Bills of the AFL.

Alouettes earlier this month talked with Sam Etcheverry, the man Stephens was to replace after Etcheverry jumped a trade to Hamilton Tiger-Cats for Bernie Faloney. The trade fell through when Etcheverry went to St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL. St. Louis cut Etcheverry this month and he has not signed with another club yet.

Another former All-America choice, Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, who won the Heisman Trophy in 1955 as the top U.S. college player while at Ohio State, was cut on Tuesday

He was placed on waivers by Philadelphia Eagles of the NFL.

A six-year NFL veteran, Cassady was sidelined with a broken leg after 10 games last year.

Two Western Football Conference clubs also made changes Tuesday.

Edmonton Eskimos announced that Bobby Walden, a three-year veteran punter and halfback with the club, has returned to Edmonton after being cut by Hamilton, to whom Edmonton traded him earlier. Eskimos also picked up Tom Maudlin, a quarterback cut by Toronto, and end Gene Raez, an end formerly with Calgary Stampeders.

Edmonton dropped Canadian halfback Dunc Harvey.

Saskatchewan Roughriders dropped Canadian fullback Ken Don and import end Dave Washington.

ROCKS PLAN TO SNAP LONG LOSING STREAK

Victoria Shamrocks were shrugging off a four-year losing streak at Queen's Park Arena as they head for New Westminster today.

Despite a 28-game string of defeats at Westminster, the Rocks were confident they could beat the hex and take the deciding game of the best-of-seven Inter-City Lacrosse League semifinal. Each club has won three games.

"There's never been a losing streak that hasn't ended some time, so why not now," said coach Don Ashbee.

Soviet Net Aces Fail to Show Up

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States tennis championships got under way today at the West Side Tennis Club on a note of international mystery.

The Soviet Union, with announced designs on the Davis Cup, was supposed to send three or four ranking players on the special charter plane which Tuesday brought 80 stars from 28 countries here for the tournament. But the Russians failed to show.

Players from other Iron Curtain nations — Czechoslovakia and Hungary — are in the international field which started qualifying rounds today. After two days of qualifying, the championship proper opens Friday, with Chuck McKinley and Margaret Smith, the Wimbledon winners, top - seeded favorites in the men's and women's singles.

EMERSON CONFIDENT

"I am fit and confident," the Ausfralian star said. "I don't see how you can count Australia out so easily."

There is a strong feeling in American tennis circles that McKinley and Dennis Ralston will sweep through for the first all-U.S. final since 1953.

Minor Boxla Jamboree At Esquimalt

Five members of the original Victoria Shamrocks' executive will be guests Thursday night when the Esquimalt Minor Lacrosse Association stages its annual jamboree at the Sports Centre.

The night's program also includes three games. As well, all youngsters who registered with the association this year will receive crests.

Driver Injured

DETROIT (AP) — Hydroplane driver Marv Henrich was injured Tuesday when Mariner Too exploded on the Detroit River's Gold Cup course not far from the spot where Bob Hayward was killed during a race two years ago.

Henrich, 33, of Detroit, was taken to hospital where he was reported in fair condition.

British Racing Brass Starts Scandal Probe

LONDON (CP) — Racing stewards started formal investigation Tuesday into alleged doping scandals that have cast a shadow over British racing.

Geoffrey Barling, trainer of Parnear whose April 16 victory in a Newmarket handicap has been questioned, was the first to see officials of The Jockey Club, supreme body of British racing.

Main interest attached to today's session involved French-owned Relko, easy winner of this year's Derby at Epsom. Relko is trained by Francois Mathet, who has hinted in television interviews that certain people are trying to run a vendetta against him.

Bathgate Fourth Ranger to Sign

NEW YORK (AP) — Andy Bathgate, high-scoring right-winger of New York Rangers, has signed his contract for the 1963-64 season, the National Hockey League club said Tuesday.

Bathgate got 81 points on 35 goals and 46 assists last season. He is the fourth Ranger to come to terms.

Others are goalie Jacques Plante, with Montreal last season; right-winger Rod Gilbert and left-winger Camille Henry.

LONG TRAINING GRIND STARTS . . . . . FOR OLYMPIC HOCKEY TEAM

Canada's 'First Truly National Team'

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

EDMONTON (CP) — The first Canadian hockey team organized for the single purpose of playing in the Olympics started a long, hard training grind this week for the 1964 winter games in Innsbruck, Austria.

Twenty-five of 36 players selected to try out for the squad, which coach Rev. David Bauer describes as Canada's "first truly national team," started intensive skating at the University of Alberta rink here in conjunction with a clinic for minor hockey coaches from Alberta and British Columbia.

Workouts continue here until the end of the week. The entire squad then moves to Vancouver and the University of British Columbia, its base of operations until departure time for Europe and a series of exhibition matches prior to the Jan. 29 starting date of the 1964 Olympic hockey competition.

Father Bauer, 38-year-old Roman Catholic priest, will spend the next five months drilling his charges in a bid to overcome two major problems.

"Inexperience and the difficulty of adjusting the boys to international rules, which allow body checking only in your own end, are the major problems to be overcome," said the hockey veteran who led Toronto St. Michael's College Majors to the Canadian junior hockey championship in 1961.

Father Bauer, a native of Waterloo, Ont., has more than 20 years of hockey knowledge to pass on to the Olympic team hopefuls, only 18 of whom will make the trip to Austria.

His only assistant, in addition to a trainer, in welding together the Olympic team is Dr. Bob Hindmarsh, 33, professor of physical education at UBC, who is team manager.

The two travelled from British Columbia to Newfoundland for players. From an original list of more than 100 they chose 36.

"We looked for players that had ability, spirit, drive and desire," said Dr. Hindmarsh. They apparently also wanted them big — most average 180-190 pounds.

All 36 squad members are university graduates or students and 95 per cent of them will enrol at UBC.

Once in residence on the UBC campus the players will start off-ice exercises, including isometric conditioning and tests to determine the extent of their physical condition.

In early September the team will start a series of 25 Canadian exhibition games. Among their opponents will be teams from the minor professional Western Hockey League; junior and intermediate teams in Alberta and Saskatchewan and senior teams in Eastern Canada. The majority of the exhibition contests will be played under international rules.

UBC and Father Bauer got the job of building the Olympic team by applying for it.

"We talked over the idea back in 1961 and finally decided we should do what we were thinking about," Dr. Hindmarch said.

"We felt having the Olympic team working out of the University of British Columbia would brighten the image of intercollegiate, junior and all other levels of hockey in Canada," he said.

YANKEE PITCHING STANDS OUT

Spahn, Mays Carving An Indelible Heritage

By United Press International

It's going to take a big eraser to obliterate the names of Willie Mays and Warren Spahn from baseball history.

Together, they present a composite picture of a perfect ballplayer. Individually, they are leaving an indelible heritage that will proclaim their fame for future generations.

Mays, one of the most exciting players ever to participate in the national pastime, reached a personal milestone Tuesday night when he hit the 400th home run of his major league career. Only four other men have reached that figure in National League history and Mays is the first right-handed batter.

The blow touched off a three-run third-inning rally for San Francisco and helped beat St. Louis, 7-2, and move the Giants into a second-place tie with the Cardinals.

Whereas Mays has the power, speed and versatility of the composite player, Spahn provides the necessary pitching ability. The 42-year-old southpaw, who learned how to win at an early age and still retains the habit, pitched scoreless ball over the final seven innings to provide Milwaukee Braves with a 3-2 triumph over the Houston Colts.

17TH VICTORY

It was Spahn's 17th victory of the season against five losses, and left him in excellent position to challenge Christy Mathewson's league record of 13 20-game seasons. It also marked Spahn's 344th lifetime success, just one short of Tim Keefe on the all-time list of winners.

The league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers scored three runs for the first time in seven games to down Cincinnati Reds, 3-2, and take a 6½-game lead over the Giants and Cards. In other games, Pittsburgh Pirates edged New York Mets, 2-1, and Chicago downed Philadelphia, 4-3, in the only day contest.

Meanwhile, over in the American League, New York Yankees, who have opened a hefty 12½-game lead in bidding for the 14th pennant in 17 years, start bragging about the hottest pitching staff in the majors.

SHUTOUT STRING

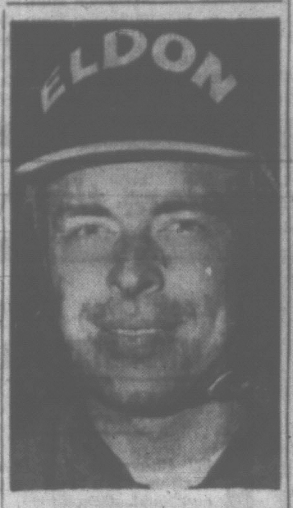
Four different men have hurled shutouts for the Yankees in their last five games. Whitey Ford and Al Downing started the whitewash jobs against Chicago White Sox last weekend. Then Jim Boulton and Ralph Terry blanked Boston Red Sox in a doubleheader Tuesday.

Manager Ralph Houk's mound staff has 18 shutouts to its credit, only six short of the record set in 1951 by the likes of Vic Raschi, Ed Lopat and Allie Reynolds.

Bouton, a part-time jeweler, nearly carved a no-hit gem in Tuesday's opener against the Red Sox. He settled for a two-hit, 5-0 victory. Terry spaced five hits in winning the nightcap, 3-0.

Pinch-hitter Russ Nixon broke up Bouton's no-hit bid when he led off the Boston ninth with a line drive that almost hit the Yankee pitcher.

Chicago White Sox moved into a second-place tie with the idle Minnesota twins by ripping Cleveland Indians, 6-1; Detroit Tigers downed Los Angeles Angels, 4-1, for their sixth straight triumph, and the Kansas City Athletics edged Baltimore Orioles, 2-1, in 10 innings.



FORMER WINNER of Daffodil Cup, Edmonton driver Eldon Rasmussen will make another bid for the trophy this weekend at Western Speedway. Pilots of modified cars start chase for money and trophies Saturday night and wind up three-day program with Daffodil event Monday.

Wills to Tackle Night Club Role

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Shortstop Maury Wills of Los Angeles Dodgers will sing in Las Vegas after the baseball season ends.

Wills, who set the record for stolen bases with 104 last season, will croon with the Maury Wills Singers for three weeks, Nov. 12 - Dec. 2.

He and his professional accompanists will sing and play banjos and guitars during the show featuring singer-dancer Jane Powell.

Jokers Advance Into B.C. Playoff

Jokers tackle Coquitlam's defending B.C. champions on the mainland next weekend. The best-of-three provincial final gets under way Saturday.

An 8-5 conquest of Esquimalt Tugmen at Memorial Arena Tuesday night gave Jokers the best-of-five Island series in three straight.

Jokers' kayo punch was evenly distributed. Whitey Wakelyn (2), Brian Cornell, Keith Bosher, Norm Parker, Toby Wilson, Bob Harris and Dave Gale counted for Jokers.

Stu Walker, John Makowski, Keith Lawrence, Red Larsen and Bob Coutts fired Tugmen's goals.

Ontario Bowlers Cinch Pairs Title

HAMILTON (CP) — Ontario clinched the pairs title Tuesday after the fourth round of the ninth annual Canadian lawn bowling championships.

Ray Reidel and Poe Dorsch, both of Waterloo, Ont., defeated Ernie Cumming and Stan Hewlett of Saskatoon 36-10 in the fourth round.

In the fourth-round singles, Alberta's Jack Coward defeated Manitoba's Bill Lord 21-19. Ontario's Gord Macmillan won for the fourth straight time, defeating Stan Hollingshead from the Town of Mount Royal, Que., 21-11, and Sandy Houston of Vancouver took his fourth win by beating Saskatoon's Ron Laplante 21-7.

In pairs, Alberta's Bert Gallagher and W. Malin, both of Calgary, defeated Quebec's Lloyd Megin and Bill Ogilvie 22-11. Manitoba chalked up its first victory when Harry Mitchell and Jack Jackson of Winnipeg defeated Herb Howse and Jack Delhouse of Vancouver 23-20.

ALBERTA LOSES FOURS

Ontario beat Saskatchewan 22-17, while B.C. (Don Anthony, Doug McQueen, Chuck Christensen and skip Bert Corcoran from Vancouver) won 24-10 over Manitoba.

Beamer Tied For Top Spot

By The Canadian Press

Fullback Nub Beamer of British Columbia Lions moved up to share first place with Calgary's Lovell Coleman in the Western Football Conference scoring race Monday night.

Beamer scored two touchdowns as his team defeated the Stampeders 22-19 in Calgary. Coleman scored a touchdown and both have 36 points.

Calgary flanker Larry Robinson took sole occupancy of second place with 30 points. Before his two converts, a field goal and a single Monday night, he shared second with Beamer and teammate Jim Dillard.

NEVER LOSE ON FRIDAY TURF OFFER TO LADIES

If the horse they pick runs out of the money on that day, they'll be able to redeem the tickets for trading stamps. A $2 ticket will be worth 20 trading stamps and so on up the line.

Each Friday, beginning Aug. 30, will be ladies' day. And if the ladies desire to pay their way into the northern Kentucky track, they'll also get double stamps for the price of admission.

To keep the ladies from redeeming any losing ticket they find, Latonia will limit the trade-ins to special tickets sold only at special windows.

McCormick's Booster Draws Assist on Win

MONTREAL — Brian Shakespeare of Halifax must have had it figured out beforehand.

Shakespeare, named to the Canadian Junior Davis Cup tennis team a few weeks ago, felt Victoria's Don McCormick was a better choice.

He felt McCormick earned a spot on the team by virtue of victory in the Canadian junior championships at Ottawa last week. Shakespeare was beaten in the semifinals by Vancouver's Bob Moffatt.

McCORMICK SPARKLES

Canada, with McCormick playing strongly, beat Japan in both singles and doubles Tuesday night.

Andre Tielemans of Montreal defeated Takao Kobayashi 7-9, 6-0, 6-2 and McCormick beat Juyn Kuki 4-6, 6-4, 7-5 in the singles.

Tielemans and McCormick then went on to beat the Japanese pair 6-4, 7-5 in the doubles.

Two players each representing Canada, Japan and the United States are taking part in the championships, running through to Thursday.

It's Good News For Carry Back

NEW YORK (AP) — Carry Back may be coming back to the races.

An injury to the horse Saturday, hastily diagnosed as a fracture of the left foreleg, was termed Monday as something similar to a sprained ankle in a human.

Dr. William O. Reed, a veterinarian at Belmont Park, said "His condition is not a serious one and will clear up in time."

Bellingham Angler Cowichan Winner

Steve Woloshyn of Duncan took second prize, with Don Jenkins of Ganges, third.

WORKERS ONE UP

Gary Inherits Starring Role

So look where the hero's mantle fell Tuesday night... On Bishop's shoulders.

Mr. Moseley didn't relinquish the role without a fight. Hero of Builders' semifinal victory in the Senior Amateur Baseball League playoffs, Des was as sharp as ever Tuesday.

Bishop was a trifle sharper. So Transport Workers — the pennant-winners — today hold a 1-0 advantage in the best-of-three final. Bishop accounted for all Transport runs at Royal Athletic Park Tuesday as they squeezed by Moseley and the Builders, 3-2.

SINGLE SCORES TWO

Gary's bloop single to right field drove in two runs that opened scoring in the first inning. Then, with the score tied 2-2 and darkness closing in rapidly, Bishop circled the bases for the winning run in the sixth.

A walk to Bishop, a sacrifice and Mike McAvoy's single scuttled Builders.

Transport Workers	200 001	3	4 1

BACK TO BARONS

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jim Mikol, 26-year-old rightwinger for Cleveland Barons for the last three seasons, has been reacquired by the American Hockey League club through purchase from Toronto Maple Leafs.

Kelly Doubtful About Future

TORONTO (CP) — Red Kelly hasn't signed his 1963-64 contract with the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Liberal member of Parliament for York West doesn't know himself whether he will be playing a 17th season in the National Hockey League.

"I honestly don't know," he said in an interview this week. "I know I won't—rather can't—do it the way I did last year."

That was his first year in Parliament and Kelly had to commute between Ottawa and Toronto.

"I didn't miss a major vote," the 36-year-old player added. "But it was too tough on everybody, myself and my family."

'Neaman Plan' for Taxes Intrigues Royal Commission

WINNIPEG (CP) — Amid all the tax experts, a Winnipeg furrier came apologetically before the royal commission on taxation Tuesday and fascinated the hearing by unfurling a sparking new tax structure.

Morris Neaman clearly broke new ground at a time when the six-member commission is hearing many suggestions for the sixth time around.

"A fresh approach," said the commission chairman, Kenneth Carter, "... with considerable virtue." And for the first time since hearings began last spring, spectators broke into a round of applause as Mr. Neaman rose to leave.

GIVES HIGHLIGHTS

All exemptions for personal income tax would be abolished. Employees earning less than $6,000 a year would pay no tax themselves, and wouldn't even complete a form. Instead, their employers would pay the revenue department an amount equal to 10 per cent of each employee's salary.

Persons earning between $6,000 and $56,000 would pay an adidtional tax of 20 per cent on any amount over $6,000. On incomes between $56,001 and $106,000 the tax rate would climb to 40 per cent, with higher incomes being nailed at 60 per cent.

The two-level corporation tax —now 21 per cent for incomes under $35,000 and 50 per cent for higher incomes—would be abolished in favor of a flat rate of 40 per cent. There would be no tax holidays for new industries, and Crown corporations and co-operatives would pay the same amount as any other firm. All concessions would be kept to a bare minimum.

"Open the door an inch," said Mr. Neaman, "and you open it a mile — give nobody anything and you have no kicks."

Mr. Neaman's brief dealt with virtually all existing taxes, but its greatest emphasis was on the personal income tax rates. It wasn't fair, he said, that because of personal exemptions some workers were getting far less money than others for doing the same work.

"We should not distort the tax system for socialogical purposes," he said. "If it is intended to assirt large families with low incomes, this should be done through family allowance payments."

He thought the basic 10 per cent rate represented the amount that every citizen owes for the operation of government.

He figured that his plan would give the government an additional $657,000,000 in tax money. It would also lighten the load on those earning more than $6,000—"the most important people in our society, such as professional men".

DO-IT-SELF DOPE GROWER IN COURT

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) —A 21-year-old University of British Columbia student was remanded for sentence Tuesday after he pleaded guilty to a charge of growing his own marijuana.

Defence counsel for Robert Lawrence Hogg told the court Hogg has been smoking the mild narcotic once or twice a week for the past year. Hogg was not addicted to the drug, his lawyer said, and jailing him would have a more harmful than beneficial effect.

Secret Group Fighting Atheism

QUEBEC (CP)—Leo Tremblay testified Tuesday that a secret group called La Phalange and dedicated to "fighting atheism in all its forms" is operating in Quebec.

He was testifying at the preliminary hearing of Rene Matte, 28, a high school teacher in suburban Ste. Foy, and his brother Jean-Paul Matte, 32, a mechanic from St. Casimir, Que.

They are charged with theft of a plaque from the Plains of Abraham that commemorated the 1939 visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth. The hearings continue today.

Tremblay said he could not break his oath of membership in La Phalange when Crown Prosecutor Jean Bienvenue asked him whether the Mattes were members of the group.

Membership prohibited disclosing any details about the group, Tremblay said, but added that it comprised Roman Catholics dedicated to "fighting atheism—particularly Free-Masonry."

Members included the clergy, professional men and workers, he said.

Red Editor Hears Papal Diplomacy

ROME (Reuters)—Pope John XXIII told Izvestia editor Alexei Adzhubei that God needed more than one day to create the world when the Russian asked about the possibility of contacts between the Vatican and Moscow, it was learned Tuesday.

Details of the private audience granted on March 7 to Adzhubei and his wife Rada were revealed Monday when the late pontiff's private secretary, Msgr. Loris Capovilla, addressed a conference at Assisi, Italian newspaper reports said Tuesday.

Adzhubei, is the son-in-law of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

When Adzhubei asked Pope John whether it was possible to start a "dialogue," the Pope replied with "skilful pastoral diplomacy," said Capovilla.

"You are a journalist? Well, so you will know the Bible. The first words in the Bible state that God created heaven and earth and that it took seven days to create the whole world.

"As you know, these are long geological hours," Capovilla quoted the Pope as saying in an article in the Catholic newspaper Il Quotidiano.

"We are in the first period today, at the first day, the day of fiat lux let there be light."

Capoville said Pope John then opened his arms wide and said: "For today, there is the light of my eyes in yours."

Glass Jail Cells

PARIS (AP)—Jail cells with shatterproof glass walls are to be installed in Paris police stations. Police Chief Maurice Papon said Tuesday he took the decision because of an increase in the number of suicide attempts by prisoners.

SOUTH VIET NAM REPLIES TO U.S. CHARGES

Robes Hide 'Political Saboteurs'

SAIGON (AP)—President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime charged today the U.S. state department has shown "a profoundly unjust doubt in the government of (South) Viet Nam, based on totally erroneous information."

A government note referred to a state department declaration of Aug. 21 which deplored methods used by Vietnamese security forces against Buddhists Aug. 21. Pagodas throughout the nation were raided that day and thousands of Buddhist monks and nuns were beaten, shot or arrested.

The Vietnamese note said:

"The government of Viet Nam reaffirms its determination to continue its policy of conciliation toward the Buddhists, but it is also resolved to unmask all political saboteurs hiding under various disguises."

ATTACKS LEADERS

The note described monks who had led the Buddhist campaign for "religious freedom and social justice" as political saboteurs bent on subversion, including stockpiling of arms and printing machinery for carrying on clandestine propaganda.

The state department declaration was called "prejudicial to the honor and prestige of Viet Nam, which has never broken its word to whomever it made promises."

The note followed a declaration by the joint military command in Saigon, broadcast by the official Viet Nam Press, that high military officers persuaded Diem to impose martial law last week.

Army chiefs proposed the decree and are seeing that it is carried out, the broadcast said, quoting a communique from military headquarters.

The communique apparently was intended to rebut a statement by the U.S. state department Monday that Viet Nam's military leaders had no warning of the plan to impose martial law. The United States had absolved the military from responsibility for the crackdown on Buddhists and by implication blamed President Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, head of security police.

Mobile squads roamed Saigon today and troop concentrations increased to guard against new demonstrations or suicides, but other signs pointed to a relaxation of martial law. Barbed wire barricades were removed from the Saigon University area where 3,000 students were arrested Sunday and prevented from demonstrating. Curfew regulations eased.

Discarded Dog Finds New Home

The dog was let out of a green station wagon on Thetis Lake Road. The car drove quickly away with the dog in pursuit.

The incident was seen by Mrs. J. G. Harris of Five-Mile Kennels who contacted the Good Shepherd Shelter.

MORE BRITONS MOVING TO CANADA

LONDON (CP)—The flow of British emigrants to Canada in the first six months of this year was almost double that of the similar period in 1962.

H. L. Voisey, director of the Canadian immigration service here, said Tuesday that if the number increases in September, as expected, office hours will be extended to handle the applicants.

Predictions are that the year's total will be the highest since the peak year 1957 when 112,000 Britons, many of them reported disgruntled over Britain's intervention in Suez, went to Canada.

Up to the end of June 11,396 had gone through immigration channels. In the same period in 1962 the figure was 6,963.

Voisey said that unlike "the year of Suez," there apparently is no single major reason for the sudden increase this year.

A BLOWOUT AND YOU'RE DEAD

'Papa Doc' Palace Jumpy As Haiti Terror Mounts

By ROBERT BERELLEZ

Drive by the heavily guarded national palace at night on four very bad tires.

"If you have a blowout, it's the end," explained a Haitian businessman. The explosion will draw a barrage of fire from every trigger-happy guard on duty."

Even if apocryphal, this account serves to dramatize two facts of life in the Haiti of dictator Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier:

1. Real fear of a blowout in front of the palace is only one of many varieties of terror flourishing here.

2. The main force of this terror is the palace, the arsenal - fortress which Papa Doc, in a bizarre pact with his sense of historic mission, has pledged to turn into a "Himalaya of bodies . . . rivers of blood" in any attempt to depose him.

Two small invasions by anti-Duvalier armed bands this month resulted in a wave of reprisals here and in the interior, demonstrating that Papa Doc is not making idle threats.

SCORES KILLED

Scores are believed to have been killed or imprisoned—where death sometimes is the only parole—on suspicion of disloyalty. Operating in the invasion area, Duvalier's special security corps, the Tonton Macoutes, are said to have hurled hand grenades into homes of those thought to have even smiled at rebels.

There were reports of executions of officers and civilians in the ill-famed prison of Fort Dimanche. These new victims are only a fraction of those thought to have paid with their lives or limbs for real or imagined lack of faith in Duvalier since he came to power in 1957.

Political reprisal business became so brisk in his time that Duvalier converted the basement section of the national palace and the one-time military barracks at Fort Dimanche into special prisons equipped with torture cells.

NEXT TO SLUMS

The small, drab, mustard-hued Fort Dimanche sits on a marshy seaside flat next to the almost unbelievable slum of La Saline, an appalling collection of filth.

The marshy shrub - covered surroundings of Fort Dimanche are supposed burial grounds of political victims who disappeared long ago.

Here and in the national penitentiary, solitary confinement means enclosure in the "jolibois," tiny cubicles with just enough room to squat or stand hunched over. The low ceiling is sheet metal on which you can panbroil a steak in mid-day heat.

Survivors of these political prisons are reluctant to relate their experiences in detail.

NO SOPHISTICATION

"There really is no sophistication of method as in the movies," one said. "Cigarettes applied to the body, plain beatings or terrible cuffings of the ear. It's too humiliating."

But the northern frontier invasions by his enemies have exposed signs that Papa Doc now is a captive of the fear he exploited to stay in power.

which he purposely weakened while arming his own civilian militia and Tonton Macoutes. When heavily armed terrorists mounted a spectacular attack on his forces in Port Au Prince's foothills last month, the dictator refused to send in the regular army until the militia was routed with heavy losses. Even then Papa Doc showed an astonishing reluctance to part with heavy ammunition he keeps locked up in the palace.

Aware of the long tradition of fragile loyalties among Haiti's partisans of power and of the spreading unrest, the dictator has virtually buried himself in the palace, his last sanctuary.

There he is surrounded by a powerfully-equipped special palace guard, the only tanks and cannon left in the country, most of the ammunition—and his voodoo faith.

BUSY ARE THE BEES AND THE FIRE LADDIES

John Ready, 1540 Burnside West, didn't realize when he set the fire that forms used when concrete was poured were still in place.

Arthur Mayse

Up where we've been fishing this last couple of weeks, the tide runs so far out across sand flats that launching ramps are useless except at high water.

Some have installed marine railways down which your boat glides on a trolley. Others use beach-buggy trucks or jeeps with oversize tires to get anglers afloat. At Bennett's Point, Paul Neilson has rigged a tractor with a hydraulic lift from which juts a planked shelf.

At your hail, Paul waddles his tractor across the sands and into the salt chuck. You ease your boat over the shelf; and up go boat and fishermen, to be deposited across a couple of timbers on the foreshore.

This transition from sea to land doesn't give one time to become reoriented. There you sit, surrounded by grass instead of wafer, vaguely confused amid rods, fuel tank, and if you've been lucky, a fish or two.

As one who hand-hauled boats across those same flats in pre-tractor years, I find the process too abrupt. It is, in fact, like finding myself all of a sudden back at this typewriter, shaved and wearing a suit, with only the vaguest notion of what's been going on in the parish these past two weeks.

To ease the transition, though, here's a welcome letter from a bucktail buff. Lieut. George H. Craven of 1756 Montieth.

"I must take issue with you; Lieut. Craven writes. "Mr. Chettleburgh's 45-pound spring taken on a bucktail can hardly be called a fluke! After all, what else is fishing?

"Aside from the dialectics, a friend and I spent a very pleasant afternoon bucktailing off Golf Links Point, Oak Bay. We got two seven pound coho and several strikes, both fish being taken on my line, with the strikes about evenly divided.

"I had de-weeded my blue and white Cowichan bucktail and spinner and let out about 60 feet of line, only to experience a thunderous strike, just off the kelp beds. I grabbed the rod, had an agonizing reappraisal or two, then handed it to my fishless partner.

"About 20 minutes later, after a pretty energetic struggle, we killed a 31½ pound spring, just as bright as a dollar. The rod was a seven-foot Blanshard with a Mitchell 300 spinning reel, 15-pound line and 10-pound leader."

So it would appear that hooking big springs on the bucktail fly is a more common occurence than I'd realized. It's never yet happened to me, but I'll continue to fish in hope.

That the concentration of net-boats in Johnstone and Juan de Fuca Straits puts a dint in the sport fisherman's take, I haven't the least doubt. Still and all, I think the angler's protests against commercial over-fishing would pack more weight if he contributed directly to the upkeep of the salmon runs.

This he doesn't do, and all attempts to bring in a yearly saltwater licence fee have been met with bristling hostility.

Sooner or later, though, I think, the imposition of such a fee is inevitable. It's one of numerous changes in our system we're going to have to make if the salmon runs are to remain an economic asset to British Columbia.

This province should, indeed, must have more say in the disposition of her fishery. I'd like to see a strong provincial fisheries department, working in concert with the federal authority, the lumbering industry and B.C. Power Commission.

If or when such a department is established, one of its first moves should be to launch a study aimed at finding out whether we're issuing too many commercial licences. I believe we are: and that the fishing industry has become badly overcrowded.

It's unlikely that the legendary salmon runs—the hostings that blackened our Island east coast rivers with fish—will ever return. Accepting this, we can still preserve the salmon in perpetuity if we have the will to do so.

But this calls for a co-operative effort, and in such an effort the sport fisherman as well as the commercial operator must be prepared to pull his weight.

WITH SIREN BLARING a fire truck drove into the Yates-Douglas intersection Tuesday night and almost demolished this car driven by Luciano Decicco, 24, of 585 John. Decicco suffered only slight cuts on his arm and forehead and was released from hospital after treatment. Two firemen also were slightly injured in the crash which drew crowd of onlookers. Fire Truck Hits Car; Three Hurt

Two firemen and a motorist were injured in the pile-up at Yates and Douglas shortly before 11 p.m. All were released after treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Decicco's car spun around, its rear window popped out, and it ended up at the southwest corner facing north. The truck was only slightly damaged but the car appeared a total wreck.

Decicco received cuts on his arm and forehead. Fireman George Robertson, 2831 Adelaide, suffered a minor leg injury, and Fireman Bob Brown, 1443 Brooke, was bumped on his chest.

Immediately after the accident the fire alarm office dispatched another vehicle to the awning fire which was quickly extinguished.

BANDMASTER Lieut. Tudor Jones, RCN, raises his baton to conduct the HMCS Naden Band at Royal Roads Thursday, and it will be like homecoming night. The concert, jointly presented by the RCN Band and Victoria Symphony Society, will feature groups by both ensembles as well as a combined performance of Tschaikowsky's "1812" Overture. Lieut. Jones, recently transferred back here after seven years in the east, played first clarinet with Victoria Symphony in its early days under Melvin Knudsen and when Hans Gruber first took over. Present first clarinet, Barry Moncur, is a former pupil of Lieut. Jones. Tickets for the concert may be obtained at Eaton's or on the grounds at Canadian Services College. Capt. J. M. Gayfer will conduct the orchestra.

Thursday Meetings

Victoria Rotary Club: 12:10 p.m., Empress Hotel; R. L. Pearce, "Africa and Fiji."

ELECTION NOTEBOOK — BY FRANK RUTTER

Top Election Job Here Falls to a Top Socred

Surprise! Some well-known Social Credit names sprinkle the list of returning officers appointed to supervise voting in the provincial election Sept. 30.

In Victoria the job—worth $2,000—goes to Elmer McEwen, Socred stalwart who is an unsuccessful federal candidate, and previous seeker of the provincial nomination.

In Saanich it is Mrs. Thelma Cook; Oak Bay, lawyer Kenneth Murphy, who sponsored Al. Millard Mooney as a federal Socred candidate; Esquimalt, D. G. Woods.

The ROs in turn appoint other people as local deputies, poll clerks and registrars, which explains why some of them are Socreds, too.

The budget debacle in Ottawa worked against the party in the Columbia byelection, and officials fear it may rub off on provincial candidates who would rather not mention federal accomplishments.

B.C. president W. A. Gilmour explains that federal members will be preparing for a busy session of Parliament which starts Sept. 30. He adds that unfortunately Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing is in the Arctic and Forestry Minister Jack Nicholson is touring the Maritimes.

Previous NDP campaigns have been run on the basis "if" or "an NDP government would . . ."

That well-known team of Smith and Ellis will tread the boards for Social Credit again in this election campaign.

But they may have to split up.

A Socred official hints that Geoffrey Ellis may seek the nomination for Oak Bay. Reeve George Murdoch isn't expected to run again.

Mr. Ellis and Sid Smith quit the Liberal party during the Columbia byelection campaign, and were a featured attraction at Golden in mid-July.

If provincial civil servants want to be candidates—they'll have to quit their jobs, or lose them.

The civil service commission has ruled that employees must resign if they want to run.

It's only happened twice in recent years: Forests Minister Ray Williston and Herb Bruch of Esquimalt both quit. Dave Barrett, the NDP candidate from Dewdney, was fired in 1960, but that was because he "sounded off" in advance about government welfare policy, said an official.

Seal Hunters 'Silenced' For Year

Three seal hunters who decided to take a potshot at a logging truck won't be doing any kind of shooting for a year at least.

They were banned from handling any firearms for a year and were bound over on a bond of $500 for two years when they appeared in Sooke magistrate's court Tuesday.

One accused is a juvenile and the other two are Brian Gray, 325 Cook, and Charles Dick, 1400 Beach Drive.

Magistrate E. Murphy made their sentence conditional on full restitution being made for damage done to the truck.

The magistrate said that each year the hunting season results in damage being done to property by frustrated hunters. He said he would discourage it this year by stiff penalties.

The three accused were hunting seals at this time because there is a bounty on certain species. The hunting season is not yet open.

'Broaden Control To Save Fishing'

Ken Nishikawara, secretary of Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association's fishing chapter, said this is the only way to protect sports fishing.

He was commenting on International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission decision to close Juan de Fuca Strait to net fishermen Thursday.

Sportsmen, conservationists and troll fishermen were alarmed at the commission's "open-end" week set last weekend. They feared that hundreds of gill and seine net commercial vessels fishing the strait would trap all species "indefinitely."

The word was used in the fisheries department order that was to be revised when inspectors got a better idea of the salmon run.

TEMPERS EASING

Mr. Nishikawara said there is some easing of feeling since Thursday at 6 p.m. was set as net fishing deadline this week. But members of the association still are concerned about the extension of net fishing.

"The only solution is to give more authority to the salmon fisheries commission," the secretary said.

The commission, chaired by Sen. Thomas Reid, of Vancouver, is concerned only with the control of pinks and sockeye, although nets also trap the sportsmen's coho and spring salmon.

NO PROPER CONTROL

"They can't get proper control the way they have nets across the strait.

"It looks bad for the future of sports fishing," Mr. Nishikawara said.

He suggested a way of reforming the situation might be to go back to commercial river mouth fishing, which would control individual river runs of fish.

Salmon move into the strait en masse, then segregate into runs on the various spawning rivers.

A similar view was expressed by Rennie Stanton, secretary of Pacific Trollers' Association, a commercial fishing organization that catches no net fish, although it loses springs and coho to net fishermen.

"In general policy I don't agree with the San Juan net fishery," he said, referring to the regulation allowing nets to be set across the Canadian mouth of Juan de Fuca Strait near Port Renfrew.

Cadboro Bay Asks Better Bus Service

A petition is being circulated in Cadboro Bay requesting the B.C. government to provide a better bus service.

Capt. William Gregory, who is collecting signatures, said the Cadboro Bay bus makes only one trip an hour.

"This is inadequate for a district which has many retired people," he said.

He said residents want the Uplands bus route extended to the Cadboro Bay shopping centre. This would provide the district with three additional buses an hour.

Capt. Gregory said the extension of the bus route to Cadboro Bay would enable people to go directly to the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

"They can't do this on the Cadboro Bay bus," he said. "They have to transfer and this involves long waits.

GRANT REDUCED

Symphony Asks Financial Help

Victoria Symphony Society president Jack Barraclough today said he hoped municipal or provincial grants would be increased to cover a $2,000 cut in Canada Council aid this year.

The Canada Council announced Tuesday that all grants to orchestras and theatres will be reduced this year due to virtual exhaustion of a $700,000 reserve fund.

In Victoria's case, this means a $7,000 grant in place of last year's $9,000, Mr. Barraclough said.

Asked for comment, he said:

"The grant is still very acceptable but the cut is disappointing when you think of all the activities this gift has helped support — aid for music students, school concerts, concerts for Duncan and Sidney and free concerts for the public here."

However, Mr. Barraclough said the society has no intention of cutting back its program.

"There is just the minimum of music now and so we must hope that the citizens will jump in and take up the slack."

He said he expected members would help by increasing their subscriptions and taxpayers would support a request "to have this reduction made up by either one of the local governments or the provincial government."

Funeral Saturday For Sheet Metal Firm Proprietor

William McKinty, proprietor of Victoria's Model Sheet Metal Works for 30 years, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Wednesday at the age of 54.

Born in Ottawa, he had resided here for 53 years.

Mr. McKinty, who lived at 2811 Rockwell Street, Saanich, was a son of the late Archibald McKinty, well-known Victoria contractor.

He was a member of Mount Newton Lodge, AF and AM; the Gizeh Temple Shrine and Victoria Shrine Club.

Funeral services in McCall's funeral chapel Saturday at 1:30 p.m. will be conducted by Ven. J. W. Forth and followed by interment in Hatley Memorial Gardens.

Mr. McKinty leaves a widow, Eva; one daughter, Donna; and a son, Neil, at home; two brothers, John and Edward, in Victoria, and several nieces and nephews.

DEAR ABBY . . .

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a member of that long-suffering group which I call the GWMSOC — "Girls Who Married Somebody's Only Child." I have learned to endure Mamma's references to "My Baby," (now gray-haired and 44.) I let her cook the way she wants to when she visits us. I even laugh it off when she forgets and calls me by my husband's ex-wife's first name. But she still insists on asking personal questions about our finances such as, "How much are you making now? Did you get a raise? Is your car paid for yet? What else do you owe?" She doesn't help us financially, (in fact we help her) so must we answer her questions?

QUIZ KID'S DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

DEAR D-I-L: Certainly not. Tell her in a nice way that there is no reason why she should have to worry about your financial obligations in addition to her own.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have enjoyed a wonderful friendship with a married couple for over 30 years. They are living on a limited budget, so when I had a big family party to celebrate our anniversary, I did not invite them because I didn't want them to spend the money for a gift. Ever since that time they have been very cool and formal to me. I would give anything to have their friendship again as it was before. Was I wrong to exclude them from a party to which a gift should be taken? How can I let them know I am heartbroken over this?

AN OLD FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: You should have invited them and have let THEM decide whether or not they could afford a gift. Go to them and tell them you are sorry.

DEAR ABBY: The 14-year-old who wrote of her disgust at seeing sex books and magazines everywhere brought a good reply from you. (To turn her gaze to higher and better things, and to seek good books, wholesome friends and spiritual learning.) There IS a lot of good around. What we seek usually determines what we experience. As parents, we should work to clean up our local stores of this immoral rubbish. How? By shopping elsewhere! We may have to walk a little further, but it is worth it. The merchant who takes a stand against the sale of such trash deserves our support. Find out who he is, and reward him with your patronage.

Not Magic, but Scientists Produced Invisible Thread

By PENNY SAVER

Scene in a Victoria home: The scientist, turned fairy godmother, is waving his (her) wand over the housewife as she sews. Pouff! and the machine stitching is all invisible.

An imaginary scene, but a true thought behind it. You've no more worries about the straight lines you can't sew, or the zippers that you just can't get in as neatly as you would like.

Science has made the story of the emperor's new suit of clothes possible.

If you remember way back to the age when you read fairy stories, you may recall the poor emperor who was duped by some clever "quack" tailors into believing that they were making him the most beautiful suit of clothes out of invisible thread when in reality he was wearing nothing but his birthday suit!

Invisible as the thread is that scientists have now developed, it won't produce quite this effect. It is designed rather to hold your clothes together without letting the stitching show.

Synthetic thread comes in only two shades—light and dark. At present the Victoria shop that is carrying it has only the light color. But even this blends with almost any color you happen to be wearing.

There are other advantages besides its invisibility. There is no lint to gather and clog the eyes of your needles. Knots will hold more firmly. Thread will not fray, and it will not shrink.

You can use it on silks, rayon, nylon, velvet, knits, wool, wash-and-wear cotton and any number of synthetics.

When ironing, you set the dial for "wash and wear" or for "woollens," as recommended for these materials.

Let magic enter your life by calling Penny at 382-3131 to ask where you may buy this thread.

FRESH PLUMS
CHEESE FILLING

Six tablespoons cream cheese, 1 tablespoon salad dressing or mayonnaise, few grains salt, 1 tablespoon chopped walnuts or pecans, 1 tablespoon finely chopped celery, 6 large or 9 medium fresh dessert plums.

Cream the cheese with a fork, add salad dressing and salt and blend thoroughly. Add nuts and celery and combine well. Wash plums, cut in half and remove pits. Spread each half with cheese mixture allowing about 1½ teaspoons for each large half and about 1 teaspoon for each medium. Leave as half plums or press two halves together. Serve as an appetizer with cold meat, or as part of a fruit salad plate.

Lemons for Energy And for Good Health

"A Persian's heaven
is easily made;
'Tis but black eyes

Small wonder, this hankering for tall, frosty lemonades, when heat in Teheran shimmers around an 85.4 degree average!

In Canada not only is a lemon a fresh and zestful fruit, a wonder-worker at enhancing the flavor of many other foods, but its vitamin C content is so rich that it helps us face any kind of weather with more energy and better health. In addition it has varying amounts of many other vitamins and minerals.

LEMON-COCONUT CHIFFON TARTS

One envelope unflavored gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, ¾ cup sugar, ⅓ cup fresh lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 eggs, separated, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, ¾ teaspoon pure vanilla extract, 6 baked 5-inch tart shells.

Soften gelatine in cold water. Set aside. Mix ½ cup of the sugar, lemon juice, salt and beaten egg yolks in top of a double boiler. Cook over hot water (not boiling) 10 to 12 minutes or until of custard consistency. Stir in softened gelatine, lemon rind and pure vanilla extract. Cool over ice water until custard begins to thicken. Beat egg whites until they stand in soft, stiff peaks. Gradually beat in remaining sugar. Fold into the mixture. Turn into cold baked tart shells. Chill until ready to serve. Top with whipped cream, garnish with grated lemon rind. Yield: six servings.

NEVER FAIL LEMON MERINGUE PIE

One cup sugar, ⅓ cup cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup cold water, 1¼ cups hot water, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 egg yolks, ½ cup fresh lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract, 9-inch baked pie shell, meringue.

Combine ½ cup of the sugar, cornstarch, salt and cold water in the top of a double boiler. Mix well. Stir in boiling water. Cook over rapidly boiling water five minutes or until thick, stirring constantly. Cover and continue cooking over boiling water eight minutes or until very thick, stirring occasionally. Add butter or margarine. Beat egg yolks lightly and blend with remaining ⅓ cup sugar to which add a little of the hot mixture. Then stir into the remaining hot mixture. Cook uncovered over hot water (not boiling) 10 minutes or until very thick, stirring frequently. Gradually stir in lemon juice and rind. Remove from heat. Cool. Add pure vanilla extract and turn into a baked 9-inch pie shell. Top as desired with meringue. Bake in a preheated slow oven (300° F.) 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool before serving.

Yield: Six servings.

Meringue: 3 egg whites, 1 teaspoon cold water, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon pure vanilla extract optional.

Combine egg whites and water and beat until they stand in soft peaks. Gradually beat in sugar and pure vanilla extract, if used. Beat until meringue stands in very stiff peaks.

Vicki Hinch to Marry Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Hinch, 3737 Waring Place, are announcing the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Dierdre Wray Victoria (Vicki) to Mr. Barry Leonard Roach, son of Mrs. Leona Roach, Duncan, B.C., and the late Mr. Roach. The wedding will take place on Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in St. Peter's Church, Lake Hill, with Rev. Kenneth M. King officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinch returned to the city last week from Singapore where Mr. Hinch has been stationed for the past year in the Colombo Plan.

Their two younger children, Daru and Brett, returned to Victoria by air a month ago. Miss Tammy Hinch, formerly of this city, who is now taking nurses' training in Geelong, near Melbourne, Australia, will be unable to attend her sister's wedding.

Honoring Miss Hinch, a kitchen shower was given recently at the Queenswood Drive home of Mrs. Kenneth King. Corsages were presented on arrival, to Miss Hinch, her mother and grandmother Mrs. F. V. Hinch and Mrs. T. B. T. Hewett, and to Mrs. J. F. Roach, mother of the groom-elect. Other guests, with most of whom Miss Hinch had earlier been associated in junior choirs of St. John's or St. Peter's Churches, Victoria, included Mrs. H. B. Kelley, Mrs. A. W. Palmer, Mrs. M. E. Ward and the Misses Carolyn Adams, Marion Allen, Gloria Borrowman, Donna Boardman, Jean Dark, Judith Faryon, Rosalind Franklin, Barbara Hall, Joan Harding, Paulette Howard, Cathy Lavoi, Margaret Kelley, Wendy McCague, Charleen McDougall, Patsy McLeman, Dianne McMaster, Irene Palmer, Valerie Parker, and Gail Wall.

A feature of the evening was the "entry" of the shower gifts cleverly arranged by Miss McCague and Miss Franklin in the form of a horse, built around an ironing board, while another group of gifts was arranged by Miss Howard and Miss McLeman in a multi-tiered "wedding cake." The evening closed with "Thanks Be To God" and "Bless This House" sung by the choirs.

Eye Care Tips for Parents

A new baby arrived?

If so, don't expect that little baby to recognize you by sight. Newborns see upside down and separately with each eye. Their vision is completely blurred for the first few months and to a somewhat lesser extent for months afterwards.

As your baby's eyes develop, you may find helpful the following checkpoints:

Bright lights are bad for the infant's developing eyes and should be avoided. But rather than keeping him in a totally dark room, a room with diffused light is preferable.

Try to avoid making the infant look sideways at you. Infants are likely to move their eyes rather than their heads to see something not in their line of vision, and this, if overdone, can injure their eyes.

In order that both eyes develop properly, try to hold your baby in one arm for one feeding and in the other arm for the next. This helps to give both eyes an equal amount of use.

Keep fingernails trimmed and sharp objects out of reach.

Be alert for the first sign of crossed eyes, which usually begin before the age of five.

Have your child examined by an opthalmologist (eye doctor) by his fourth birthday, or sooner if you have reason to suspect anything wrong.

When Should Your TEEN-AGER Start to Wear a BRA?

. . . probably between 11 and 16. Her exact age is not important because no two children develop at the same speed. What does matter is . . . when her figure first begins to look more rounded . . . more feminine. She is a beTween ager. It is time to start thinking about a bra. By giving her a Bra as soon as her figure starts to develop, you can help your daughter grow up to have a firm, perfectly shaped bust. At this stage the still-forming tissue can be easily and irreparably damaged by strain. But the gentle support of a correctly fitting Bra safeguards her future figure-beauty.

Of Personal Interest

From Overseas

Mr. and Mrs. James S. Stewart have returned to their Broughton Street home after four months overseas. They travelled by air both ways and while abroad visited relatives and friends in the British Isles and spent some time in Holland, Germany, Austria, Belgium, Italy, France and Switzerland.

Reception

Engaged

Mr. H. A. Winterburn, 2641 Graham Street, has announced the engagement of his younger daughter, Sylvia Dorothy, to Mr. Dennis James Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brooks, 2633 Wark Street. The wedding will take place in St. Andrew's Cathedral on Saturday, Sept. 28, at 7 p.m.

McKinley-Harness Wedding

Suzanne Clair Harness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harness of Youbou, B.C., recently became the bride of Neil Borden McKinley, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. McKinley of Armstrong. The ceremony took place in St. Andrews Cathedral with Msgr. M. T. O'Connell officiating.

Imported Swiss appliques outlined the neckline and front of the bride's gown, which was styled with fitted bodice and dolman sleeves. She carried a mother of pearl prayer book with streamers of rosebuds and a hand-made rosary.

Attendants, Mrs. Bob Davis, Miss Dianne Weismuller and Miss Pat Salter wore gowns of blue organza over blue taffeta.

Best man was Ross McKinley, and the ushers were Bob Davis and Bill Randall. David McKinley Jr. was ring bearer.

Ross-Smith Daughter To Marry

Of interest here and in Duncan is the announcement of the engagement of Anne, daughter of Mrs. G. D. Ross-Smith, 116 Staunton Road, Headington, Oxford, Eng., and the late Lt.-Col. Ross-Smith, to David, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Trewin of Truro, Eng. Lt.-Col. Ross-Smith, who died two years ago, was a former owner of the Silver Bridge Inn at Duncan and was also British Columbia representative for a well-known distillery with his headquarters in Victoria.

Receives Award

At recent graduation exercises in Holyrood House, for the sixth class of practical nurses in the B.C. Vocational School in Victoria, the valedictorian, Miss Judith Anne Whittle, received the award for best bedside nursing. Miss E. Walther, head nurse in St. Joseph's Hospital pediatrics department, made the presentation.

For Invalids

Brillat-Savarin, the famous French epicure, once said that fish "suits almost every temperament, and may even be allowed to invalids." Halibut is just one of the many fish varieties recommended by dietitians for invalid feeding. Its tender, white flesh is rich in body-building proteins so necessary for convalescence, in helping build up and repair body tissue. And the protein of halibut is in a readily digestible form. The fish is also low in fat, which is frequently limited in the diets of the sick and the convalescent.

Romance Follows Trip Abroad

They were Miss Carole Heyd, Miss Virginia Grant, Miss Dianne Harris and Miss Sonja Strandlie.

Hitch-hiking was their main mode of travel overseas and in the two years they saw much of Europe and something of North Africa.

Miss Heyd and Miss Harris also taught school in London for two winter terms.

During the overseas journey Miss Harris became engaged to Robin Charlwood of Sussex, Eng., and the couple was married in Victoria last Friday.

When Miss Strandlie returned to Canada she stayed in Toronto to teach and there met and became engaged to Donald Whitehead. They were married earlier this year and are now living in that city.

Miss Grant returned to Victoria a little over a month ago and is now on staff of the provincial social service department.

Last of the foursome to come home was Miss Heyd who arrived in Victoria a little over two weeks ago. She too, became engaged overseas to Andrew Connell of Blairmore, Scotland. The wedding will take place toward the end of the year.

In honor of their daughter and to mark a reunion for the four girls while Mrs. Whitehead was in Victoria on honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heyd entertained recently with "open house" at their home on Ventura Way.

Among other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Doidge, Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Grant, Mrs. Gerald Lauder, Mrs. George Strandlie, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wakefield, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burger, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Shippen, Mr. and Mrs. William Squires, Mr. and Mrs. Charles deMecedo, Mrs. Hugh Aylmer, Mrs. Larry Brule, Mr. Ernest Dyson, Misses Irene Darcus, Joan Russell, Ann Aylmer, Sheila Millan, Sandra Lauder, Sandra deMecedo and Dawn Hickman.

Mr. and Mrs. John Meulblok, 542 Langford Street, have announced the coming marriage of their eldest daughter, Maatje (Margaret), to Mr. Douglas Albert Fyfe Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid F. Wilson, 3925 Lauder Road. The wedding will take place in Victoria West United Church on September 7 at 7:30 p.m., with Rev. P. V. Samson officiating. (Chevrons Studio.)

Showered With Confetti

Gifts were arranged under a pink and white umbrella at a recent shower held in the Haslam Avenue home of Mrs. J. Brears when September bride-elect, Miss Margaret Robertson, was guest of honor. Co-hostess was Mrs. M. Mergens.

A corsage of pink carnations was presented to the bride-elect and white carnations to her mother, Mrs. G. Robertson and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. G. Williams.

Pink and white confetti-filled balloons were suspended above the bride-elect's chair which was decorated with pink and white streamers and wedding bells. As each gift was opened a balloon burst and the honored guest was showered with confetti.

Guests were Mrs. K. Pierson, Mrs. A. Torgerson, Mrs. C. Williams, Mrs. G. Robertson, Mrs. M. Gamble, Mrs. J. Alm, Mrs. K. Southey, Mrs. J. C. Wilson, Mrs. W. Alder, Mrs. G. Baird, Mrs. A. A. Baird, Mrs. L. Blixrud, Mrs. G. Williams, Mrs. D. Milne, Mrs. B. Bullivant, Mrs. D. Ridout, Mrs. A. Thompson, Mrs. E. Jones, Mrs. G. Carmichael, Mrs. S. Simmons, Mrs. J. McLeod, Mrs. J. Heath, Mrs. R. Richardson, Mrs. R. Scott, Mrs. B. Hudson, and the Misses Jackie Gordon, Shirley Bennett, Teresa Milne, Donna Weeks, Margaret Kezere and Barbara Nipp.

Wed in St. Mark's

Canon Robert G. Willis officiated at the recent wedding of Sandra Sidney MacKenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard MacKenzie, Brooklyn Queens County Nova Scotia, to Const. Richard George Stanley Hall, RCMP, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest George Hall, of Victoria.

The double ring ceremony took place in St. Marks Anglican Church which was decorated with yellow and white carnations for the occasion. Mrs. Hewitt was organist and Mrs. J. Kelly sang "I Walk With God and "O Promise Me."

The bride, given in marriage by Derek Elcoate, wore a ballerina-length white taffeta gown with overlays of white net and white nylon applique. The bodice had a Princess neckline and long lily-point sleeves. A finger-tip net veil was held with a pearl drop coronet. Pearl stud earrings, gift from the groom, and a pearl necklace were worn by the bride. She carried a yellow and white rose bouquet.

Attendants, Miss Aileen McDonald, Mrs. Ann Meabry, Miss Anja Kerchoven and Miss Chris Dalton, Seattle, were gowned in short-sleeved blue taffeta dresses with blue rayon lace overskirts. All wore long white nylon gloves. Their headpieces were of blue rayon lace, gathered at the centre with yellow carnations. They carried yellow and white carnations.

Best man was Cpl. J. E. S. Bragg, RCMP, Ganges, B.C., and the ushers were Const. R. Prest Victoria, Const. F. Luttrell, Ganges and Cpl. G. A. Smith, Victoria, all of the RCMP.

At a reception in Loughheed's Banquet Hall the tables were arranged in a circle around the hall. The cake, decorated with yellow roses and cut flowers centred the head table. Music was provided by the Continentals. Mr. Elcoate proposed the toast.

The honeymon was spent in Seattle, Portland and Vancouver, B.C. For travelling the bride chose a three-piece coral suit with white accessories, and a corsage of white gardenias.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Kay Butler and daughter Sharon, Gibsons, B.C. and Mrs. E. S. Morton, Calgary, Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Cummins, 4153 North Road, have announced the engagement of their eldest daughter, Marlene Louise, to Mr. Warren Kennedy Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Gordon, 164 West Burnside Road. The marriage will take place on Saturday, September 7, at 8 p.m., in St. John's Anglican Church with Canon George Biddle officiating. (Chapman Photography.)

Wedding in St. Mary's Anglican Church, Oak Bay

Canon Frederic Pike officiated at the wedding of Miss Heather Estelle Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Murray, 1790 North Dairy Road, and Alan Metcalfe, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Metcalfe, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, England. The ceremony took place on Saturday in St. Mary's Anglican Church, Oak Bay, which was decorated with baskets of white flowers for the occasion. Pew markers were white heather and white ribbon.

The basque bodice had lily-point sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. Both the softly-flaring skirt and the bodice were appliqued with delicate butterfly lace. Two appliqued floating panels extended gracefully from the ribbed waistline to the floor in the back.

Attendants, Mrs. R. Dunnett, Miss Lynda Jean MacLean, and Miss Sharon Nesbitt were identically gowned in heavy delphinium blue satin with overblouses of white lace. They wore white accessories and carried small baskets of trailing pale yellow carnations.

Best man was Trevor McDermott from Derby, England. Ushers were Harry Gibb, David Dawson, Peter Murray and John Teagle.

At a reception in Holyrood House, red roses and a three-tier wedding cake in white and silver centred the bride's table. Red and white floral decorations completed the decor for 100 guests who were served buffet-style refreshments. An old friend of the bride's family, "Sandy" Crawford, proposed the toast.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. T. McDermott from England and Miss Carol Litz from Vancouver.

The couple will spend a month's honeymoon in England, where they will visit their families. For travelling overseas by air, the bride wore a white flecked oatmeal suit with gold-toned accessories.

Thought Poisonous

In the United States the tomato once was thought poisonous, probably because it belongs to the nightshade family which includes deadly species.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Nutritionally, Canned Foods Not Inferior to Fresh Ones

Canned foods are a great help to the reducer. They not only offer infinite variety all year round, but they make calorie counting easy. For instance, a 10½-ounce can of condensed chicken noodle soup has 152.7 calories. Each can makes three servings, and every can is the same. If you were to make your own soup you would not be nearly so precise. You might not skim off enough chicken fat or you might put more noodles in one time than another. The calorie count could differ every time you make it.

Many women believe that canned foods are not nearly so nutritious as fresh foods. This theory has been exploded by Dr. Frederick J. Stare, of the nutrition department at Harvard School of Public Health. Dr. Stare says, "Fruits and vegetables are at their best in flavor and nutrition when cooked one or two hours after picking, but this almost never happens to fresh produce these days.

"Food values begin to diminish from the actual moment of harvesting. Much of the produce offered to us in the market is over a week old and has journeyed hundreds of miles before it appears on the grocery store counters. With modern transportation and refrigerators it is still nutritious and tasty, but fresh foods are not superior in food value to commercially canned foods."

Do not be afraid to use canned foods in your reducing diet. Naturally you will have to stay away from those with syrup. Once you learn the calorie count of canned goods, calorie counting is easy!

If you would like my calorie chart send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 36 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Follow These Directions To Make Accordion Skirt

"Dear Eunice:

"May I tell you how much we appreciate your information on making skirts that are unusual and usually found in expensive ready-to-wear. I discovered a tricky one this summer, perhaps you can help us make one. It looked like an accordion pleated skirt." Betty W.

Dear Betty:

Good luck on this skirt project. If you follow each and every step given, you should have good results with this accordion skirt. It's easy to make, figure flattering, and can be made at a fraction of the ready made variety.

1. Make 13 gores for all sizes. Make larger or smaller by changing the size of the gores, and also the length.

4. Fold each gore in the exact centre (wrong sides together) and machine stitch along the fold, very close to the edge. This will give the accordion effect.

5. Face the top of the skirt with a strip of printed or striped fabric about 1½ inches wide. If you wish to have a co-ordinated ensemble, this fabric would match a blouse.

6. Place machine buttonholes across the top of the skirt (as illustrated) placing one buttonhole in each section of the skirt (making 25 buttonholes in all).

7. Make a narrow belt by folding the fabric ½ inch wide and machine stitching each end to cover raw edges.

8. Thread the belt through the buttonholes and tie as tightly as you wish to fit.

9. When pressing your skirt, press each seam together, the stitched seam as well as the seams that are edge stitched. Fold like an accordion for the proper effect.

Tax on Income For Schools Urged

KINGSTON (CP)—A municipal income tax to finance education was proposed Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Ontario Municipal Association.

Percy Muir, executive director of Ontario's School Trustees' Council, said such a tax should replace the property tax, present method of financing education.

He also urged that municipal, provincial and federal governments each assume one-third of education costs. At present, the provincial government pays 30 per cent and municipalities 70 per cent.

Mr. Muir said the municipal income tax could be collected by the federal government and then distributed to school boards by the provincial government.

Reeve Mel Swart of Thorold Township said municipalities should be given the power to force unemployed persons to work on public projects in return for their welfare payments. If a welfare recipient refused to work, he should be sentenced to 30 days in a work instituiton.

CAMPUS CAPERS STRICTLY FOR HISTORY

'Trimesters' for Poor Joe College

NEW YORK (AP)—The leisurely academic life at college in the United States is going the way of the raccoon coat, the Charleston, and bathtub gin.

It is harder to get into college, and harder to stay there, than it was just a generation ago. There is more to learn, more who want to learn it, and no place for the laggard.

In an effort to cope with the swelling hordes of high school graduates seeking a higher education, many American colleges and universities are turning to various forms of a year-round program.

One which seems to be catching on generally is the trimester, sometimes referred to as the "trimonster."

By any name it is a speed-up, and when it comes in, something wonderful—the art of learning leisurely—goes out of college.

Instead of the traditional two semesters of 16-18 weeks, with a long summer vacation, the trimester plan has three terms of 14-15 weeks, with a one-month break in late summer.

A student attending eight consecutive trimesters can graduate in two years and eight months, instead of the usual three years and nine months.

HAS ADVANTAGES

—A college on the trimester plan can accommodate 30 per cent or more students with no more classrooms and with only a modest increase in staff. With U.S. college enrolments jumping from 4,000,000 now to 8,000,000 in 1970 this program may be the only salvation for hard-pressed state-operated institutions.

—Students can cut years off the time they normally would spend preparing themselves for a career. This particularly is true of the growing number who go on to professional or graduate school.

—The traditional long summer vacation is a throw-back to the day when young people were needed at home on the farm in summer, and that day has long since passed.

There is limited space on the educational assembly line for mind-sharpening bull sessions, for browsing in the library and reading for pleasure, for meditation, and absorbing that which is being learned, for attending plays and concerts, and for just plain riverbank cogitation on the state of the world and its complex problems.

LACK THINKING TIME

Says Ross R. Ogelsby, dean of students at Florida State University:

"The trimester robs students of many things, but what they miss most of all is 'thinking time.'"

The University of Pittsburgh pioneered the trimester plan in September, 1959, and it now is an accepted way of academic life there. All four of Florida's state universities went on the program last fall, as did Jacksonville (Fla.) University, a private institution.

Other colleges on the trimester include such diverse institutions as California (Pa.) State College, Chicago Teachers College, Fort Lewis A and M (Colo.), Parsons (Iowa), and Harpur (N.Y.).

The University of Michigan will join the trimester corps this September. The University of California, the world's largest institution of higher education, and Ohio State University are giving the three-term plan serious thought.

RCN Critic Prepared To Appear

OTTAWA (CP) — Retired Commodore James Plomer, who has charged "the gold-braid mind" is destroying the Royal Canadian Navy, said Tuesday he is willing to appear before the Commons defence committee.

"I will be glad to testify if I am asked," said the former deputy naval comptroller who resigned last spring and made tthe charge in an article in Maclean's magazine.

He would not appear until early October. Parliament is in recess until Sept. 30.

LIGHT-HEARTED, SIMPLE-MINDED MUSICALS

Film Spoofs What Hollywood Held Dear

By BOB THOMAS

Shades of Anchors Aweigh and Hit the Deck!

This was not a revival of the light-hearted, simple-minded musicals of Hollywood's past but a spoof thereof. It was a sequence for What a Way to go! which appears to be satirizing all Hollywood once held dear.

The stars are Shirley MacLaine and Gene Kelly. They have a dream sequence in which they interpret an Astaire-Rogers dance, a Macdonald-Eddy operetta and finally, the battleship number which harks back to Kelly's past.

"I'm having a ball," said Kelly. "This kind of thing is easy to satirize. But, you know, those musicals were kind of wonderful, too.

"Everybody kids the Nelson Eddy-Jeanette Macdonald movies now, but when you see them on television you realize they were pretty darn good."

WAS FAKING

"This is rough work," she said. "I haven't danced in 12 years, and you've got to keep it up. Oh, I danced in Can Can, but I was faking it. It gets tougher to fake it all the time."

Mind you, she's not complaining. Why should she, with the most impressive list of co-stars within memory: Kelly, Paul Newman, Robert Mitchum, Dean Martin and Dick Van Dyke?

The gimmick of the movie is this: Shirley yearns for the simple things of life. Trouble is, she's always marrying poor slobs who turn into millionaires. Bizarre accidents carry each one off to another life and she starts anew, only to end up with millions again.

SHOULD HAVE READ THE WANT-ADS FIRST!

The route of an uninformed job-hunter, home-seeker or shopper of any kind is long and wearisome. More times than not it means a waste of time, effort, energy and shoe leather.

WHY START OUT UNINFOMED? Only a few minutes spent reading the Classified Advertisements in the local daily paper will most likely give you the very information necessary to bring a QUICK solution to your "wanted" problem—whether you want a job, a new home, some needed item or service, or even information concerning a lost article or pet. The habit of reading the Classified Advertisements has saved the soles of many a pair of shoes—not to mention nerves, energy, time and money!

GOLD IN THEM THAR HILLS

Leechtown an Eldorado For Adventure Seekers

By LESLIE MILLIN

Not even the most hard-bitten sceptic will deny there's gold there.

You don't need a hand-drawn map to find it, all you need is enough gas for a 50-mile trip.

Our local Eldorado is Leechtown, once a thriving community that once threatened to drain Victoria of its population, but now is a ghost town.

It's a little off the beaten track, and the road is often poor, but you'll see some of Vancouver Island's loveliest scenery if you go there.

When Lieut. Peter Leech led the gold-finding party there 99 years ago, he simply followed the Sooke River up from its mouth.

Head Up Malahat

The best way—easiest on your car—is to approach by the northern end of Sooke Lake Road.

Drive up the Malahat to the south cutoff to Shawnigan Lake, turn left, and follow the road for three miles.

Two miles down the road, you are into the Sooke Lake watershed, and for 6.3 miles leaving the road is forbidden.

Not being able to walk in the lovely woods may seem unfair, but the purity of Victoria's water supply depends on the forest's being untouched.

An Unspoiled Lake

In addition, the desolation of the place is largely what makes it beautiful, particularly in the case of Sooke Lake, easily the largest unspoiled lake on southern Vancouver Island.

For five miles, the road runs beside the lake, and the teeming wildlife—unafraid of man—contributes largely to the natural perfection of the scene.

Leechtown itself lies just south of the southern tip of the lake, and—depending on the time of day you go there—it may be barred off by a logging company's gate.

A fire a few years ago wiped out most of the buildings in Leechtown, but if you look carefully, there are still cabins, most of them tumbled and covered with moss.

Panning in the river will turn up a little color, but without equipment to move the big boulders, it's no longer a profitable way to get gold.

At Peak In 1865

There were 1,200 mines in Leechtown in its heyday, and $2,690 in licencing fees for miners was collected.

Stores, saloons, hotels, and a gold commissioner's office sprang up there, along with many other buildings, by the time Leechtown was hitting its peak in 1865.

But later that year came news of the Big Bend strike, and the fiddle-footed miners drifted away, never to return to a town whose rate of growth was so great that at one time fears were expressed that it would empty Victoria of its population.

The day is gone when you could see a pan with gold dust and nuggets sitting in a miner's shack.

Now, you have to pan your own gold.

Even if none shows up in your pan, you can still see gold near Leechtown.

Those who've seen it say the sunset on Sooke Lake, as the sun goes down behind Healey Mountain, gilding the lake and turning parts of it pink, is as good gold as you'll find anywhere—for the price.

FEW BUILDINGS stand today at Leechtown and none of them appear to date back to 1865 when gold camp was bustling and threatening to rival he growth of Victoria. A searcher still might find signs of the early pioneers, however, if he looks carefully

ISLAND ROUNDUP

4-H Clubs Bring Home Honors

Saanich-Luxton 4-H clubs won major awards in provincial 4-H competitions held at the Pacific National Exhibition last week.

One of these was the Kiwanis perpetual trophy offered for the first time this year for the highest aggregate points in any district.

The crowning achievement was the winning of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association perpetual trophy by the Saanich 4-H Home Arts Club team.

This is the second consecutive year the club has won the trophy for the best project demonstration. The team composed of Kris Andres and Nancy Miller competed against 39 B.C. teams.

The South Malahat district also won the tug-of-war contest.

The Saanich Blue Angels and the Saanich Firebrands placed second and third in 4-H square dancing competitions. The Blue Angels took the prize for the best-dressed dancers.

Two gold medals were won by Albert Hull of three-S 4-H Beef Club for beef judging, and Marian McDowell of the Luxton 4-H Garden Club for vegetable judging.

Beverley Davies of the VIBRA 4-H Club won a silver medal for rabbit judging, and Ronald Colban of the South Saanich 4-H Goat Club, a bronze medal for goat judging.

Register to Vote

DUNCAN—Voters' list registration takes place between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. until Saturday, with the government offices open here Saturday to accommodate those who cannot register during a working week.

Places where voters may register are: Duncan, the government offices on Government Street; South Cedar, Cooper's General Store; Ladysmith, Mrs. E. R. Hall, 119 First Avenue; Chemainus, Leason's Sporting Goods; Crofton, Crofton Hardware; Lake Cowichan, Jack Castley's Hardware; Honeymoon Bay, Berry's Low-Cost; Youbou, Budden's Service Station, and Cowichan Bay, Peck's Store.

Talent Scout Coming

DUNCAN — A Hollywood talent scout plans to attend the amateur talent show at the Cowichan Exhibition Saturday, Sept. 7, an official said today.

Talent show organizer Charles Beadnell said he was told by talent scout Roy Gordon the winner of the show has a good chance to win an all-expense-paid trip to Hollywood and to appear on radio and television there.

Mr. Beadnell said so far 14 youngsters, between the ages of 12 and 18 years, have entered the talent show. Auditions will be held Saturday at the Knights of Pythias Hall, Brae Road, starting at 3 p.m

Stabbing Sentence

ALERT BAY (CP) — George Lewis Glendale has been sentenced to two years in penitentiary after being convicted of stabbing John George Bee of Village Island. Bee is recovering in hospital.

Night School Starts

DUNCAN — Night school classes in the Cowichan Valley are due to start again in October and will carry through to March next year.

New director of adult education in the Cowichan school district, F. E. Cunnings, annouced this week that a ew course in portion control and food catering will be offered.

Sewer Report Asked

DUNCAN — Council has asked the city engineer and public works committee for a study and report on specifications for a proposed 4,500-foot storm-sewer project.

The report was requested by council Tuesday when it was found that there was a great deal of differences in price estimates between bidders.

Highest bidder was H. B. Contracting of Abbotsford, with $40,760, followed by Farmer Construction of Victoria, with a $29,288 bid, and A. J. Barr of Duncan, with a bid of $14,438.

These figures are for labor only, and other tenders for materials were in the $20,000 bracket.

Child Starts Fire

NEWARK, N.H. (AP) — An apartment house fire started by a child playing with matches claimed six lives Tuesday. A woman and four children burned to death and another woman died of injuries suffered when she jumped from the top floor of the three-storey building. Six others were injured.

MAGISTRATE ENTERS SUIT FOR NEGLECT

TRAIL, B.C. (UPI)—Deputy Magistrate R. R. Crowe of the city of Trail, British Columbia, is suing the Trail-Tadanac Hospital Society for negligence.

Crowe, a paraplegic, claims the nursing staff failed to give him adequate attention when he was admitted to the hospital in 1961. He said the alleged inattention resulted in the development of abscesses that caused him to lose six months work.

The magistrate sought unstated damages in Supreme Court.

Burning Workman Sets Forest Fire

BOSTON BAR (CP)—A highways department employee touched off a small forest fire Tuesday when his clothing caught fire and he ran into bushland near this Fraser Canyon community.

Police said Peter Ruben was handling gasoline near the engine of a machine when the gasoline exploded in flames. Ruben, covered in flames, ran into nearby bushland and touched off the forest fire.

The forest fire was extinguished about four hours later.

MONTGOMERY FACES GUN

Woman Spurned Shoots at Star

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI)—Actor George Montgomery won a desperate struggle for a gun—and his life Tuesday night with a former German maid who tried to kill him because he spurned her romantic advances, police reported.

The woman, Ruth Wenzel, 37, broke into Montgomery's home two days ago and hid, waiting to confront the long-time star and former husband of Dinah Shore. When he entered the house last night, she pointed a gun at him.

LOVE-SICK

They grappled for the gun, one shot being fired before Montgomery, uninjured, could get the weapon and overpower her.

"She was love-sick, I guess," said Sgt. J. D. Barton.

Montgomery, according to Barton, said he and Miss Shore had employed the former German woman as a maid about five years ago.

"She said she intended to kill him, and then shoot herself," said Barton.

He said the woman left a note saying she was disturbed about reports linking Montgomery with glamorous women.

"She said it wasn't so much he didn't love her, but the others," Barton said.

Police said the suspect claimed she and Montgomery had relations in the past, and that she had continued to "try to get him to respond to her affection."

Radio Kayoes Driver

A technician working on the radio of a taxicab touched a high-voltage wire Monday and was knocked out.

Ken Tomlinson, 556 Baker, was released from Royal Jubilee Hospital after treatment for shock. There was a charge of 800 volts in the wire.

Water Tower Relay Aerial Gets Approval

Rental charge for the concession was referred to city manager Dennis Young for a report after Ald. M. H. Mooney suggested it should be high enough to cover present power costs for floodlighting the tower and burning a neon candle light as a decoration.

Ald. Mooney said the cost was about $1,000 annually which also would co-incide with the present annual rental paid by B. C. Telephone Co. for its antenna on Mount Douglas.

City engineer J. C. Garnett said the antenna would not interfere in any way with water tower or its decorations and Mr. Young added that the radio station was part of the emergency network arranged by Civil Defence so the city had an interest in its location.

Committee requested city council to rezone all properties fronting on Cold Harbor Road from family to apartment residential zoning.

Mr. Young said the rezoning would facilitate sale of the vacanted juvenile detention home property on the street without adversely affecting neighboring property values.

Designation of three city lots on the north side of Merritt Street, in the Cook-Tolmie area, as a children's playground was approved in principle.

But approval of the lands committee is needed, along with a report ensuring the recommendation does not clash with a more suitable use of the land, before it can be formally adopted.

Committee asked for a legal report on feasibility of a bylaw to ban advertising by sightseeing buses using city curbside concessions.

The ban was requested by Tilden Rent-A-Car Service which complained C & C Transportation was given an unfair competitive position by the city.

The Tilden company said C & C sightseeing buses were carrying a sign advertising U-drive cars for rent by C & C.

Ald. Mooney warned invoking any ban would "stir up a hornet's nest" because transit buses and many trucks now carry advertising.

But Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said the ban should only apply to using city sightseeing curb zones for advertising.

"We gave those zones for sightseeing purposes only — in fact we're now considering taking away the concessions altogether—and we shouldn't allow them to be used for any other purpose or we'll have another sightseeing war on our hands," said Ald. Edgelow.

Garnett Backs Joint Survey Of Sewerage

City engineer J. C. Garnett today said the city should participate in a $74,000 sewer survey for Greater Victoria.

Council works committee tabled the recommendation, originally made by an intermunicipal subcommittee, pending a report from the health department on the proposal.

"From a parochial point of view the city has the least to gain, because it is pretty well sewered now, and Saanich has the most to gain," he said.

"But it is to our advantage to see this whole area is properly sewered because health hazards recognize no municipal boundaries."

Mr. Garnett added that a sewer survey would provide a wealth of topographical information and other data.

Groos to Take NATO Tour

Victoria MP David Groos will be one of six Canadian parliamentarians to make a two-week tour of NATO bases in six European countries this month.

He leaves here Tuesday to board RCAF transport from Trenton, Ont., for France Italy, Turkey, Norway, Germany and Great Britain.

He will represent the Liberals of the House of Commons. There will be three other MPs and two senators in the party.

The tour is arranged annually for parliamentarians of the NATO countries, and includes a briefing on NATO operations and commitments.

Time Bomb Found

MERANO, Italy (AP) — A time bomb was found Monday night six hours before it was set to explode in the cellar of an apartment building housing 40 persons. A tenant going for a bottle of wine discovered it.

SASK. TOWN RIPPED BY SMALL TORNADO

ROSE VALLEY, Sask. (CP) — Three persons were injured Tuesday night when a small tornado tore through this eastern Saskatchewan community.

The storm smashed sheds, garages, porches and windows. Roofs were lifted off houses, chimneys toppled, power lines knocked out and trees uprooted. RCMP estimated damage at more than $100,000.

COMPANION GRIEVES FOR DEAD BOY

'Why Did You Punish Arthur?'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Arthur George Osmond's luck ran out Tuesday while an anguished companion asked God why.

The eight-year-old boy was pushing his new bicycle along the Great Northern Railway tracks in suburban Burnaby when he was hit by a train rounding a curve.

As the boy lay beside the tracks with police and trainmen standing around, four dry-eyed friends stayed by.

"Arthur always had lots of luck," said Byrne Myton. "He once drank turpentine and it didn't kill him."

"Pray God that Arthur shouldn't die. I know, I just know, he'll have luck."

Then he was told that his friend had died.

"God, why did You punish Arthur?" sobbed Byrne. "He never did anything wrong.

"You can punish me all my life, but You must let Arthur live."

"You can cry now."

Police said engineer Oscar Nordine of Seattle hit the brakes when he saw Arthur on the tracks but it was too late.

TORNADO HITS DENMARK

COPENHAGEN (AP) — A tornado — a rarity in Denmark—struck central Jutland Tuesday leaving a trail of destruction and injuries. About 50 houses were destroyed by the tornado which cut a two-mile swath between the village of Faarvang and Gern. A dozen persons were injured and many farm animals were killed.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "The Presidential suite, Darling!" Phyllis Diller practically yelled as she waved us into her extraordinarily sumptuous quarters at the "Hotel Americana."

"I just counted the phones. THIRTEEN! Two of them in my husband's bath. One in the bath and one in the . . . yes . . . one in there, too. Isn't it wild, Darling?"

Phyllis was ensconced in this elaborate setup because she will soon be headlining at the Americana's Royal Box. She made it the occasion for a party, at which her guests could roam around the big terrace on the 21st floor and gaze down upon Times Square, particularly upon Seventh Ave., Broadway and the Fickle Fifties.

"And will you be living here when you are working at the Royal Box?" I asked her.

We walked out on the terrace. Dusk was falling. Lights were lighting.

"Down there," I said, "is Bagel Beach. That's Max Asnas' Stage Delicatessen down there."

"Is THAT the Stage Delicatessen? I've never been there! Will they let me in now that I'm president . . . ?"

"By the way, why does your husband have two phones in the bathroom?"

"You're kidding! Don't you know, really? One is for overseas calls."

"Oh," I said.

"Like when we want to call the kids in St. Louis." There was buzzing. "Excuse me," Phyllis said, "one of the 13 phones is ringing."

As she loped off, I talked to her husband, about how chic Phyllis looked for this party.

"First time I've seen her out of a shift in months," he said. "Phyllis hasn't worn garters or garter belts or girdles or slips or hosiery for eight years."

Phyllis was enhusiastic on this subject when she came back from one of the 13 phones.

"Let me show you!" She led us into her bedroom and showed me her wardrobe, a subject in which I am not usually too interested.

"I use leg makeup — no hosiery necessary . . . isn't it wild?" she said. "I don't own a slip . . . I line the dresses . . . I've simplified everything. They're all alike . . . I don't pull my dresses over my head. I step into them. They're never rump-sprung. I dig this —for real!"

"Only thing about Phyllis' dresses," her husband said, "is that somebody went blind looking at one."

"I do like color," Phyliss admitted. "Since I satirize fashions, they think it's all right. And besides, I wear contact lenses."

"Phyllis swallowed them one night," her husband said.

"I shouldn't put them in the same glass with my teeth," Phyllis explained.

Seniors to Report

Grade 12 students of St Ann's Academy should go to the school Friday morning at 10 o'clock to check over courses, a school official said today.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives the 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Lynn Nuding, 12, Havana, Ill., for her question:

What was Mesohippus?

The Mesozoic Era was the middle era of the story of life on earth. It came to a close some 60 million years ago with the decline of the dinosaurs. The warm-blooded mammals had appeared. They were still rather little creatures, but among them were the ancestors of all the mammals of the modern world. One of them was the ancestor of the noble horse. His fossilized remains have not been found, but experts are sure that he walked on five-toed feet.

Our fossil records of the horse family begin with Eohippus, whose name means the dawn horse. His home was North America, and he lived in the balmy Eocene Period, some 50 million years ago.

Eohippus stood 11 inches high at shoulder level. He had already lost several toes, a step toward developing that one strong toe on each foot which was to become a hoof. Eohippus had three-toed hind feet and four-toed front feet.

The horse family developed gradually through 50 million years from Eohippus to Equus, father of the modern horse. The long story has been divided into 10 stages. With each advance, the horse has been given a different name. After 10 million years, Eohippus gave rise to Orohippus who was several inches taller. He was also beginning to lose the fourth toe on each of his front feet.

Native Horse Perished

Mesohippus is a horsey ancestor of the Oligicene Period who lived some 30 million years ago. He stood 18 inches high and ran on three-toed feet. Mesohippus, the middle horse, was the greatest horse of his day, midway to becoming the noble horse of modern times. Several horses developed during the cool, dry Miocene Period, and some of the lines died out. The first hoofed horse was Plesippus who arose in the past million years. He gave rise to Equus whose children are the horses and donkeys, the ponies and zebras of the modern world.

The horse got his start in North America, and here the family developed for more than 50 million years. Several branches of the family wandered into Asia, Europe and Africa and thrived there. We do not know why, but tragedy overtook the original stock. Sometime during the last Ice Ages, all the native horses perished from their homeland.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Craig Domeny, age eight, of Piedmont, Calif., for his question:

What is a watershed?

A great river flows miles and miles to join the sea. It starts as a tiny stream and grows bigger as it goes. Along the way it is joined by many streams. All this water is drained from the land. The river gathers water from both its sides, and some of its streams have come from far, far away.

In this way, the river drains water from the land for miles and miles around. The land which is drained by a river and its streams is called a watershed. All the runoff from rains and melting snow in a watershed is drained by the same river.

Big Volcano Dried Up Sea For Moses

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A world authority on earthquakes believes he has evidence of an ancient upheaval that could explain how Moses and his people crossed the Red Sea.

After years of poring through musty records, Prof. Angelos Galanopoulos claims he has proof that nearly 3,500 years ago the Mediterranean area was struck by the mightiest volcanic blast the world has ever known.

Galanopoulos said the upheaval, with air waves some 300 times more powerful than those of a hydrogen bomb, occurred shortly before 1491 BC, when Bible scholars say the Israelites fled Egypt.

The professor, who heads the seismological institute of Athens Observatory, told an interviewer the blast devastated the island of Thera, 500 miles off the coast of Egypt, and scattered searing volcanic ash for hundreds of miles.

Some time later, he said, came the flight from Egypt which coincided with another catastrophe on devastated Thera, now known as Santorini.

"A roof that had been formed over the volcanic crater by falling pumice—it would have been about 600 to 900 feet thick—collapsed," Galanopoulos said. "The central part of the island, an area of 50 square miles, thus became a gigantic cavern. This caused a colossal inrush of water, drawing the sea in tidal waves away from the Egyptian coast."

SIDING

Nature has endowed the giant red cedar of British Columbia with every quality a homeowner could ask for in a versatile construction material with its "built-in" weather resistance, insulation value, working ease and, above all, inherent beauty.

Western Red Cedar is the traditional choice of architects everywhere for every application. The attractive grain and warm colors of this fine wood blend beautifully with any home style, modern or traditional —in any setting, urban or rural.

There is talk that NBC-TV is putting money into a possible 1964-65 one-hour spy series tentatively called Mr. Solo created by Ian Fleming, British author of the James Bond adventure novels.

The same network is thinking of a two-hour series, Hall of Justice with a legal setting for the same season.

United Artists-TV wants Bud Yorkin and Norman Lear, who turned out the movie Come Blow Your Horn, to develop a half-hour comedy series about bachelors . . .

The Golden Age of Greece, a one-hour CBS-TV special with King Paul and Queen Frederika as guides, airs Sept. 22, while the same network will offer Athens: Where The Theatre Began, with Alfred Lunt and Lynne Fontanne on Sept. 11 for an hour.

"Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" — William Holden and Jennifer Jones; "The Mating Game" — Debbie Reynolds, Tony Randall and Paul Douglas; "The Lost World" — Claude Rains; "The 39 Steps" — Kenneth More; "The Virgin Queen" — Bette Davis, Richard Todd and Joan Collins are just some of the movies in a new package of 30 attractions on NBC-TV's Monday Night at the Movies returning Sept. 16.

Tourist Camping Craze Strikes at Posh Hotels

BANFF, Alta. (CP)— Tourist patrons of posh hotels and motels still are keen on sartorial elegance, but their numbers are decreasing because of a continent-wide camping craze, says the owner of an import clothing store in this Rocky Mountain resort town.

The camping craze also has affected the buying habits of tourists, he said.

Patronage this year at at least two of Banff's more expensive tourist inns is reported to be down.

The reason, said the clothing merchant, is that each day in the summer, about 15,000 campers roam the streets of this tourist centre, dressed in sneakers and blue jeans and ignoring the richly-woven imported garb in window displays.

A bank official said the competition of European and Caribbean caterers to the wealthy American tourist is being felt by Banff merchants.

He also pointed to a slight decline in the flow of United States currency here, but declined to estimate a percentage figure.

Most merchants agree that the influx of more campers and tourists in the area has been accompanied by a decrease in the number of big spenders.

Another merchant said the increase of Canadian travellers over American travellers since the opening of the Trans-Canada Highway may have caused a decrease in specialty shop buying.

"This is the first year we've been able to gauge the effects of the highway," he said.

"There may be all kinds of well-to-do tourists bitten by the camping bug . . . but if they are, they're passing by the import clothing and china shops.

Other merchants feel the U.S. government's setting of restrictions on duty-free merchandise during the last two years has curtailed American buying.

The fall of 1961 saw the duty-free level lowered to $100 a person staying in a foreign country more than 48 hours. It had been $500.

In May of this year, the figure was changed to $100 wholesale — calculated in retail buying at $166.66.

Another merchant said although the so-called luxury hotels have increased their prices, the service isn't as good as it was 25 years ago.

A camera shop operator said business has never been better for him.

Police Board Prepares For New Chief

Most new business items at the morning meeting were simply received and put over for reference to the new police chief John Gregory who is to formally take over Sept. 1.

For John Blackstock it was the last time he sat as police chief at a commission meeting after 13 years in the post.

He noted the monthly report showed 121 places had to be attended when found insecure by patrol officers.

"That's quite a jump, practically 50 per cent in one month," said Mr. Hamilton.

"Each case ties up a man for an hour or two so it's a serious matter to the department."

Referred to the new chief were decisions on sending officers to the Vancouver Police Academy for both recruit training and advanced courses in supervisory work.

The police academy informed the commission that its courses for new recruits last 18 weeks.

Introduction of police dogs into the department, also was referred to Chief Gregory for a report. Earlier commission approved funds for purchasing three dogs and training three handlers but so far no action has been taken.

Contract of $770 was awarded to Service Decorators, who submitted the lowest bid, for painting renovated portions of the police station's main floor layout.

BOOTLEGGERS ASSESSED $300 EACH

Two men accused of bootlegging in Chintown Sunday were each fined $300 this morning in city magistrate's court.

Lee Han, 515 Cormorant, and Yip Hop, 545 Fisgard, each pleaded guilty to charges they unlawfully kept liquor for sale.

Acting Sergeant Brian Ferguson said plain clothes officers kept watch Sunday and saw persons go into both addresses empty-handed and come out carrying parcels that looked like bottles or beer cartons.

Farris Has Worries With Tax Rulings

OTTAWA (CP)—The 1952 and 1953 oil-permit transactions of Vancouver businessman Ralph K. Farris have been labelled by the Exchequer Court of Canada as fast profit-making ventures and not investments—and therefore subject to income tax.

Technically, however, the court has allowed Mr. Farris' appeals, but only at the request of the revenue department so it can formally reassess his income in both years to include alleged profit from trading in the shares of Charter Oil Company Limited, which he acquired in 1950.

The ruling is made in a July 26 judgment by Mr. Justice J. D. Kearney. The judgment became available today.

Mr. Farris, president of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company, was charged last Thursday with three counts of perjury in connection with evidence he gave during 1958 and 1962 Ontario Securities Act investigations about the disposition of Northern Ontario shares.

His tax appeals have been before Exchequer Court since Dec. 31, 1959. For both tax years, the basic issue is whether the money he received in selling the petroleum exploration permits was a capital gain, or—in the words of the law—"an adventure or concern in the nature of trade" and thus taxable.

He claimed he had no taxable income for 1952—that he earned only $500 for the first month of the year from charter oil, and that his personal exemptions were $2,450. A dispute over whether he filed a 1952 income tax return was settled by the court by upholding a revenue department penalty of $500.

OLD-TIMERS GUARANTEED FEAST OF FRESH SALMON

Old folks at Matson Lodge are in line for a great salmon feast. Total of 351 pounds were caught over the weekend in the Admiral's Matson Lodge Benefit Derby and turned over to Brig. V. C. Underhill.

This was the first year for the derby and over 200 anglers were out Saturday and Sunday.

Derby is sponsored by the Royal Canadian Navy Anglers' Association.

First prize winner of a $25 script was Dave Wigmore, Victoria, who brought in a 32-pound salmon from Franklin River.

Other winners were J. Olivier, second prize for 30-pounder; Sid Alexander, third for 25-pounder, and his son, Robert, won the junior prize for a 22-pounder; Mrs. Dick James, ladies' prize for 22-pounder, and top coho prize went to Miss Elizabeth Ball for a 10-pounder.

Prayed to Be Caught Says Admitted Thief

When Joseph Marton, 1021 Fenn, was arrested last week by Saanich police it was an answer to his prayer.

For four years he had been stealing from stores and construction sites in Vancouver and Victoria, it was revealed in Saanich magistrate's court Tuesday.

And detective Robin Stewart told Magistrate William Ostler that when he arrested Marton the man told him he had been "praying at night that he would be caught."

Marton is charged with possession of 131 items that he knew were stolen. Det. Stewart said Marton admitted he had taken them.

The goods were found when Det. Stewart went to Marton's home after arresting him for petty theft at a supermarket.

At Marton's home Det. Stewart found, among other things, a boat trailer, chisel set, paint roller, propane gas tank and guage, a movie projector, camera, barometer, binoculars, car radio, toy cars, toilet fittings, hedge trimmer, magnetic cabinet closers, compasses, circuit breaker, aquarium heater, flash bulbs, trailer hitch, rudder, staple gun, two flagposts, a transformer, a transistor direction finder and survey chain.

And when an Oak Bay detective went to Marton's boat at Royal Victoria Yacht Club he found an anchor and an outboard motor that were both stolen. Marton is also charged with possession of these.

Total value of all the articles, according to the estimate of Det. Stewart, is about $7,890 at retail price.

DISPUTE SIMMERS

Soldiers Ready in Tibet

By ALAN KENNEDY

NEW DELHI (AP) — In Tibet, behind the barrier of the Himalayas, Chinese soldiers take their political training, build up their positions and wait for marching orders that may or may not come.

To the west and south, a few miles away, Indians in olive green cautiously patrol Himalayan land that is largely claimed by Peking. The Indians have orders not to provoke a fight or protest in the simmering dispute over what constitutes the India-China border.

It looks to be a stalemate but the outlook is that the Chinese can overrun large parts of India's border territory at will.

Military observers in New Delhi do not agree on how many soldiers the Chinese army has in Tibet. Estimates range from 100,000 to more than 200,000. Some experts even question Prime Minister Nehru's recent warning to Parliament that Chinese forces on the border are larger than they were last fall.

USED FOR POLICE

The Chinese army in Tibet has not changed much in size in the last 12 years, these observers say. They note that many of the troops are used for internal policing against Tibetan rebels.

No one questions Nehru's statement that "it is difficult to gauge Chinese intentions."

"There is agreement that Chinese troops can move fast on the dry, rolling Tibetan plateau — many times faster than Indian troops who must climb over two-mile-high foothills of the Himalayas to reach the border.

Finally, there is a consensus that the Indian army can not prevent the Chinese from overrunning most of India's Northeast Frontier Agency again this year if the Chinese find it desirable to do so in the interests of their foreign or domestic policy.

Six new mountain divisions have been formed or are in the making, bringing the Indian army's strength to 600,000 — compared with China's estimated 2,500,000 regulars.

SASKATCHEWAN STOCK FRAUD HEARING

Salesman Didn't Lie—He Just 'Evaded the Truth'

SASKATOON (CP)—A former share salesman said Tuesday that a counter which "clicked madly" when used at a uranium ore site in northern Saskatchewan would also tick loudly when placed near the luminous dial of a watch.

Edward J. Leier, former sales manager for Western Bond and Share, was giving evidence at the preliminary hearing of three men on charges of conspiracy to defraud the public.

Charged are Walter Luboff of Saskatoon, Dr. M. C. Shumiatcher of Regina and Thomas Fawcett of Ottawa. The three were officers of Columbia Metals, which owned the uranium ore deposit.

Leier, who sold shares in Columbia Metals, testified earlier that prospective buyers were told about the "madly clicking" Geiger counter.

Leier, 25th witness for the prosecution in the hearing, was recalled to continue the cross-examination he had been undergoing Aug. 16.

Questioned by C. F. Tallis, counsel for Luboff, Leier denied he had admitted lying to a Saskatchewan Securities Commission hearing into operations of Columbia Metals. He said he had just "evaded the truth."

Asked the difference between evading the truth and lying, Leier said: "All I can tell you is that I didn't tell the complete ruth because I didn't want to involve Mr. Luboff or the company."

The hearing continues.

SIGNATURE CORRECT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Some cheek.

The smart-dressing, glib-talking fellow readily admitted he was responsible for 20 bad cheques, each for $200.

He also agreed with police that the "certified" stamp was phoney.

He had given the cheques to attractive women in cocktail bars, in return for the pleasure of their company. Police tracked the man down when the cheques started showing up at major department stores.

But police had to release him when none of the women concerned could testify that they had given the man anything in return for the dud cheques.

THRONE'S OWN STORY

'I Saw People and Doors That Weren't There'

MINER TELLS OF HALLUCINATIONS

Miners Henry Throne and David Fellin suffered pain, hunger, thirst and hallucinations while trapped for two weeks more than 300 feet underground in a Pennsylvania mine. Throne tells of the ordeal in this exclusive Associated Press article.

By HENRY THRONE
As told to The Associated Press

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—There were times when we saw people that weren't there and lights that weren't there and doors that weren't there.

Imagine seeing a door like a regular house door down in the bottom of a mine!

There was a time we heard rain and it really was raining coming down the drainage pipes and we thought the water would back up and flood the mine and drown us.

And while it was raining, I got mad—I must've been off my rocker a little—and I yelled at Davey: "Davey, I'm going home. I'm going alone if you don't want to come."

But, of course, I wasn't going anywhere. Not then. We were still more than 300 feet down. We still had a week to go before we could stand and walk again, not just sit and crawl, before we could breathe clear air again and see real light again.

But maybe I had better start at the beginning. That's the only way I can get it clear in my own mind. So much got so mixed up later we couldn't tell day from the night or Monday from Sunday.

That first day, that Tuesday, Aug. 13, I went to work about 7:15 in the morning. It was a nice sunny day. I had no special thoughts, no hunches about something bad. It was just an ordinary working day.

We—that's David Fellin, Louis Bova and me—we got down in the hole about 7:30 and by 8 we had filled the first buggy (a small wagon carrying coal to the surface). We were on the bottom of the mine, in a tunnel, where the sump water collects. Davey and me were on the right side of the shaft and Louis was on the left, separated by the buggy tracks.

Louis rapped three times for the buggy to go up and it went up and dumped the coal. Coming down, it got only half way down. That's when the big rumble started. And all hell broke loose. The timbers on the wall next to us caved in and the timbers on the ceiling above us came down. We just managed to step aside in time as the big chunks of wood and coal and stone fell wildly around us.

We could see Louis on the other side until the power line to our work lights broke. For the next couple of hours we could see a little around us with the lights on our helmets. But then they burned out. Our matches wouldn't burn down there. And that was the end of light for the next 5½ days.

In the first hour and a half, we just sat there against the wall while the debris piled higher before us in the tunnel. The rumbling from the cave-in lasted that long. There were others later.

I hollered for Louis but there was no answer. After a while we started crawling over the debris. All our tools—the picks, the bars, the shovels and our lunch pails—were lost under the pile except for a mason hammer and a hatchet. The mason hammer broke soon afterward. All we had was a hatchet to cut our way over the junk.

Oh, yes, we also had a plastic jug which we filled with the sulphur water that dripped into the tunnel.

We started crawling around in the dark looking for a way out. We went this way and we went that way and sometimes we thought we were back where we started and most times we just didn't know.

We were lost. But we kept crawling around like that for almost six days looking for a way out.

Always, sleeping, crawling or sitting, it was on sharp chunks of rock and coal. We got cut up a lot on our hands and knees and elbows.

To keep warm, I'd sit with my legs spread and Davey would sit between my legs with his back to me and I'd breathe on his back and neck. All the time we're rocking back and forth, also to keep warm. Then Davey would switch and do the same

9 Alive, 3 Rescued

(Times News Services)

Rescue was on the way for at least six more miners known to be alive somewhere below the 2,700-foot level of the potash mine. Fate of 16 other men trapped by an explosion Tuesday was not known.

Names and condition of the other two were not determined immediately. Seven of the 25 men in the mine were Canadians.

Hanna was brought up first by rescue workers who gave him oxygen from a portable container while he was lifted to the earth's surface in a bucket used for ore.

Both men were able to stand on their feet when they reached the top shortly before noon. They had been imprisoned since the explosion nearly 19 hours before, at 4:40 p.m. Tuesday.

The worker, one of a dozen rescuers who braved deadly gases and 130-degree heat in search of the trapped men, said he made the voice contact while exploring debris deep in the mine.

He said the men were behind boulders. He asked how many were alive, and the answer was "nine."

CONSTRUCTION MEN

All of the trapped men were construction workers. They were in the mine Tuesday afternoon when an explosion rocked the multi-million dollar potash facility situated in a ruggedly beautiful valley in the remote southeast corner of the state known as the Utah Badlands.

Rescue teams encountered carbon monoxide fumes as they went into the charred shaft, but they said air pockets may have been formed in the mine, permitting survivors of the explosion to breathe.

The vertical mine shaft plunges 2,713 feet into the earth, and two drifts or tunnels branch out from the bot-

NO ANSWER FROM THIRD MAN

SHEPPTON, Pa. (UPI)—Rescuers drilled through 305 feet of earth, rock and coal today to the chamber where they believe Louis Bova has been trapped since Aug 13. They shouted to him, but there was no response.

"Hello, Lou," shouted a rescue worker through an amplifier directed into the hole. "If you can hear me, rap on something."

There was no answer.

The call was repeated, but again there was no response.

Rescuers also lowered a microphone and still camera to detect possible signs of life. They also planned to lower a small television camera.

I Should Have Been Out Earlier

HAZELTON, Pa. (UPI)—"I should have been out by the fifth day."

David Fellin told a news conference that is the way he felt about his 15 day entombment more than 300 feet underground at nearby Sheppton, Pa.

"I should have been rescued by manual labor," he said.

Although Fellin said he was not critcizing the rescue operations, he indicated that he would have been brought to the surface 10 days earlier had workers dug through the blocked passageway of the mine instead of drilling an escape shaft from the surface.

'Freedom for Everyone' Demanded by Marchers

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than 100,000 Negroes and whites marched to the shrine of Abraham Lincoln today in a dramatic pledge to struggle for jobs and freedom for all Americans.

Packed elbow to elbow around the memorial, they heard their leaders call for the U.S. Congress to pass laws to end all manner of racial discrimination and enable the unemployed to find dignified work with decent wages.

It was a mixed crowd—black and white, young and old, Christians and Jews. Negroes predominated.

With the marchers was a nine-man delegation from Canada carrying big signs reading Canada Marches. Leaders of the group were Don Roebuck of Toronto and Peter Light of Vancouver. Both are white.

Josephine Baker, the famous old Negro entertainer who has lived in Paris for many years, looked down from the speaker's platform at the memorial and called it "salt and pepper—just what it should be, a united people."

"Fight for your rights, the rights of man," she urged. "continue on, you can't go wrong."

Dr. Ralph Bunche, U.S. undersecretary for political affairs in the United Nations secretariat, said the presence of demonstrators from both races was dramatic evidence that the problem of civil rights is a major one.

Jovial Crowd, Religious Overtones

It was a jovial crowd—a crowd that cheered its leaders, clapped for its entertainers and laughed at the jokes.

Yet there were religious tones, not only from the presence of many clergymen of varying faiths but in the songs and reactions of the people themselves. There were times when it seemed half prayer meeting and half revival meeting.

And it was an orderly crowd. In the early afternoon, police reported there had been only two arrests—neither one of demonstrators. They identified those arrested as a deputy leader of the American Nazi Party, who disregarded warnings against trying to make speeches, and a 20-year-old youth who they said grabbed a banner from a marcher and broke it.

The small army of police and troops on duty in the area had little to do except run down false rumors. One of these was that a bomb had been planted in the Washington Monument. Park police cleared everybody out, checked the place and found nothing.

The day was fair and sunny. The temperature was 78 degrees at 1 p.m.

But scores in the crowd were overcome by emotions and heat. Most were treated at first-aid stations. Of the first 11 taken to District of Columbia General Hospital, only one was admitted. The others were treated and released.

Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth, Birmingham, Ala. Negro civil rights leader, brought a roar with a brief speech declaring "everybody in America has got to be free."

"We're going to moan together, groan together," he said, in the fight for "freedom, freedom, freedom!" Then the crowd roared its approval again.

Long before the ceremonies at the memorial, the police estimate of the crowd had climbed to 110,000. And for long after that, buses and cars kept dropping off new arrivals at the Washington Monument grounds, from where they marched to the Lincoln Memorial.

Advance crowd estimates had reached to 250,000.

The march of less than a mile from the monument to the Lincoln Memorial, actually got under way nearly a half hour before the 11:30 a.m. scheduled time.

NEWSMAN HELD IN FRACAS AT DOCKYARD

HALIFAX (UPI) — Ronald Brunskill, 32, a Halifax newspaper reporter, appeared in city police court today charged with assault causing bodily harm to a commissionaire on duty at the naval dockyard.

Brunskill, a shipping reporter for the Chronicle-Herald and the Mail Star, pleaded innocent and was released on $1,000 bail until Sept. 13 for trial.

The incident was alleged to have occurred when Brunskill attempted to enter the dockyard on an assignment for his newspaper.

The newspaper said that naval officials had authorized the reporter's admission before he went on the assignment.

Pension Plan Goes Ahead

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today the government intends to go ahead as planned with work on the Canada Pensions Plan despite the calling of two and possibly three provincial elections this fall.

He told reporters after a two-hour cabinet meeting that preparations are nearing completion for a federal-provincial conference opening Sept. 9 at which details of the pension proposal will be given to the provinces.

The desire of Ontario and Quebec to introduce their own portable pensions schemes creates "quite a problem," which he hopes can be avoided, the prime minister said.

"It would be quite a problem if the two largest provinces found it impossible to cooperate with the federal scheme, and I hope that will not happen."

Sympathy Marches

LONDON (CP)—The mass civil rights march on Washington today commanded world-wide support as sympathy demonstrations were planned in other cities including Munich, Tel Aviv and Cairo.

STEVENSON BLASTS SYRIA IN UN

'Reprehensible' Murder

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson today called for the "strongest condemnation" by the United Nations Security Council of the "reprehensible" murder of two Israeli farmers by raiders from Syria.

Stevenson used strong words in his speech to the council meeting held at the urgent request of Israel and Syria to consider the latest flare-up of violence along their portentially explosive border.

The American ambassador told the council that it had been called upon to consider Israel's complaint of the "wanton murder" of two of its citizens.

"The picture of two innocent farmers murdered in cold blood by a raiding party which struck them down in the fields distresses us all," he said.

Stevenson noted that the Aug. 19 incident north of the Sea of Galilee followed closely the kidnapping by Syrians of three Israelis, including two young girls, in the same region.

"The United States deplores these incidents," Stevenson said.

He said that while the report on the latest incident by the UN truce supervision organization called the evidence circumstantial, "its implications are clear enough."

The evidence, he said, added up to "a clear picture which permits objective observers to draw the same conclusions about the origin of the attack."

He said the UN truce investigation had failed to corroborate Syria's counter-complaint concerning a clash on Aug. 20.

New Heart Valve Grafted Into Woman

LEEDS, England (Reuters)—Surgeons here have successfully trans - planted a dead man's heart valve to the heart of a woman under-going an operation, it was announced today.

The woman's heart was stopped for three hours during the 12 - hour operation, performed a week ago.

After the operation, watched by surgeons from the United States, Italy and Turkey, the woman, 38-year-old Mrs. Violet Scott, was reported to be "doing fine."

The operation was carried out at Leeds Infirmary, international - recognized centre for heart surgery, by a team of 20 surgeons, heart specialists, doctors and nurses.

Mrs. Scott's heart now is beating normally again and she is expected to be discharged from the hospital shortly.

The valve was removed from the dead man with the permission of his relatives and was kept in deep freeze.

RAIL LAW DUE IN TIME

Sea Search For Pilot

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—An F106 supersonic fighter plunged into the Pacific after brushing an RB57 medium bomber in the early morning darkness today. The pilot was believed to have bailed out.

An intensive air and surface search, hampered by clouds and poor visibility, was launched off the northwest Washington coast for the missing flier, 1st Lt. Roger Axlund, about 27, of Sioux Falls, S.D.

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Soviet Ambassador to Canada Ivan F. Shpedko today got a public reprimand from Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Pearson hotly described as "of dubious propriety indeed" Mr. Shpedko's recently voiced criticism of Canada's signing of an agreement for the supply of U.S. nuclear weapons to Canadian forces.

It was strictly a matter of domestic Canadian policy in which the ambassador had no right interfering, the prime minister made clear.

Ambassador Shpedko made his critical comments last weekend on a west coast visit. He took the position that the agreement made with the U.S. by Canada made Canada a new target in the event of war between the Soviets and the U.S.

. . . pulls no punches

The prime minister, a one-time diplomat and former external affairs minister, was asked as he entered a cabinet meeting if he had any comment on the propriety of the remarks of Mr. Shpedko. He replied quickly and warmly: "Yes, it is of very dubious propriety indeed to make any comment on a matter of domestic policy. If the Canadian ambassador said anything like that in Moscow undoubtedly he would hear about it."

Would Mr. Pearson seek the ambassador's recall?

No, he answered, he wouldn't think any action so drastic as that would be required.

Having incurred the wrath of the Canadian prime minister, however, it is not expected that the ambassador's stay in Canada will be long.

Mr. Shpedko was appointed to the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa last spring and took over the post in April.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 28, 1963—PAGE 13

BUSY ARE THE BEES AND THE FIRE LADDIES

John Ready, 1540 Burnside West, didn't realize when he set the fire that forms used when concrete was poured were still in place.

Arthur Mayse

Up where we've been fishing this last couple of weeks, the tide runs so far out across sand flats that launching ramps are useless except at high water.

Some have installed marine railways down which your boat glides on a trolley. Others use beach-buggy trucks or jeeps with oversize tires to get anglers afloat. At Bennett's Point, Paul Neilson has rigged a tractor with a hydraulic lift from which juts a planked shelf.

At your hail, Paul waddles his tractor across the sands and into the salt chuck. You ease your boat over the shelf; and up go boat and fishermen, to be deposited across a couple of timbers on the foreshore.

This transition from sea to land doesn't give one time to become reoriented. There you sit, surrounded by grass instead of water, vaguely confused amid rods, fuel tank, and if you've been lucky, a fish or two.

As one who hand-hauled boats across those same flats in pre-tractor years, I find the process too abrupt. It is, in fact, like finding myself all of a sudden back at this typewriter, shaved and wearing a suit, with only the vaguest notion of what's been going on in the parish these past two weeks.

To ease the transition, though, here's a welcome letter from a bucktail buff. Lieut. George H. Craven of 1756 Montieth.

"I must take issue with you, Lieut. Craven writes. "Mr. Chettleburgh's 45-pound spring taken on a bucktail can hardly be called a fluke! After all, what else is fishing?

"Aside from the dialectics, a friend and I spent a very pleasant afternoon bucktailing off Golf Links Point, Oak Bay. We got two seven pound coho and several strikes, both fish being taken on my line, with the strikes about evenly divided.

"I had de-weeded my blue and white Cowichan bucktail and spinner and let out about 60 feet of line, only to experience a thunderous strike, just off the kelp beds. I grabbed the rod, had an agonizing reappraisal or two, then handed it to my fishless partner.

"About 20 minutes later, after a pretty energetic struggle, we killed a 31½ pound spring, just as bright as a dollar. The rod was a seven-foot Blanshard with a Mitchell 300 spinning reel, 15-pound line and 10-pound leader."

So it would appear that hooking big springs on the bucktail fly is a more common occurence than I'd realized. It's never yet happened to me, but I'll continue to fish in hope.

That the concentration of net-boats in Johnstone and Juan de Fuca Straits puts a dint in the sport fisherman's take, I haven't the least doubt. Still and all, I think the angler's protests against commercial over-fishing would pack more weight if he contributed directly to the upkeep of the salmon runs.

This he doesn't do, and all attempts to bring in a yearly saltwater licence fee have been met with bristling hostility.

Sooner or later, though, I think, the imposition of such a fee is inevitable. It's one of numerous changes in our system we're going to have to make if the salmon runs are to remain an economic asset to British Columbia.

This province should, indeed, must have more say in the disposition of her fishery. I'd like to see a strong provincial fisheries department, working in concert with the federal authority, the lumbering industry and B.C. Power Commission.

If or when such a department is established, one of its first moves should be to launch a study aimed at finding out whether we're issuing too many commercial licences. I believe we are: and that the fishing industry has become badly overcrowded.

It's unlikely that the legendary salmon runs—the hostings that blackened our Island east coast rivers with fish—will ever return. Accepting this, we can still preserve the salmon in perpetuity if we have the will to do so.

But this calls for a co-operative effort, and in such an effort the sport fisherman as well as the commercial operator must be prepared to pull his weight.

WITH SIREN BLARING a fire truck drove into the Yates-Douglas intersection Tuesday night and almost demolished this car driven by Luciano Decicco, 24, of 585 John. Decicco suffered only slight cuts on his arm and forehead and was released from hospital after treatment. Two firemen also were slightly injured in the crash which drew crowd of onlookers. Fire Truck Hits Car; Three Hurt

Two firemen and a motorist were injured in the pile-up at Yates and Douglas shortly before 11 p.m. All were released after treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Witnesses said the car driven by Luciano Decicco, 24, of 585 John, was hit broadside.

Decicco's car spun around, its rear window popped out, and it ended up at the southwest corner facing north. The truck was only slightly damaged but the car appeared a total wreck.

Decicco received cuts on his arm and forehead. Fireman George Robertson, 2831 Adelaide, suffered a minor leg injury, and Fireman Bob Brown, 1443 Brooke, was bumped on his chest.

Immediately after the accident the fire alarm office dispatched another vehicle to the awning fire which was quickly extinguished.

BANDMASTER Lieut. Tudor Jones, RCN, raises his baton to conduct the HMCS Naden Band at Royal Roads Thursday, and it will be like homecoming night. The concert, jointly presented by the RCN Band and Victoria Symphony Society, will feature groups by both ensembles as well as a combined performance of Tschaikowsky's "1812" Overture. Lieut. Jones, recently transferred back here after seven years in the east, played first clarinet with Victoria Symphony in its early days under Melvin Knudsen and when Hans Gruber first took over. Present first clarinet, Barry Moncur, is a former pupil of Lieut. Jones. Tickets for the concert may be obtained at Eaton's or on the grounds at Canadian Services College. Capt. J. M. Gayfer will conduct the orchestra.

Thursday Meetings

ELECTION NOTEBOOK — BY FRANK RUTTER

Top Election Job Here Falls to a Top Socred

Surprise! Some well-known Social Credit names sprinkle the list of returning officers appointed to supervise voting in the provincial election Sept. 30.

In Victoria the job—worth $2,000—goes to Elmer McEwen, Socred stalwart who is an unsuccessful federal candidate, and previous seeker of the provincial nomination.

In Saanich it is Mrs. Thelma Cook; Oak Bay, lawyer Kenneth Murphy, who sponsored Al. Millard Mooney as a federal Socred candidate; Esquimalt, D. G. Woods.

The ROs in turn appoint other people as local deputies, poll clerks and registrars, which explains why some of them are Socreds, too.

The budget debacle in Ottawa worked against the party in the Columbia byelection, and officials fear it may rub off on provincial candidates who would rather not mention federal accomplishments.

B.C. president W. A. Gilmour explains that federal members will be preparing for a busy session of Parliament which starts Sept. 30. He adds that unfortunately Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing is in the Arctic and Forestry Minister Jack Nicholson is touring the Maritimes.

A new twist to the NDP campaign this year—positive thinking.

ELMER McEWEN
. . . $2,000 assignment

Previous NDP campaigns have been run on the basis "if" or "an NDP government would . . ."

That well-known team of Smith and Ellis will tread the boards for Social Credit again in this election campaign.

But they may have to split up.

A Socred official hints that Geoffrey Ellis may seek the nomination for Oak Bay. Reeve George Murdoch isn't expected to run again.

If provincial civil servants want to be candidates—they'll have to quit their jobs, or lose them.

The civil service commission has ruled that employees must resign if they want to run.

It's only happened twice in recent years: Forests Minister Ray Williston and Herb Bruch of Esquimalt both quit. Dave Barrett, the NDP candidate from Dewdney, was fired in 1960, but that was because he "sounded off" in advance about government welfare policy, said an official.

Seal Hunters 'Silenced' For Year

Three seal hunters who decided to take a potshot at a logging truck won't be doing any kind of shooting for a year at least.

They were banned from handling any firearms for a year and were bound over on a bond of $500 for two years when they appeared in Sooke magistrate's court Tuesday.

One accused is a juvenile and the other two are Brian Gray, 325 Cook, and Charles Dick, 1400 Beach Drive.

Magistrate E. Murphy made their sentence conditional on full restitution being made for damage done to the truck.

The magistrate said that each year the hunting season results in damage being done to property by frustrated hunters. He said he would discourage it this year by stiff penalties.

The three accused were hunting seals at this time because there is a bounty on certain species. The hunting season is not yet open.

'Broaden Control To Save Fishing'

Ken Nishikawara, secretary of Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association's fishing chapter, said this is the only way to protect sports fishing.

He was commenting on International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission decision to close Juan de Fuca Strait to net fishermen Thursday.

Sportsmen, conservationists and troll fishermen were alarmed at the commission's "open-end" week set last weekend. They feared that hundreds of gill and seine net commercial vessels fishing the strait would trap all species "indefinitely."

The word was used in the fisheries department order that was to be revised when inspectors got a better idea of the salmon run.

TEMPERS EASING

Mr. Nishikawara said there is some easing of feeling since Thursday at 6 p.m. was set as net fishing deadline this week. But members of the association still are concerned about the extension of net fishing.

"The only solution is to give more authority to the salmon fisheries commission," the secretary said.

The commission, chaired by Sen. Thomas Reid, of Vancouver, is concerned only with the control of pinks and sockeye, although nets also trap the sportsmen's coho and spring salmon.

NO PROPER CONTROL

"They can't get proper control the way they have nets across the strait.

"It looks bad for the future of sports fishing," Mr. Nishikawara said.

He suggested a way of reforming the situation might be to go back to commercial river mouth fishing, which would control individual river runs of fish.

Salmon move into the strait en masse, then segregate into runs on the various spawning rivers.

A similar view was expressed by Rennie Stanton, secretary of Pacific Trollers' Association, a commercial fishing organization that catches no net fish, although it loses springs and coho to net fishermen.

"In general policy I don't agree with the San Juan net fishery," he said, referring to the regulation allowing nets to be set across the Canadian mouth of Juan de Fuca Strait near Port Renfrew.

GRANT REDUCED

Symphony Asks Financial Help

Victoria Symphony Society president Jack Barraclough today said he hoped municipal or provincial grants would be increased to cover a $2,000 cut in Canada Council aid this year.

The Canada Council announced Tuesday that all grants to orchestras and theatres will be reduced this year due to virtual exhaustion of a $700,000 reserve fund.

In Victoria's case, this means a $7,000 grant in place of last year's $9,000, Mr. Barraclough said.

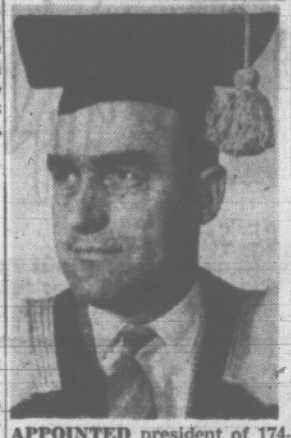
Asked for comment, he said:

"The grant is still very acceptable but the cut is disappointing when you think of all the activities this gift has helped support — aid for music students, school concerts, concerts for Duncan and Sidney and free concerts for the public here."

However, Mr. Barraclough said the society has no intention of cutting back its program.

"There is just the minimum of music now and so we must hope that the citizens will jump in and take up the slack."

He said he expected members would help by increasing their subscriptions and taxpayers would support a request "to have this reduction made up by either one of the local governments or the provincial government."



APPOINTED president of 174-year-old University of King's College, Halifax, Dr. Harry D. Smith, 47, left Monday to take up his post. For 10 years he was head of the department of modern languages at Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, a native Haligonian, he is a graduate of Dalhousie and Laval Universities.

Funeral Saturday For Sheet Metal Firm Proprietor

William McKinty, proprietor of Victoria's Model Sheet Metal Works for 30 years, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Wednesday at the age of 54.

Born in Ottawa, he had resided here for 53 years.

Mr. McKinty, who lived at 2811 Rockwell Street, Saanich, was a son of the late Archibald McKinty, well-known Victoria contractor.

He was a member of Mount Newton Lodge, AF and AM; the Gizeh Temple Shrine and Victoria Shrine Club.

Funeral services in McCall's funeral chapel Saturday at 1:30 p.m. will be conducted by Ven. J. W. Forth and followed by interment in Hatley Memorial Gardens.

Mr. McKinty leaves a widow, Eva; one daughter, Donna, and a son, Neil, at home; two brothers, John and Edward, in Victoria, and several nieces and nephews.

TOPICS of the DAY

Cadboro Bay Asks Better Bus Service

A petition is being circulated in Cadboro Bay requesting the B.C. government to provide a better bus service.

Capt. William Gregory, who is collecting signatures, said the Cadboro Bay bus makes only one trip an hour.

"This is inadequate for a district which has many retired people," he said.

He said residents want the Uplands bus route extended to the Cadboro Bay shopping centre. This would provide the district with three additional buses an hour.

Capt. Gregory said the extension of the bus route to Cadboro Bay would enable people to go directly to the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

"They can't od this on the Cadboro Bay bus," he said. "They have to transfer and this involves long waits.

MINE BLAST

9 Alive, 3 Rescued

(Times News Services)

MOAB, Utah — Three trapped miners, haggard and near collapse, were pulled out of a 2,700-foot mine shaft near here today.

Rescue was on the way for at least six more miners known to be alive somewhere below the 2,700-foot level of the potash mine. Fate of 16 other men trapped by an explosion Tuesday was not known.

Names and condition of the other two were not determined immediately. Seven of the 25 men in the mine were Canadians.

Hanna was brought up first by rescue workers who gave him oxygen from a portable container while he was lifted to the earth's surface in a bucket used for ore.

Both men were able to stand on their feet when they reached the top shortly before noon. They had been imprisoned since the explosion nearly 19 hours before, at 4:40 p.m. Tuesday.

A rescue worker this morning made voice contact with the nine men known to be alive.

The worker, one of a dozen rescuers who braved deadly gases and 130-degree heat in search of the trapped men, said he made the voice contact while exploring debris deep in the mine.

He said the men were behind boulders. He asked how many were alive, and the answer was "nine."

CONSTRUCTION MEN

All of the trapped men were construction workers. They were in the mine Tuesday afternoon when an explosion rocked the multi-million dollar potash facility situated in a ruggedly beautiful valley in the remote southeast corner of the state known as the Utah Badlands.

Rescue teams encountered carbon monoxide fumes as they went into the charred shaft, but they said air pockets may have been formed in the mine, permitting survivors of the explosion to breathe.

The vertical mine shaft plunges 2,713 feet into the earth, and two drifts or tunnels branch out from the bot-

NO ANSWER FROM THIRD MAN

SHEPPTON, Pa. (UPI)—Rescuers drilled through 305 feet of earth, rock and coal today to the chamber where they believe Louis Bova has been trapped since Aug 13. They shouted to him, but there was no response.

"Hello, Lou," shouted a rescue worker through an amplifier directed into the hole. "If you can hear me, rap on something."

There was no answer.

The call was repeated, but again there was no response.

Rescuers also lowered a microphone and still camera to detect possible signs of life. They also planned to lower a small television camera.

FELLIN:

I Should Have Been Out Earlier

HAZELTON, Pa. (UPI)—"I should have been out by the fifth day."

David Fellin told a news conference that is the way he felt about his 15 day entombment more than 300 feet underground at nearby Sheppton, Pa.

"I should have been rescued by manual labor," he said.

Although Fellin said he was not criticizing the rescue operations, he indicated that he would have been brought to the surface 10 days earlier had workers dug through the blocked passageway of the mine instead of drilling an escape shaft from the surface.

Fellin also said he believes Louis Bova, 42, the man left behind in the mine cave-in, was alive.

Sugar Price Jump

MONTREAL (CP) — Three major sugar refineries today announced a 20-cent increase in the price of refined sugar, bringing it to $10.80 a 100-pound bag.

The price increase is the first since last June 21, when the price was $14.80. Since that time the price has declined steadily.

Two Victorians Advance In Golf

Ricky Kent went down to an upset defeat at Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club this morning as two of four Victoria players in the running were ousted in the first round of the Canadian junior golf championship.

Kent lost, 3 and 1, to Martin Mason, Milton, Ont., and Don Wilson lost to Pierre Rossignol, Bathurst, N.B., 3 and 2.

Advancing to this afternoon's second round were Gary Smith, a 3 and 1 winner over Brian Bamford, Saskatoon, and Noel Pumfrey, who beat Don Henderson, Montreal, on the 19th.

Sympathy Marches

LONDON (CP)—The mass civil rights march on Washington today commanded world-wide support as sympathy demonstrations were planned in other cities including Munich, Tel Aviv and Cairo.

No Violence By Huge Throng

(See Story Page 3)

WASHINGTON (AP) — The great civil rights march on Washington hit a peak of more than 200,000 by police estimate today even as some of the demonstrators for jobs and equal freedom for all Americans began heading away from the city. The demonstration officially ended at 4:24 p.m. The huge throng began dispersing.

Police Chief Edward Murray described the gathering of Negroes and white sympathizers as "the largest crowd of participants" in his knowledge and perhaps the largest in this U.S. capital's history.

Murray estimated the throng at more than 200,000 at 3 p.m.

Packed elbow to elbow around the memorial, they heard their leaders call for the U.S. Congress to pass laws to end all manner of racial discrimination and enable the unemployed to find dignified work with decent wages.

It was a mixed crowd—black and white, young and old, Christians and Jews. Negroes predominated.

With the marchers was a nine-man delegation from Canada carrying big signs reading Canada Marches. Leaders of the group were Don Roebuck of Toronto and Peter Light of Vancouver. Both are white.

Josephine Baker, the famous old Negro entertainer who has lived in Paris for many years, looked down from the speaker's platform at the memorial and called it "salt and pepper—just what it should be, a united people."

"Fight for your rights, the rights of man," she urged. "continue on, you can't go wrong."

Dr. Ralph Bunche, U.S. undersecretary for political affairs in the United Nations secretariat, said the presence of demonstrators from both races was dramatic evidence that the problem of civil rights is a major one.

"Anyone who can't understand the significance of your presence here today is blind and deaf," Bunche, a Negro told the crowd.

Jovial Crowd, Religious Overtones

It was a jovial crowd—a crowd that cheered its leaders, clapped for its entertainers and laughed at the jokes.

Yet there were religious tones, not only from the presence of many clergymen of varying faiths but in the songs and reactions of the people themselves. There were times when it seemed half prayer meeting and half revival meeting.

And it was an orderly crowd. In the early afternoon, police reported there had been only two arrests—neither one of demonstrators. They identified those arrested as a deputy leader of the American Nazi Party, who disregarded warnings against trying to make speeches, and a 20-year-old youth who they said grabbed a banner from a marcher and broke it.

The small army of police and troops on duty in the area had little to do except run down false rumors. One of these was that a bomb had been planted in the Washington Monument. Park police cleared everybody out, checked the place and found nothing.

The day was fair and sunny. The temperature was 78 degrees at 1 p.m.

But scores in the crowd were overcome by emotions and heat. Most were treated at first-aid stations. Of the first 11 taken to District of Columbia General Hospital, only one was admitted. The others were treated and released.

Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth, Birmingham, Ala. Negro civil rights leader, brought a roar with a brief speech declaring "everybody in America has got to be free."

"We're going to moan together, groan together," he said, in the fight for "freedom, freedom, freedom!" Then the crowd roared its approval again.

Long before the ceremonies at the memorial, the police estimate of the crowd had climbed to 110,000. And for long after that, buses and cars kept dropping off new arrivals at the Washington Monument grounds, from where they marched to the Lincoln Memorial.

Advance crowd estimates had reached to 250,000.

The march of less than a mile from the monument to the Lincoln Memorial, actually got under way nearly a half hour before the 11:30 a.m. scheduled time.

Slowly, the crowd with a

By ALEX. YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Soviet Ambassador to Canada Ivan F. Shpedko today got a public reprimand from Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Pearson hotly described as "of dubious propriety indeed" Mr. Shpedko's recently voiced criticism of Canada's signing of an agreement for the supply of U.S. nuclear weapons to Canadian forces.

It was strictly a matter of domestic Canadian policy in which the ambassador had no right interfering, the prime minister made clear.

Ambassador Shpedko made his critical comments last weekend on a west coast visit. He took the position that the agreement made with the U.S. by Canada made Canada a new target in the event of war between the Soviets and the U.S.

The prime minister, a one-time diplomat and former external affairs minister, was asked as he entered a cabinet meeting if he had any comment on the propriety of the remarks of Mr. Shpedko. He replied quickly and warmly: "Yes, it is of very dubious propriety indeed to make any comment on a matter of domestic policy. If the Canadian ambassador said anything like that in Moscow undoubtedly ... would hear about it."

Would Mr. Pearson seek the ambassador's recall?

No, he answered, he wouldn't think any action so drastic as that would be required.

Having incurred the wrath of the Canadian prime minister, however, it is not expected that the ambassador's stay in Canada will be long.

Mr. Shpedko was appointed to the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa last spring and took over the post in April.

FULTON PREDICTS

Electric Rates Will Be Reduced

A $5,000,000 cut in electricity rates will be announced within days, Conservative leader Davie Fulton predicted today.

Mr. Fulton declared he has inside information that Premier Bennett will make the announcement.

He said his information came from "close sources."

The next Socred announcement, he predicted, will be settlement of the B.C. Electric case.

"For his own political survival Mr. Bennett knows that he must have a settlement with B.C. Power Corporation at the earliest possible moment," Mr. Fulton said.

He said the settlement would be "at any cost."

THRONE'S OWN STORY

'I Saw People and Doors That Weren't There'

Miners Henry Throne and David Fellin suffered pain, hunger, thirst and hallucinations while trapped for two weeks more than 300 feet underground in a Pennsylvania mine. Throne tells of the ordeal in this exclusive Associated Press article.

Copyright, 1963,
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

By HENRY THRONE
As told to The Associated Press

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—There were times when we saw people that weren't there and lights that weren't there and doors that weren't there.

Imagine seeing a door like a regular house door down in the bottom of a mine!

There was a time we heard rain and it really was raining coming down the drainage pipes and we thought the water would back up and flood the mine and drown us.

And while it was raining, I got mad—I must've been off my rocker a little—and I yelled at Davey: "Davey, I'm going home. I'm going alone if you don't want to come."

But, of course, I wasn't going anywhere. Not then. We were still more than 300 feet down. We still had a week to go before we could stand and walk again, not just sit and crawl, before we could breathe clear air again and see real light again.

But maybe I had better start at the beginning. That's the only way I can get it clear in my own mind. So much got so mixed up later we couldn't tell day from the night or Monday from Sunday.

That first day, that Tuesday, Aug. 13, I went to work about 7:15 in the morning. It was a nice sunny day. I had no special thoughts, no hunches about something bad. It was just an ordinary working day.

We—that's David Fellin, Louis Bova and me—we got down in the hole about 7:30 and by 8 we had filled the first buggy (a small wagon carrying coal to the surface). We were on the bottom of the mine, in a tunnel, where the sump water collects. Davey and me were on the right side of the shaft and Louis was on the left, separated by the buggy tracks.

Louis rapped three times for the buggy to go up and it went up and dumped the coal. Coming down, it got only half way down. That's when the big rumble started. And all hell broke loose. The timbers on the wall next to us caved in and the timbers on the ceiling above us came down. We just managed to step aside in time as the big chunks of wood and coal and stone fell wildly around us.

We could see Louis on the other side until the power line to our work lights broke. For the next couple of hours we could see a little around us with the lights on our helmets. But then they burned out. Our matches wouldn't burn down there. And that was the end of light for the next 5½ days.

In the first hour and a half, we just sat there against the wall while the debris piled higher before us in the tunnel. The rumbling from the cave-in lasted that long. There were others later.

I hollered for Louis but there was no answer. After a while we started crawling over the debris. All our tools—the picks, the bars, the shovels and our lunch pails—were lost under the pile except for a mason hammer and a hatchet. The mason hammer broke soon afterward. All we had was a hatchet to cut our way over the junk.

Oh, yes, we also had a plastic jug which we filled with the sulphur water that dripped into the tunnel.

We started crawling around in the dark looking for a way out. We went this way and we went that way and sometimes we thought we were back where we started and most times we just didn't know.

We were lost. But we kept crawling around like that for almost six days looking for a way out.

Always, sleeping, crawling or sitting, it was on sharp chunks of rock and coal. We got cut up a lot on our hands and knees and elbows.

To keep warm, I'd sit with my legs spread and Davey would sit between my legs with his back to me and I'd breathe on his back and neck. All the time we're rocking back and forth, also to keep warm. Then Davey would switch and do the same

'Reprehensible' Murder

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson today called for the "strongest condemnation" by the United Nations Security Council of the "reprehensible" murder of two Israeli farmers by raiders from Syria.

Stevenson used strong words in his speech to the council meeting held at the urgent request of Israel and Syria to consider the latest flare-up of violence along their portentially explosive border.

The American ambassador told the council that it had been called upon to consider Israel's complaint of the "wanton murder" of two of its citizens.

"The picture of two innocent farmers murdered in cold blood by a raiding party which struck them down in the fields distresses us all," he said.

Stevenson noted that the Aug. 19 incident north of the Sea of Galilee followed closely the kidnapping by Syrians of three Israelis, including two young girls, in the same region.

"The United States deplores these incidents," Stevenson said.

He said that while the report on the latest incident by the UN truce supervision organization called the evidence circumstantial, "its implications are clear enough."

The evidence, he said, added up to "a clear picture which permits objective observers to draw the same conclusions about the origin of the attack."

He said the UN truce investigation had failed to corroborate Syria's counter-complaint concerning a clash on Aug. 20.

Police Board Prepares For New Chief

Most new business items at the morning meeting were simply received and put over for reference to the new police chief John Gregory who is to formally take over Sept. 1.

For John Blackstock it was the last time he sat as police chief at a commission meeting after 13 years in the post.

He noted the monthly report showed 121 places had to be attended when found insecure by patrol officers.

"That's quite a jump, practically 50 per cent in one month," said Mr. Hamilton.

"Each case ties up a man for an hour or two so it's a serious matter to the department."

Referred to the new chief were decisions on sending officers to the Vancouver Police Academy for both recruit training and advanced courses in supervisory work.

The police academy informed the commission that its courses for new recruits last 18 weeks.

Introduction of police dogs into the department, also was referred to Chief Gregory for a report. Earlier commission approved funds for purchasing three dogs and training three handlers but so far no action has been taken.

Contract of $770 was awarded to Service Decorators, who submitted the lowest bid, for painting renovated portions of the police station's main floor layout.

BOOTLEGGERS ASSESSED $500 EACH

Two men accused of bootlegging in Chintown Sunday were each fined $300 this morning in city magistrate's court.

Lee Han, 515 Cormorant, and Yip Hop, 545 Fisgard, each pleaded guilty to charges they unlawfully kept liquor for sale.

Acting Sergeant Brian Ferguson said plain clothes officers kept watch Sunday and saw persons go into both addresses empty-handed and come out carrying parcels that looked like bottles or beer cartons.

Farris Has Income Tax Problems

OTTAWA (CP)—The 1952 and 1953 oil-permit transactions of Vancouver businessman Ralph K. Farris have been labelled by the Exchequer Court of Canada as fast profit-making ventures and not investments—and therefore subject to income tax.

Technically, however, the court has allowed Mr. Farris' appeals, but only at the request of the revenue department so it can formally reassess his income in both years to include alleged profit from trading in the shares of Charter Oil Company Limited, which he acquired in 1950.

The ruling is made in a July 26 judgment by Mr. Justice J. D. Kearney. The judgment became available today.

Mr. Farris, president of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company, was charged last Thursday with three counts of perjury in connection with evidence he gave during 1958 and 1962 Ontario Securities Act investigations about the disposition of Northern Ontario shares.

His tax appeals have been before Exchequer Court since Dec. 31, 1959. For both tax years, the basic issue is whether the money he received in selling the petroleum exploration permits was a capital gain, or—in the words of the law—"an adventure or concern in the nature of trade" and thus taxable.

He claimed he had no taxable income for 1952—that he earned only $500 for the first month of the year from charter oil, and that his personal exemptions were $2,450. A dispute over whether he filed a 1952 income tax return was settled by the court by upholding a revenue department penalty of $500.

OLD-TIMERS GUARANTEED FEAST OF FRESH SALMON

Old folks at Matson Lodge are in line for a great salmon feast. Total of 351 pounds were caught over the weekend in the Admiral's Matson Lodge Benefit Derby and turned over to Brig. V. C. Underhill.

This was the first year for the derby and over 200 anglers were out Saturday and Sunday.

Derby is sponsored by the Royal Canadian Navy Anglers' Association.

Other winners were J. Olivier, second prize for 30-pounder; Sid Alexander, third for 25-pounder, and his son, Robert, won the junior prize for a 22-pounder; Mrs. Dick James, ladies' prize for 22-pounder, and top coho prize went to Miss Elizabeth Ball for a 10-pounder.

New Heart Valve Grafted Into Woman

LEEDS, England (Reuters)—Surgeons here have successfully transplanted a dead man's heart valve to the heart of a woman undergoing an operation, it was announced today.

The woman's heart was stopped for three hours during the 12-hour operation, performed a week ago.

After the operation, watched by surgeons from the United States, Italy and Turkey, the woman, 38-year-old Mrs. Violet Scott, was reported to be "doing fine."

Mrs. Scott's heart now is beating normally again and she is expected to be discharged from the hospital shortly.

The valve was removed from the dead man with the permission of his relatives and was kept in deep freeze.

Pension Plan Goes Ahead

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today the government intends to go ahead as planned with work on the Canada Pensions Plan despite the calling of two and possibly three provincial elections this fall.

He told reporters after a two-hour cabinet meeting that preparations are nearing completion for a federal-provincial conference opening Sept. 9 at which details of the pension proposal will be given to the provinces.

The desire of Ontario and Quebec to introduce their own portable pensions schemes creates "quite a problem," which he hopes can be avoided, the prime minister said.

"It would be quite a problem if the two largest provinces found it impossible to cooperate with the federal scheme, and I hope that will not happen."

NEWSMAN HELD IN FRACAS AT DOCKYARD

HALIFAX (UPI) — Ronald Brunskill, 32, a Halifax newspaper reporter, appeared in city police court today charged with assault causing bodily harm to a commissionaire on duty at the naval dockyard.

Brunskill, a shipping reporter for the Chronicle-Herald and the Mail Star, pleaded innocent and was released on $1,000 bail until Sept. 13 for trial.

The incident was alleged to have occurred when Brunskill attempted to enter the dockyard on an assignment for his newspaper.

The newspaper said that naval officials had authorized the reporter's admission before he went
